The mean pressure, temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph

o, overcast, d, drizzling rain, p, passing temporary showers

No 142 —Notification —The Lieutenant Governor of Bengal proposes to make the following modifications in rule 2 of the rules passed by him under the provisions of sections XI and XII of Act V (B C) of 1864 in Notification No 151 of the 6th June 1893

2 Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below —

Class I —To include all steamers, flats and barges, and such other square built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor be included

Class II —To include all vessels of the usual native types of build

The net tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall for the purposes of Act V (B C) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements —

Class II —

A —The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied

B —The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth

C —In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only

D —Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty, for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement

Class I —

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II, shall be increased by one half For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only In the case of steamers the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one third as an allowance for engine space

For approved Firms constantly engaged in traffic, the way bills on board a vessel of Class I, certified to shew the total actual weight of cargo carried, will be accepted as the basis for assessment of tolls

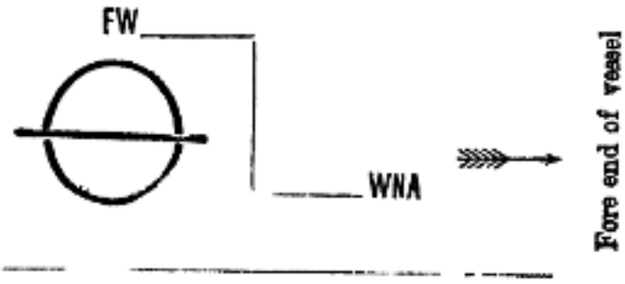
Starboard Side



Port Side

Starboard Side

Port Side

The arrow ( ) points in the direction of the vessel's head

The provisions of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, Chapter II shall have effect as if any such maximum load line were drawn through the centre of the disc

3 Such maximum load lines shall be as follows, namely —

For fresh water Indian summer,
" fresh water,
" Indian summer (Indian fair weather season),
" summer (Indian foul weather season),
" winter,
" winter, North Atlantic,

and shall be distinguished by initial letters permanently and conspicuously marked opposite such horizontal lines as aforesaid, such initial letters being as follows:—

F W I S —Fresh water, Indian summer
F W —Fresh water
I S —Indian summer (Indian fair weather season)
S —Summer (Indian foul weather season)
W —Winter
W N A.—Winter North Atlantic

The upper edge of the horizontal line passing through the centre of the disc shall always indicate the summer freeboard in salt water

4 Steam-ships shall be marked with such of the horizontal lines as aforesaid as are applicable to the nature of their employment, and sailing ships shall be marked with such of the above mentioned lines, in addition to the summer load line, as indicate the maximum load line for fresh water and for North Atlantic winter, but sailing ships engaged solely in the coasting trade shall only be marked, in addition to the Indian summer and summer load line, with the line indicating the maximum load line in fresh water

5 The said disc, and the lines, or marks, to be used in connection therewith, shall be painted white or yellow on a dark ground, or black on a light ground and the position of the disc, and of each of the lines, shall, in the case of iron and steel vessels, be permanently marked by centre punch marks, and shall, in the case of wooden vessels, be sunk for their breadths into the planking a depth of not less than one quarter of an inch

A diagram showing the distance in feet and inches from the deck line to the centre of the disc and the relative position of the other lines shall be issued with and as a part of the certificate of approval (or alteration) of the load line

6 Application for a certificate of approval of the position of the disc or any alteration thereof shall be made to the Port Officer of Calcutta by the owner or agent in the Form marked L L 1 in the schedule hereto annexed, and the application shall be accompanied by the prescribed fee After survey a certificate shall be issued by the Port Officer in duplicate in the form in the schedule hereto annexed which is applicable to the case one part shall be delivered to the applicant, and the other part shall be recorded by the Port Officer

The managing owner, agent or master shall also forthwith, on the delivery to him or his agent of any such certificate as aforesaid, cause the same to be framed and put up in some conspicuous part of the ship so as to be visible to all persons on board the same, and shall cause it to be continued so put up so long as such certificate remains in force and such ship is in use

On a certificate of approval ceasing to have effect, application shall at once be made by the registered managing owner of the ship for the granting of a new certificate of approval, and the old certificate shall be delivered up to the Government who issued and who shall cancel the same

7 The master of every British or British Indian ship shall, before she leaves any port in India for the purpose of proceeding to sea, enter in the official log all the particulars stated in the certificate so issued as aforesaid if not previously entered

8 For the purpose of these rules the following periods shall mean "Indian summer" (fair weather season), and "summer," respectively —

	Fair season (Indian summer)	Summer
(a) Bay of Bengal, east of Tuticorin	15th November to 25th May	26th May to 14th November
(b) West Coast Sind, Bombay and Malabar	1st September to 25th May	26th May to 31st August

The seasons as prescribed should have reference to the "nature of the voyage" in all cases

9 The following rules are prescribed with respect to certificates of approval and their duration —

(a) As regards iron and steel ships, whether classed or unclassed, and classed wooden ships, the certificate shall cease to have effect if and so soon as the class of the ship (if classed) is either changed or withdrawn, or if and so soon as any deterioration has taken place in the structural condition of the ship, whether classed or unclassed Such certificate shall be in one of the forms L L 2 or L L 3 in the schedule hereto, as the case may be

(b) As regards unclassed wooden ships which have been opened out for survey, the certificate shall be granted for a fixed time varying with the age and condition of the ship, at the expiration of which it shall cease to have effect Such certificate shall be in the form L L 3A in the schedule hereto

(c) As regards unclassed wooden ships which have not been opened out for survey, no limit of time shall be imposed in the certificate, which shall be in the form L L. 3B in the schedule hereto

Maximum load line in summer the centre of the disc
Maximum load line in winter, or Indian foul weather season, feet inches below the centre of the disc
Maximum load-line in North Atlantic winter, feet inches below the centre of the disc

Note—In accordance with the rules made by the Government, the disc and lines must be permanently marked by centre punch marks or cutting, and the particulars given in this certificate are to be entered in the official log The certificate must also be framed and put up in some conspicuous part of the ship

The examinations will begin as stated above, and each private student will pay a fee of Rs 2 to the head of the institution at which he appears for examination The balance after payment of expenses (stationery, &c) will go as remuneration to the examiners

3 Applications for permission to appear must be sent so as to reach this office not later than the 1st November with the following information, &c —

From private candidates proper

(a) The name of the school in which the candidate last studied
(b) The transfer certificate (in original) granted to the candidate from the same, or
(c) In the case of a candidate who previously appeared at the Entrance examination, the Registrar's receipt (in original) for the fee paid
(d) Age of the candidate

From school masters

(e) A certificate from the Secretary or Proprietor of the school in which the candidate is serving to the effect that he has been a bonâ fide paid teacher of the school in which he teaches, and has been so ever since the 1st June 1896 In case of a school master who has served in more than one school, he must produce certificates from the several schools in proof of his having been a bonâ fide paid teacher all along since the 1st June 1896

Failing to produce the above certificate or certificates, a school master will be subject to the rules applicable to bonâ fide private candidates, as given above

4 If this office is satisfied that all is in order, the Inspector will countersign and return the application, and this then will be the candidate's passport for admission to the test examination

5 The head master of an institution (one of those named above) should direct private students to appear before him not later than the 1st December with their applications for admission to the Entrance examination, and in the case of those candidates who have satisfied the test, he will cause them to sign their application forms in his presence, and will grant the necessary certificates and then forward the applications to this office for countersignature, after which they will be sent by the Inspector direct to the candidates.

6 Expedition is necessary in carrying out all these instructions, and candidates should be most careful to give their names and addresses written legibly and distinctly, so that no mistake may be likely to occur

7 Under no circumstances should the entrance fee be sent to this office

8 Private students will understand that the test examination of any schools other than those named above will not be accepted by this office

9 Addresses of private students should be supplied to this office

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th July 1896

No 17 of 1896

A Bill to provide for the segregation of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the segregation of pauper lepers and the control of lepers following certain callings It is hereby enacted as follows

1 (1) This Act may be called the Lepers Act 1896

Title extent and commencement

(2) It extends to the whole of British India but

(3) It shall not come into force in any part thereof until the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council has by notification in the local Gazette declared it applicable thereto

2 In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context —

Definitions

(a) 'leper' means any person suffering from any variety of leprosy in whom the process of ulceration has commenced and

(b) 'pauper leper' means a leper—

(a) who has in a public place solicited alms or exposed or exhibited any sores wounds bodily ailment or deformity with the object of exciting charity or of obtaining alms, or

(b) who is at large without any ostensible means of subsistence

3 The Local Government may by notification in the local Gazette appoint any place to be a leper asylum for the purposes of this Act and define the local areas from which lepers may be sent to such asylum and may in like manner alter or cancel any such notification

Appointment of lepers asylum by Local Government

4 The Local Government may appoint either by name or by virtue of his office any Medical Officer of the Government to be an Inspector of Lepers and any person to be a Superintendent of a Leper Asylum with such establishment as may in its opinion be necessary and every officer or person so appointed shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of section 21 of the Indian Penal Code

Appointment of Inspectors of Lepers and Superintendents of Asylums

5 The Local Government shall constitute for every leper asylum appointed under section 3 a Board consisting of not less than three members one of whom at least shall be a Medical Officer of the Government

Constitution of Boards

6 Within any local area which has been notified under section 3 any police officer may arrest without a warrant any person who appears to him to be a pauper leper

Arrest of pauper lepers

7 Every person arrested under the last foregoing section shall forthwith be taken before an Inspector of Lepers who —

Person arrested to be taken before Inspector

(a) if he finds that such person is not a leper within the meaning of section 2, shall give him a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule whereupon such person shall be immediately released from arrest

(b) if he finds that such person is a leper within the meaning of section 2 shall give to the police officer in whose custody the leper is a certificate in Form B set forth in the schedule whereupon the leper shall without unnecessary delay be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction under this Act

8 When it appears to any Magistrate authorized in this behalf by the Local Government upon the certificate in writing in Form P set forth in the schedule of an Inspector of Lepers, that any person is a leper and if it further appears to the Magistrate that the person is a pauper leper he shall after recording such further evidence (if any) as he may think fit to require and his order thereon send the pauper leper in charge of a police officer together with an order in Form C set forth in the schedule, to a leper asylum where such leper

shall be detained until discharged by order of the Board constituted for the asylum under section 5

Penalty for certain acts

9 Whoever being a leper pursues within any local area which has been notified under section 3 any of the following callings or does any of the following acts namely —

(a) practises as a medical practitioner or works as a barber washerman water carrier baker confectioner tailor draper haberdasher a domestic servant

(b) sells any food drink or drug intended for human consumption

(c) bathes at a public well or bathing place or takes water from any public drinking fountain well hydrant tank or reservoir or

(d) rides in any public conveyance

shall be punishable with fine not exceeding five rupees

Provided that when any person accused of an offence under this section the Magistrate before whom he is attended shall cause him to be examined by an Inspector of Lepers and shall not proceed with the case unless such Inspector furnishes a certificate in Form B set forth in the schedule in respect of such person

Conviction of certain offences punishable under the last foregoing section

10 Whenever any leper who has been convicted of an offence punishable under the last foregoing section is again convicted of any offence punishable under that section the Magistrate may in addition to or in lieu of any punishment to which such leper may be liable —

(a) require him to enter into a bond with one or more sureties binding him to depart forthwith from the local area specified under section 3 in which he is and not to enter that or any other local area so notified until an Inspector of Lepers shall have given him a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule or

(b) may send him in charge of a police officer with an order in Form D set forth in the schedule to a leper asylum where such leper shall be detained until discharged by order of the Board appointed for the asylum under section 5

Power to remove lepers to asylum

11 Whoever having been sent to a leper asylum under an order of a Magistrate in Form C or Form D set forth in the schedule escapes from or leaves the asylum without the permission in writing of the Superintendent thereof may be arrested by any police officer without a warrant and upon arrest shall be forthwith taken back to the leper asylum

Inspection by Board

12 The Medical Officer and one or more other members of the Board constituted for any leper asylum under section 5 shall once at least in every quarter inspect the leper asylum for which such Board is constituted and shall see and examine as far as circumstances will permit every leper detained therein under the provisions of this Act and the order for admission of every leper so detained since the last visit of the Board and shall enter in a book to be kept for the purpose any remarks which they may deem proper in regard to the management and condition of the asylum and the lepers so detained

Order of discharge by Board

13 The Medical Officer and not less than two other members of the Board constituted for any leper asylum under section 5 may at any time by an order in writing in Form E set forth in the schedule and signed by them direct the discharge from the leper asylum of any leper detained therein under the provisions of this Act

Appeal

14 Any person other than a pauper leper in respect of whom an Inspector of Lepers has issued a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule declaring him to be a leper or has refused to issue a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule may appeal to such officer as may be appointed by the Local Government in that behalf and the decision of such officer shall be final

Power to make rules

15 The Local Government may by notification in the local Gazette, make rules—

(a) for the guidance of all or any of the officers discharging any duty under this Act

(b) for the management of and the maintenance of discipline in a leper asylum and

(c) generally for carrying out the purposes of this Act and may in like manner alter or cancel any rule so made

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The expediency of providing proper persons and suitable safe guard and of forbidding lepers generally from following certain trades and callings connected with the bodily requirements of human beings was urged by the Leprosy Commission which visited India six years ago and since then steps have been taken in some provinces to give effect to the recommendation of the Commission In 1877 an Act was passed by the Bengal Council to provide for the arrest examination and segregation in properly appointed asylum of lepers having no other visible means of subsistence beyond begging for charity for enabling local bodies to assist in furnishing funds for the maintenance and medical treatment of pauper lepers so secluded and for restraining lepers from engaging in certain occupations of the kind already referred to The present Bill has been prepared on the lines of the Bengal Act but so as to extend to the whole of India and to apply to any part thereof on and not before the issue of a notification by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council declaring it to be applicable thereto Where as in Bengal adequate provision on the subject has already been made the proposed Act will not be so applied and the local law will be allowed to continue in force

CHINA EAST COAST—Liau Tung gulf

Liau river approach—Temporary alteration in light vessel

The British Admiralty has given notice (No 347 of 1896) that on 30th March 1896, the light vessel Newchwang at the entrance to Liau river was temporarily replaced by the light vessel Omega

The Omega shows two fixed lights placed vertically the upper one red elevated 65 feet above the sea, and visible in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles, the lower one white elevated 41 feet above the sea and visible 10 miles

A riding light is hoisted to the forestay at a height of 6 feet above the rail

Should the lights be lowered for trimming a small white light and a flare up light will be shown

Approximate position, lat 40° 34 N , long 122° 0½ E

If this light vessel is driven from her station to a position where she is of no use as a guide to shipping the usual lights will not be exhibited, but a red light will be shown at each end of the vessel the ball being struck as soon as possible, and until struck will be surmounted by a red flag

Also , the fog signal on board the Omega will consist of a gong, which, during thick or foggy weather will be sounded at intervals of one minute

Labuan—Sunken rock in channel between Kiamsan point and Kuraman island

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No 854 of 1896) of the existence of a sunken rock in the channel between Kiamsan point and Kuraman island, Labuan —

This rock is reported to be a very small pinnacle lying nearly in mid channel where 7 fathoms are charted, with Kiamsan point bearing N E ¼ E, and the south east extreme of Kuraman island S ¾ E

The estimated depth on the rock is about 16 feet at low water

NOTE —Attention is especially drawn to the notification in Supplement, 1893, page 22, to China Sea Directory, volume II 1889—"Mariners are however warned that the channel between these islands should not be used, pending a thorough survey of the locality"

AUSTRALIA EAST COAST—INNER ROUTE

Amended position of Pearn reef

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners, No 71 dated 7th May 1895, issued by this office the British Admiralty has given further notice (No 334 of 1896) that telegraphic information has been received from Lieutenant and Commander W V Howard H M S Dart, dated 23rd June 1896 that he has found a pinnacle rock with a depth of 10 feet on it at low water and 12 fathoms close around, in a position with the centre of Halfway island bearing N 27°E, distant $3\frac{3}{16}$ miles

Approximate position, lat 11 25 39″ S, long 142 56 2″ E

This is most probably the shoal reported by Captain Pearn in 1876, which has hitherto been searched for in vain in the position assigned to it and also the patch on which the steam vessel Duke of Buckingham touched in 1895, marked "reported 1895" on Admiralty Chart

NOTE —The 'track recommended' has been expunged from the Admiralty Chart in the vicinity of Pearn reef, pending the receipt of further information

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORTS OF THE ALIPORE AND HAZARIBAGH REFORMATORY SCHOOLS FOR THE YEAR 1895

No. 50P. F.

Dated Naini Tal, the 10th August 1896

READ—

Letter No. 6022, dated the 8th June 1896, from the Inspector General of Jails, submitting the Annual Reports on the Alipore and Hazaribagh Reformatory Schools for the year 1895.

Read also—

The Reports for the years 1894 and 1893, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

In accordance with the orders conveyed in this office letter No. 220P., dated the 18th January 1896, these reports have been submitted after the Annual Administration Report of the Jail Department was laid before Government, and the tabular statements have been drawn up in the revised forms prescribed. There is still, however, a want of uniformity in the order in which the several subjects are dealt with, which should be remedied

2 The total number of boys in the two institutions on the 31st December 1894 was 562, of whom 224 were in the Alipore school and 338 at Hazaribagh The number admitted into the two schools, respectively, during the year was 52 and 67, making a grand total of 681 Of these, 131 boys were released, 1 died and 1 escaped, leaving, at the close of the year 1895, 213 boys at Alipore and 335 at Hazaribagh, or a total of 548, of whom 363 were Hindus, 157 Muhammadans, 21 aboriginals, and 7 Native Christians The general health of the two schools is reported to have been good, only one death having occurred, against four in the previous year One escape took place from the outer garden of the Alipore school, but the boy was recaptured, and he and two others who aided his escape were flogged and the warder at fault punished No escape occurred from the Hazaribagh school

3 Offences, punishments and marks —The total number of offences committed in the Alipore school rose from 75 to 83, and the percentage of boys punished to daily average number of boys rose from 25 to 38 The increase occurred chiefly under the heading "Destroying Government property," but the Superintendent reports that the discipline and behaviour of the boys continued satisfactory At Hazaribagh the number of offences fell from 336 to 322, of which 149 were of idling The larger number of offences reported from this school, and the difference in the manner in which they were dealt with, would seem to indicate diversity between the systems of discipline followed in the two institutions At Hazaribagh no case of solitary confinement occurred during the year, while at Alipore, with only one fourth as many punishments, solitary confinement was ordered in 16 cases The mark system is reported to have worked satisfactorily, the average number of boys entitled to marks hearg 159 at Alipore and 228 at Hazaribagh, against 160 and 228, respectively, in 1894, and the average weekly money earnings amounted to Rs 5 15 1 at Alipore and Rs 13 11 at Hazaribagh, against Rs 6 1 1 and Rs 11 9 1, respectively, in 1894

4 Instruction and gymnastics —The boys at both schools were employed on blacksmith's work, tinsmith's work, and carpentry At Alipore they were also employed in book binding, printing and cane work, and at Hazaribagh in weaving, tailoring and shoe making At both institutions the boys were instructed in Hindustani, Bengali and arithmetic, the more advanced boys being taught English as well Attendance at the night school has, under the orders contained in the Resolution of last year, been made compulsory instead of optional as it previously was The teachers are reported to have attended to their duties carefully in both schools, but the staff at Hazaribagh is said to be inadequate for the number of boys The Inspector General should consider this question, and submit proposals, if necessary, to Government Gymnastics are practised for one hour per diem at Hazaribagh, and the boys are reported to have shown considerable skill in the exercises taught At Alipore they receive one hour's instruction in gymnastics every alternate day, and are said to take cordially to this part of their training

5 Character reports of released boys —The reports received from District Magistrates in regard to 102 of the boys released during the year, show that 55 were well conducted, 24 were not traceable, 7 were in jail, 12 were viewed with suspicion, and 2 were pursuing the trade taught in the school Five boys released during the two years 1894 and 1895, are reported to be following their own trades, which had been taught them while under detention As the Superintendent of the Hazaribagh school remarks, it is apparently hopeless to expect that boys belonging to any of the agricultural castes will continue, after release, to follow any of the trades taught to them in the schools

6 Manufactures —The same industries were carried on as in the previous year The total profits from manufactures rose from Rs 16,640 to Rs 16,679, of which Rs 12,763 were made in the Alipore school and Rs 3,916 at Hazaribagh The larger profits at Alipore are due to the earnings from book binding and carpentry, the two chief industries taught At Hazaribagh the greater portion of the profits accrued from blanket weaving The average earning per head at Alipore was Rs 64 2 2, and at Hazaribagh Rs 17 7-6

Head of Expenditure	Alipore School				Hazaribagh School
	Total cost		Cost per head		Total cost		Cost per head

In lieu of travelling allowance

In the case of each school there has been a slight reduction both in total cost and in cost per head It is desirable, as suggested by the Superintendent of the Hazaribagh school, to follow the practice in the corresponding jail return, and place the item of construction and repairs below the total in this return That item is casual and subject to great fluctuation, and does not properly enter into the calculation of the cost of the schools per head of population

8 General —At Alipore the printing industry is said to keep two presses constantly at work, and two more have been indented for Sir Alexander Mackenzie is satisfied, after personal inspection of the school, that further accommodation is required for the workshop, and instructions have accordingly been issued to the Public Works Department to add a second story to one of the workshops As yet no boy has been received from Assam at Hazaribagh, and the Superintendent thinks, in consequence, that the necessity for providing increased accommodation at that institution is not urgent The daily average population during the year (344), however, was the highest on record, and as the school will, at present, only admit of the reception of 357 boys, it may soon become necessary to enlarge the building Both institutions appear to have been sufficiently inspected by official and non official visitors during the year

9 The Lieutenant Governor notices with pleasure the general interest taken by the Board of Management and the Committee of Visitors in the two institutions, and the good work done by Mr Hill, Deputy Superintendent of the Hazaribagh School The Government heard with regret of the death of Mr C J Courtenay since the close of the year The Alipore School had in him a most efficient Superintendent

Order —Ordered that a copy of the Reports and a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the President of the Board of Management of the Reformatory School at Alipore, for information and for communication to the members of the Board

Ordered also that a copy of the Reports and a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector General of Jails, for information, and for communication to the Superintendent of the Hazaribagh Reformatory School

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory) The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore and, other things being equal, reads therefore 003 lower The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0 6° higher, and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0 6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory

The mean pressure, temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The mouth of the rain gauge is one foot above the ground

No 142 —Notification —The Lieutenant Governor of Bengal proposes to make the following modifications in rule 2 of the rules passed by him under the provisions of sections XI and XII of Act V (B C) of 1864 in Notification No 151 of the 6th June 1893

2 Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below —

Class I —To include all steamers, flats and barges and such other square built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor be included

Class II —To include all vessels of the usual native types of build

The net tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall for the purposes of Act V (B C) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements —

Class II —

A —The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern measured along the water line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied

B —The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth

C —In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted and exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only

D —Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty, for the purpose of loading therein the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II shall be increased by one half For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only In the case of steamers the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one third as an allowance for engine space

For approved Firms constantly engaged in traffic, the way bills on board a vessel of Class I, certified to shew the total actual weight of cargo carried will be accepted as the basis for assessment of tolls

MAINTENANCE OF ROADS OUT OF PROVINCIAL REVENUES

The Hon'ble Mr Risley said —"The Council will remember that at the Meeting of the 11th July last, the following question was asked by the Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen —

'Will the Government be pleased to state how many miles of roads, metalled and unmetalled, existed in each district, the maintenance of which was a charge on the Provincial Revenues when the Road Cess Act came into operation, and how many miles of these roads, metalled and unmetalled, are now maintained out of the Provincial Revenues?'

"I said at the time that owing to the form in which the accounts relating to these roads were kept by the Public Works Department, the statistics required by the reply to the question were still incomplete

"I now lay on the table three statements, A, B and C, furnishing as full particulars as can be gathered from the books maintained by the Public Works Department Before the introduction of the Road Cess the distinction now recognised between Provincial and District roads did not exist Roads were classified as Imperial or Local, the former being maintained as a rule from Imperial Revenues, and the latter as a rule from the Amalgamated District Road Fund, which consisted of the net balances remaining after meeting the first charges on a number of separate funds, mostly of a local character, supplemented by contributions from the one per cent Income tax Fund and from Imperial Revenues Shortly after the passing of the Road Cess Act, Sir George Campbell issued the following order —

'In introducing the new system of local taxation under the Road Cess Act, the Lieutenant Governor desires to act with the utmost liberality towards local interests For many years past all the local road and ferry toll collections have been brought into one Central Road Fund, and distributed at the pleasure of Government The Lieutenant Governor has determined that this system shall now cease, and that all the sums collected from local roads and canals, and from all ferries, except those on roads maintained from the general revenues, shall be made over to the districts and municipalities in whose limits the lines of communication lie The main lines of arterial communication both roads and canals, will be maintained from Provincial Funds, and the collections from them will be credited to the Provincial treasury, all others will be made over to the District Fund receipts and expenditure together

'The Lieutenant Governor does not propose to make any further allotments from general sources to the rich and populous districts, which may be considered quite capable of paying their own way Anything that can be spared from Provincial needs will rather be given in aid of poor districts which have suffered from peculiar difficulties of communication'

"In January, 1872, detailed effect was given to the principle thus laid down The main lines of road shown in Statement A, in length 1,764¾ miles, were classified as Provincial roads, and at the same time the Calcutta Canals, the Nadia rivers and the Backergunge Canals were made a Provincial charge Of the small local roads entered in Statement B, comprising in all 981 miles, 79½ miles were transferred to Railways and Municipalities, and 901¼ miles, costing about Rs 84,173 a year, were made over to District Road Committees to be maintained from the Road Cess and from the proceeds of ferries on district roads Grants in aid amounting to Rs 4,98,238, besides the balance of the assignments for 1871 72, aggregating Rs 2,08,720, were also given for the year 1872 73, in order to enable the Committees to carry on work on these and the local roads then existing until their income from Road Cess began to come in Since then the 734 miles of road, referred to in Statement C, have been made over to Local Authorities, with the grants entered in column 6 of the Statement

The only case in which a portion of a Provincial road has been transferred to a Local Authority without a corresponding grant occurred in 1879, when 18 miles of the Grand Trunk Road from Dhobi to Gaya were made over to the Road Cess Committee of that district."

RATHJATRA CEREMONY

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Is it true, as stated in the Hitabadi newspaper of the 26th June, that the Magistrate of Midnapore has interfered with the Rathjatra ceremony by imposing a fee varying from Rs 4 to Rs 16 on every Rath or holy car? Is the Government aware that there are poor people who do not spend more than six or seven rupees per annum in all upon performing this religious ceremony, and that it will be a great hardship to them if they are not allowed to perform this ceremony without paying such a heavy annual fee? Will the Government kindly state what steps, if any, it intends to take in this matter?

The Hon'ble Mr Risley replied —

"The facts of the case are these —It is the duty of the Magistrates to see that Rath processions are so conducted as not to endanger life Accordingly the Magistrate of Midnapore issued in 1885 an order on the owners of a considerable number of large cars requiring them, before using the cars, to obtain a certificate of soundness of the woodwork and ropes from a Public Works or District Road Committee's officer not under the rank of a Sub Overseer This system of examination has been in force ever since without objection This year it was pointed out to the Magistrate by the District Engineer that the examination of these cars was not part of the ordinary duties of the officers of the District Board, and that a fee varying according to the distance to be travelled from the head quarters should be allowed Recognizing the fairness of this claim, the Magistrate fixed a fee of from Rs 4 to Rs 16 It appears that 41 applications for examination were received, in only 23 of which fees were charged The Magistrate reports that whatever objections were made either on the ground of the cars being too small to require examination, or of the owner being too poor to pay the fee, were fully considered, and that in only one case has he since learnt that the owner was not fully able to pay

"The Hon'ble Member can see the Magistrate's report if he desires to peruse it"

Mr WHEELER'S CASE.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

With reference to the reply given at the meeting of the Council on the 18th July last in answer to my question regarding the Magistrate of Saran, the Hon'ble Mr Risley stated that "the Officiating Collector of Saran finding on reviewing the Excise Returns that breaches of the Law were not being adequately dealt with, 'drew the attention of the Deputy Magistrate to the question of the amount of punishment in Excise cases,' and remarked that 'the general tendency is to be far too lenient, especially in tari cases'"

I have now to ask —

(a) Whether the remarks were made on the Excise Returns alluded to, or whether a separate Circular was issued to all Deputy Magistrates?

(b) Whether Mr Wheeler did not issue instructions to inflict "exemplary punishment" in these cases? and (c) Whether the Government will be pleased to lay a copy of Mr Wheeler's remarks in this connection on the table?

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY replied —

"Mr Wheeler's remarks were based on the Excise Returns, and were embodied in the following Circular order —

'The attention of all Deputy Magistrates is drawn to the question of the amount of punishments in excise cases The general tendency is to be far too lenient, especially in tari cases I know it will be argued that the accused are poor labourers and cannot pay more, but such persons are often acting for others, and there appears a tendency to push the argument to excess

'It should be remembered that for every excise case detected there are numbers that are not, and when detection is successful, punishment should be more exemplary'

"The principle that offences against the revenue should be visited with deterrent punishment is one which is recognised in all civilised countries, and has been repeatedly affirmed by the Government of India"

TEXT BOOKS IN GOVERNMENT EXAMINATIONS

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

With reference to the reply given at the meeting of the Council on the 11th July last in answer to my question regarding the text books prescribed for the different examinations and other cognate matters, the Hon'ble Mr Finucane stated, among other things, that as regards those examinations which are under the Lieutenant Governor's control, "the books are read during a two years' course, and in so far as they are fixed by the Department, they are changed either wholly or partially from year to year, so as to encourage meritorious authors and text books and to avoid anything like a monopoly" I have now to ask whether it is not the case that—

(a) A book on Hygiene, written by the Secretary of the Text book Committee, who is a high Government official, has been in use as the text book in Bengali for the Middle Vernacular Examination for more than twenty five years?

(b) Another book, a History of Bengal written in the Bengali language, has been in use for nearly twenty years for the Upper Primary Examination?

Whether the Government, in view of the fact that the books referred to in the first part of the question have so long been in use against the declared policy of the Government not to encourage monopolies, will consider the propriety of substituting other books for them?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"In the statement laid upon the table in connection with my reply to the Hon'ble Member's question on the same subject put on the 11th July, the two books referred to in his present question were specified as permanent text books My observations that certain books were changed from year to year by the Department did not apply to these or to other text-books, in subjects other than Bengali literature, which are described as permanent in the statement

"With regard to the two books named in the question—

(a) The book on Hygiene (Swasthy Raksha, by Rai Radhika Prasanna Mukherjee Bahadur, Inspector of Schools, Presidency Circle,) has been prescribed as a text book in that subject (not in Bengali literature, as the question seems to imply) for the Middle Scholarship Examination since 1880, and was in use in schools before that date

(b) The History of Bengal, in Bengali, by the late Babu Rajkrishna Mukherjee, has been on the authorized list since 1875 For many years it was the only text book approved by the Text book Committee in that subject for the Upper Primary Standard, and consequently it was in general use, though not authoritatively prescribed In the orders of Government No 267, dated the 23rd January, 1894, it was for the first time prescribed as a text book for the Upper Primary Examination

"The Director of Public Instruction has already decided to remove from the permanent list the second of the two books named in the question, which is now to stand on an equal footing with the three other books on the same subject approved by the Central Text book Committee, two of which, however, cover only a part of the course in History prescribed for the Upper Primary Standard

"The first book named in the question has been selected as a permanent text book on the recommendation of the Central Text book Committee, who were requested by the Director of Public Instruction in December, 1894, at the instance of Government, to examine all the approved text books on Hygiene and recommend one for permanent use They reported unanimously in favour of Swasthya Raksha, by Rai Radhika Prasanna Mookerjea Bahadur In conformity with their recommendation, the book, which had been in authorised use since 1880, in combination with the text book prescribed by the Government of India, was again prescribed as the single text book in the subject of Hygiene for the Middle Scholarship standard The Lieutenant Governor would have no objection to re considering this question with the view of ascertaining whether it is now desirable to substitute another text book in that subject, but in the first place there is no other text book in Hygiene for that standard approved by the Text book Committee, and in the second place, the whole question of the course in science, including Sanitation, for Upper Primary and Middle schools is shortly to be taken into separate consideration"

COLLECTION CHARGES OF ROAD AND PUBLIC WORKS CESSES

The Hon'ble Mr A M Bose asked—

(a) Will the Government state the principle on which the amount of Rs 44,900 was fixed in 1879, as collection charges on account of the Public Works Cess, and the total amount of collection on account of Road Cess and on account of Public Works Cess, as well the charges for collection for the two Cesses together, in the year 1879 and at the present time? Had the Government to incur any additional cost, on the imposition of the Road Cess, for the superior establishment concerned in the supervision and control of the collection of that Cess, and if so, how much?

(b) Will the Government be pleased to consider the propriety of placing the proportion between the collection charges for the two Cesses on a fairer basis than would appear to obtain at present, when the amount which is paid from the Provincial Revenues for collecting the Public Works Cess is less than one fifth of that paid by the District Boards for collecting the Road Cess, the total amount of which is rather less than that of the Public Works Cess?

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY replied —

"(a) The principle on which the sum of Rs 44,500 was fixed in 1879 was explained in my reply of the 11th July last, and is more fully set out in the following extract, paragraph 20 of Board's letter No 498A of 18th July, 1878, and paragraph 2 of Government Order No 2, dated 31st January, 1879 —

'20 It is evident from the reports and communications which the Board have received that most, if not all, District Road Cess Committees anticipate that Government will contribute from the Provincial Revenues half the cost of the establishments maintained for the collection of the two cesses The Board are well aware that there are strong arguments that may be brought forward against this claim but as the Road Cess establishments are required by the authority of Government to collect the Public Works Cess, and as even the semblance of illiberality in dealing with the local bodies which Government calls into existence to share in the work of local administration is to be deprecated, the Board would strongly advocate the dealing with this claim in a liberal spirit, and satisfying it so far as it is reasonable Viewed in this light, its great defect is that it takes no account of the great assistance which Government already gives to the Road Cess establishments In making the valuations the salary of the Deputy Collector, whose whole time was generally devoted to this work, was entirely borne by Government At the present moment a portion of the time of a Deputy Collector —a very large portion in some districts—is taken up with Road Cess work, to which has to be added a portion of the time of the Collector, the Commissioner and the Board It would be difficult to estimate what this amounts to with any accuracy, but it is very improbable that it would come to less than one third of the establishment employed in collections omitting of course the clerks and accountants of the District Board's office If therefore the Government agree to accept the principle that the total cost, including the time of superior officers, should be shared between the two cesses, and do not require any more accurate estimate, the Board would advocate that in future the joint establishment for collection purposes should be borne two thirds by the Road Cess Committee and one third by the Provincial Revenues, this arrangement to take effect from the beginning of the Road Cess year 1878 79'

'2 In reply, I am to say that the Lieutenant Governor accepts the general principle of the proposal made in paragraph 20 of your letter No 498A, dated 18th July last viz, that one third of the total cost of the joint establishments be borne by the Provincial Revenues and two thirds by the Road Cess Committees, but instead of dividing the cost of the establishment every year, and paying a certain proportion to the Road Cess Funds, the Lieutenant Governor would prefer to allot a fixed sum yearly from Provincial Revenues for each district, and thus obviate the necessity for calculating afresh every year the amount payable by Government'

"In 1879 80 the collections on account of Road Cess amounted to Rs 32,85,511, and on account of Public Works Cess to Rs 35,66,947 In 1894 95 the receipts from Road Cess were Rs 40,91,522, and from Public Works Cess Rs 41,77,224 The charges for collecting the two Cesses were in 1879 80 Rs 1,61,041, and are now Rs 2,87,186 The additional cost incurred when the Road Cess was imposed for the superior establishment concerned in supervision and control cannot be stated without special enquiry which the Lieutenant Governor does not propose to undertake

"(b) The question of revising the existing arrangement will be considered in connection with the approaching revision of the Provincial Contract"

MARKS IN LOWER PRIMARY EXAMINATION

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE asked—

Is the Government aware that the regulations prescribed for the Lower Primary Examination are much more stringent than those for the other examinations, inasmuch as in order to pass it (1) a student must obtain a minimum of 40 per cent. of the aggregate (except in Bihar, where the minimum is 33 per cent.), while the corresponding minimum needed for passing the Upper Primary, the Middle Vernacular and the Middle English Examinations is only 25 per cent , (2) he must obtain 25 per cent in every subject or group of subjects in which he is examined, while for the Upper Primary, the Middle Vernacular and the Middle English Examinations, he has to keep 25 per cent in only some of the subjects of the examination, no minimum being required in the other subjects ?

Will the Government be pleased to reduce the burden on candidates of tender years who appear at the Lower Primary Examination by making its rules uniform with those for the higher examinations in the directions indicated above ?

Will the Government also consider the propriety of removing subjects like (1) Mensuration of lines and plane surfaces, (2) Sanitary Primer, from the course of the Lower Primary Examination, confining it to Reading, Writing and Arithmetic, specially as Arithmetic in that Examination is a comprehensive subject comprising the fourfold division of (1) European Arithmetic (75 marks), (2) Native Arithmetic or Subhankari (75 marks), (3) Mental Arithmetic, European and Native (50 marks), (4) zamindari accounts (50 marks)?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"The facts are as stated in the question A higher pass mark is required at the Lower Primary Examination, because that examination is chiefly confined to the elementary subjects of reading, writing and arithmetic Much of it is also conducted viva voce, which is a form of examination more favourable to candidates That the standard is not unduly high is shown by a comparison of the results of that examination with those of the two next above it At the Lower Primary Examination of 1895, 54 per cent of the candidates passed, at the Upper Primary Examination 47 per cent, and at the Middle Vernacular Examination 59 per cent

"With the exception of the Sanitary Primer, which has been introduced under explicit orders from the Government of India on account of its special importance to the rural population, all the other subjects of the Lower Primary standard form part of the traditional subjects of the old pathsala course That course included the mensuration of lines and plane surfaces after indigenous methods, as the present course does It is a subject of special value to agricultural pupils In the opinion of the Government this and all other traditional subjects of the course should be retained"

"SANITATION" A SUBJECT OF STUDY

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE asked—

Is there any reason for including Sanitation as a subject of study in every one of the Departmental examinations, namely the Lower Primary, the Upper Primary, the Middle Vernacular and the Middle English Examinations?

Is there at any rate ground for including two books on Sanitation in the Upper Primary Course? Will the Government consider the propriety of removing at least one of these two different works dealing with the same subjects?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"As stated in the answer to the previous question, the orders of the Government of India require that Sanitation shall form part of the course in Primary and Middle schools of every grade

"In the Upper Primary standard, the 'Way to Health' is the text book prescribed by the Government of India for all Provinces The second text book has been introduced as having special applicability to the circumstances of Bengal, in which the former is necessarily deficient"

PHYSICAL SCIENCE IN UPPER PRIMARY EXAMINATION

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE asked—

Is it the fact that the subject of Physical Science, which is prescribed in the alternative for the Upper Primary Examination, is defined neither by syllabus nor by the naming of a text book? Will the Government be pleased to remove the inconvenience caused both to the teachers and the taught by this want of definition

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"Though the course in Physics for the Upper Primary standard is not defined, the authorised list of text books for that standard includes seven books in Physics, any one of which may be selected by managers of schools The questions are so set that they can be answered from any one of these text books"

NON PROVISION OF APPARATUS FOR MIDDLE AND UPPER PRIMARY SCHOOLS

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE asked—

Is the Government aware of the fact that almost without exception Middle schools and Upper Primary schools are wholly unprovided with apparatus or appliances for showing any experiments in connection with the teaching of Physics, and, as a matter of fact, the subject is taught without the help of experiments? Does it consider it any advantage to have that subject included in the curriculum for the Middle Vernacular and the Upper Primary Examinations under these circumstances? Would not such teaching be rather a useless burdening of the memory and likely to create a distaste for the subject?

Is it not the fact that in the course prescribed by the University the subject of Physics is introduced at a much later stage of a student's progress?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"Elementary scientific teaching has always formed part of the Middle and Upper Primary standards, in accordance with accepted views as to the utility of that subject of instruction It would be impossible to require the 6,000 schools of these classes in Bengal to provide themselves with apparatus, even of a simple character Proposals are now under consideration for introducing a graduated course for Primary and Middle schools, to include —besides elementary notion of Physics—Natural History, Sanitation and Agriculture, illustrated as far as possible by object lessons

"Science is introduced into Middle and Upper Primary schools, because the great majority of the pupils attending those schools complete their education at the Middle standard In the University course elementary science forms part of the Matriculation standard, but the definite study of physics and chemistry is postponed to the First Arts stage, to which the great majority of matriculated students proceed"

UPPER PRIMARY EXAMINATION

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE asked—

Is it the fact that a student may appear at the Middle Vernacular Scholarship Examination without previously passing either the Upper Primary or the Lower Primary Examination?

Is it also the fact that in the same way students have hitherto been allowed to appear in the Upper Primary Scholarship Examination without previously passing the Lower Primary test, but by a recent Circular (18—19 of 1894) this privilege has been withdrawn in the case of the Upper Primary Examination, no one being permitted to appear in it unless he has passed the Lower Primary standard? When does this change come into operation?

Will the Government be pleased to consider the desirability of continuing the present practice and not adding to the number of examinations in which a candidate for the Upper Primary Examination must appear?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"The facts are as stated in the question The Circular referred to was issued in 1894 in conformity with the opinion of inspecting officers, who were practically unanimous in favour of requiring every boy of the third class of an Upper Primary school to appear at and to pass the Lower Primary Examination as a condition of promotion to the second class, and of subsequent admission to the Upper Primary scholarship examination An Upper Primary school is merely a development of a Lower Primary school, and was always intended to teach the full Lower Primary course at the corresponding stage It was found that some Upper Primary schools neglected these useful subjects of instruction, which do not form part of the Upper Primary standard The order in question was intended to restore these schools to their original constitution, and to keep them as genuine Primary schools, rather than as mutilated Middle schools in which the interests of the agricultural population would be neglected To make the passing of the Lower Primary standard a condition of eligibility for the Upper Primary scholarship is also in conformity with Sir George Campbell's intention, in framing a chain of scholarships by which the gifted son of a raiyat might be enabled to pass on to the highest University degree"

REFERENCES OF COURSES TO EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE asked—

Is the Government aware of the feeling of dissatisfaction which has found expression in the Press as well as in public gatherings (e g, the Provincial Conference recently held at Kishnagar) against the burdensome character of the courses of study prescribed at present, to the detriment, intellectual as well as physical, of the rising generation?

Will it be pleased to refer such courses, so far as the examinations conducted by the Government are concerned, for the consideration of a Conference such as recommended by the Education Commission, at which both official and non official opinion may be adequately represented?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"In reference to the first part of the question, I beg to refer the Hon'ble Member to the reply given to the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee at the meeting of the Council held on the 11th July, 1896

"In reference to the second part, the Lieutenant Governor will, as intimated in reply to a question by the Hon'ble Member at the meeting of the Council held on the 28th March, 1896, be prepared to summon a Conference to consider educational questions of importance, whenever the need for such a Conference presents itself

"The Lieutenant Governor is not aware of any facts to warrant the statement that the course of studies prescribed has been, or is, to the detriment, intellectual or physical, of the rising generation The Director of Public Instruction will, however, be consulted on the point His Honour's attention has been separately called to the unnecessary expense that may be entailed on the poorer classes by frequent changes of text books—changes which were originally intended to encourage the growth of healthy competition among authors,—and he thinks that it may be a question worthy of consideration whether the attainment of that object is worth the extra expense entailed on the poorer classes by frequent change of text books For this reason the Director of Public Instruction will be invited to re consider the matter and report thereon for the orders of Government"

QUALIFICATIONS FOR VOTING AT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN asked—

Will the Government be pleased to state whether, on the passing of the Bill to further amend the Municipal Act, III of 1884 (B C), at present before the Council, in its present form, Government intends to confer, by rule, the right of voting at elections of Municipal Commissioners to all males who have been resident within the limits of a municipality for 12 months immediately preceding the date of election, and who have attained the age of 21 years, and—

(a) have paid during the municipal year immediately preceding the election an aggregate amount of not less than Re 1 8 in all municipalities excepting Howrah, in respect of any of the rates or taxes imposed by the Act

(b) have paid not less than Rs 20 as rent in respect of the occupation by them of a holding which is assessed with the rate under section 85, clause (b)

(c) have paid fees for the registration of carts under section 143 of the Act.

DISENFRANCHISEMENT OF VOTERS AT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN asked—

Have not all these classes of persons, (a), (b), (c), enjoyed the right of voting at elections of Municipal Commissioners for the last 12 years, and if all or any of these classes, are to be disenfranchised, will the Government be pleased to state what is their number, and why the right shall now be withheld from them?

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY replied —

"The amendment of the election rules, which was rendered necessary by the passing of Bengal Act IV of 1894, is now under consideration A revised draft of the rules has been circulated for opinion, and will be taken into consideration when the Bill to amend the Municipal Act has become law The rules as now drafted leave the existing franchise untouched, except in Kurseong, where it is proposed to raise the qualification under section 15 (1) to Rs 3 Several of the more advanced Municipalities have asked for a similar change, and their representations will be considered The case of fees for the registration of carts is governed by the definition of 'rates' in section 15 of the Act, and is not affected by the rules"

PURCHASE OF SONEPORE FAIR LAND

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN asked—

Whether or not the District Board of Saran have, by a supplementary budget for the year 1895 96, sanctioned an expenditure of Rs 36,068 for the purchase of that portion of the lands of Sonepore, in district Saran, which is yearly occupied, according to a letter of the Commissioner of the Patna Division, dated 1st December, 1894, published in the newspapers, "by the camps of the native gentry and European visitors" during the annual fair at Sonepore, and with respect to which the Hon'ble Mr Risley, in his letter to the Commissioner, dated 16th July, 1895, also published in the newspapers, said "considering the immense demands on the funds of a District Board for roads schools, hospitals, drainage, water supply, &c, the Lieutenant Governor hesitates to sanction such an expenditure on an object which is not of pressing importance, and which is mostly for the use of European visitors, and which benefits them only for a fortnight in each year"?

Whether the sanction of the District Board was not only provisional and subject, under Rule 40, Part IX of the rules passed by Government under section 138 of Act III of 1885 (B C), to the confirmation and approval of the Local Government, and whether the Local Government did confirm and approve of the provisional sanction of the District Board for this expenditure?

CURTAILMENT OF EXPENDITURE ON ROADS

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

Whether on account of this expenditure, necessary expenditure on roads previously sanctioned has not been curtailed? And whether, on this account, the metalling and repairs of an important road from Siwan to Gopalganj sub division could not be undertaken during the year?

APPLICATION OF SECTION 100 TO PURCHASE OF LAND FOR SONEPORE FAIR

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

Whether under clause 3, section 100, head Miscellaneous, under which District Boards are empowered "to hold within their district, from time to time, fairs and exhibitions of cattle, &c, and incur expenditure with the approval of the Commissioner," apply to acquisition of lands, as the Hon'ble Mr Risley, in his letter quoted above, says "mostly for the use of the European visitors and which benefits them for a fortnight in each year" in such an old and well established fair as the one held at Sonepore?

DATE OF NOTE BY MAGISTRATE OF SARAN

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

The letter of Mr Forbes, Commissioner of the Division, referred to above, states —"The desirability of the retention of the site in question in the hands of the District Board is set forth in the accompanying copy of a note on the subject by yourself when Magistrate Collector of the District of Saran, with which I need scarcely say that I entirely agree" Was this note drawn up after the sanction of the District Board was obtained, or before?

PROPOSED LIQUIDATION OF DEBTS PRIOR TO PURCHASE OF SONEPORE FAIR LAND

The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen asked—

Whether or not a member of the District Board, at the meeting when this amount was sanctioned by the District Board provisionally under the rules, did propose an amendment to the effect that the expenditure on the purchase of the Sonepore lands be postponed until the District Board debts were paid off? Was this proposal also submitted to Government? Did the Government enquire whether there was such debts owing by the District Board?

The Hon'ble Mr. Risley replied —

"Replies to the questions will be given hereafter when the result of certain enquiries now being made is known"

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1884, AMENDMENT BILL

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to further amend the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, be taken into consideration in view to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY also moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee

The Hon'ble MR DAS said —"The Report of the Select Committee, as well as the Bill as it comes from the hands of the Select Committee, contains a provision for taxing musical processions, or rather, as it is called, music in the streets"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY, interposing, said —"It is usual to take the amendments in the order in which they are set down in the agenda of business"

The Hon'ble MR DAS continued —"I am not now moving an amendment I am objecting to a portion of the Report of the Select Committee being taken into consideration by the Council My objection amounts to a point of order I shall presently explain myself This provision to tax music in the streets was not in the Bill when it was introduced on the 28th March, 1896 Then the Bill was referred to a Select Committee, and the opinions of public bodies were invited upon its provisions Subsequently two Government Circulars were issued, one of which was directed to Commissioners of Divisions and the other to certain public bodies—certain Associations—inviting their opinion upon certain points, one of which was a proposal to tax musical processions"

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said —"Do you not think it will be more in order to make your remarks when you come to move your amendment with regard to the particular section of the Bill relating to musical processions? I think the work of the Council will be advanced by proceeding in the order in which the amendments are mentioned in the agenda list"

The Hon'ble MR DAS said —"If the President rules that I am out of order, I bow to his decision My objection is that that part of the Select Committee's report is not in order and cannot properly be considered by the Council"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"The motion now before the Council is purely a formal one which brings the whole subject of the Bill into consideration What my hon'ble friend now proposes is to negative a section of the Bill which introduces the provision to which he objects The proper time for these remarks is, I submit, when his amendment to that provision of the Bill comes on for consideration"

The Hon'ble MR DAS said —"I am not now going to move an amendment I say that that portion of the Select Committee's report is altogether ultra vires It was not in the Bill which was referred to the Select Committee, and it was not competent to them to report upon a subject not in the Bill By this provision a new tax is imposed The Rules of the Council distinctly say that no Bill can be introduced unless by leave of the Council first obtained"

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said —"I think it will be open to you or to any other Hon'ble Member to move that the section of the Bill relating to this tax shall not be passed, but I think you are distinctly out of order in raising that question now We will therefore now proceed with the business according to the order in which the amendments appear on the list"

The Motion was then put and agreed to

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA BAHADUR moved that the following additional proviso to paragraph 2 of section 14 of the Bengal Municipal Act, III of 1884, be inserted —

"Provided further that the Commissioners to be appointed by the Local Government shall be male persons residing or paying rates in the municipality who have attained the age of twenty one years"

He said —"I find that an amendment to introduce substantially the same provision in section 15 of the Bill has been put on the business list by the Hon'ble Mr Bose I thought such a proviso ought to come properly under section 14, but I leave it to the Council to adopt the amendment either under the one or the other section In moving this proviso I shall not detain the Council with any lengthy remarks The principle which I advocate is one that has been recognised in section 15 in respect of the election of representative Commissioners I submit that people who live in the midst of a municipality or who pay certain rates have a subsisting interest in the administration of municipal matters, and they are more likely to take an intelligent interest in the determination of municipal questions than persons who have no stake Under the section as it stands—I mean section 14—the Local Government can appoint a minor to be a Municipal Commissioner A minor is incapable of entering into contracts, but there is no restriction of any sort here provided, so that even a female is not disqualified under this section, and even persons resident outside municipal limits can be appointed I submit that the Council will not question the principle which I advocate I advocate nothing more than this—that the same qualifications which are necessary for the election of candidates should be made applicable to the appointment of Commissioners by the Government I do not mean to say that the Government will exercise its discretion capriciously or whimsically or arbitrarily, but what I do contend for is this, that an executive Act is different from a statutory provision, and that when the Council is amending the law, advantage should be taken to introduce in the Act provisions in respect of appointment, similar to those which have been introduced in respect of the election of candidates The principle for which I contend is not a new one It has been adopted in the Calcutta Municipal Act in which similar provision has been made for the appointment by Government of Municipal Commissioners, and if restrictions as to age and sex and the fact of residence and the payment of certain rates are imposed in a place like Calcutta, I think this provision should with greater strictness be adopted in the Mufussal Municipal Act, and I contend that this is a proper opportunity to introduce such a principle here"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE said —"I will accept the result of the discussion on the motion which has just been made as conclusive in respect of the amendment of a similar character of which I have given notice in reference to section 15"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"My first objection to the amendment is that it comes too late At any time within the last twelve years, since 1884—and certainly at any time within the last four years, since 1892, when the Municipal Act came under amendment and was carefully considered—during the whole of that time it was possible for such an amendment to be brought forward Had the Hon'ble Member even made this proposal in April last, when the Bill was referred to a Select Committee, this question would have been submitted to the District Officers and Municipalities and to various other public bodies, and the Council would have had the benefit of opinions which would have enabled the Members to come to a decision on the merits of the subject No doubt the Hon'ble Member is aware that this idea has only recently been brought forward It arose from an individual case, and I think I can myself pretty closely fix the origin of it A gentleman of the legal profession, who is interested in a Municipality near Calcutta, pressed me very strongly to move this identical amendment I then declined to do so precisely for the reason I have now given, namely, that it is out of time The Select Committee had submitted its report, and the subject could not now be properly considered

In the course of the discussion I had with that gentleman, he made it extremely clear that his reason for wishing for this amendment was intimately connected with his desire to exclude a particular individual from being appointed a Commissioner of a certain Municipality He explained that this gentleman had been nominated because he was somebody's cousin, and that that should not be tolerated I submit that an amendment which is clearly connected with a purely personal question is primâ facie to be regarded with some degree of suspicion

"Furthermore, on the merits of the question there is this to be said The Municipal Act of 1876 contained a provision substantially identical with that now proposed. That Act provided that 'no person who is not an owner or occupier of land in the Municipality shall be appointed or elected a Commissioner in such Municipality' Before we proceed to take any action in this matter, I think it is desirable to ascertain why the Select Committee of the Council, which considered the Bill which was passed in 1884, when the enthusiasm for the principle of Local Self Government was in full flush, thought proper to strike out the provision on this subject which was contained in the Act of 1876 The provision in question was a conspicuous one, and the presumption is that they struck it out advisedly, and that it was not a mere mistake in drafting

"However, apart from this, there are objections on the merits of the question Is it in the least likely that the Government will appoint a school boy to be a Municipal Commissioner, and as to the age of 21 years, no particular virtue attaches to it, because in point of fact, by the Indian Majority Act, IX of 1876, the age of majority, except in certain special cases, is fixed at 18 Then as to the question of residence, I can conceive a case—and I believe most Hon'ble Members can conceive similar cases—in which the effect of the proposed restriction would deprive the Municipality of certain very able members I believe that to be the case, but unfortunately, owing to the want of time, I have not been able to make further enquiries on the point, but I believe that the best work done in the petty municipalities around Calcutta has been done by people who live in residential houses in Calcutta, but who are nominated by the Government to work in those municipalities simply by reason of their special aptitude for the work, and it would be a great misfortune to those municipalities if such persons were excluded from nomination by the Government As for the question of limiting the provision which confers upon Government the right of nomination to persons of the male sex, such things move very slowly, but are both the Hon'ble Members who are interested in this amendment certain that at no distant date educated native ladies may not claim a privilege which has actually been conferred on members of their sex in England?"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said —"I agree with the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that it is somewhat late in the day to bring forward this amendment, and that it would have been a distinct advantage if the matter could have been considered in Select Committee and a provision formulated on the subject But at the same time I venture to point out, for the consideration of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, and for the consideration of the Council, that, admitting that the matter comes up rather late for discussion, that ought not to be allowed to stand in the way and prevent our taking it up The whole question is whether it is a desirable amendment or not That really is the issue before the Council Possibly, as has been pointed out by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, this amendment, as far as the person is concerned who suggested it, and who interviewed Hon'ble Members in connection with it, arose out of personal motives, but Hon'ble Members must know that oftentimes personal grievances prompt most valuable reforms, and that though we may object to the circumstances under which an amendment is put forward, the real question which we have to consider is whether the amendment is a desirable one or not The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has stated, and we know it as a matter of fact, that gentlemen living in Calcutta, who have been Municipal Commissioners of mufassal towns have done great service to those Municipalities But in every instance they were elected members of the Municipalities concerned They were residents in the sense in which the word is used in the rules for the election of Municipal Commissioners, and they were duly elected by the rate payers I might instance the case of the late Dr Troylukho Nath Mitter, who, though living in Bhowani pore, was an elected Commissioner of the Serampore Municipality, and was its Chairman Again, take the case of the late Babu Bipio Dass Banerjee, Chairman of the Barasat Municipality, who also did great service as Chairman, but while residing in Calcutta he had a house at Barasat and he was therefore a 'resident' under the rules, and was an elected Commissioner I take it that local interest is the essence of Local Self Government A man must feel interest in a Municipality with whose affairs he happens to be connected But if the Government in its discretion wish to appoint an outsider, he cannot possibly feel the same degree of interest in the affairs of the Municipality as a person who is a resident within the meaning of the Act. I have heard complaints in respect of this matter, and let me mention a concrete case—the case of a gentleman connected with the Titaghur Municipality This was not a case of a personal grievance, and, if it was, it has the complexion of a public grievance A gentleman living in Titaghur has been appointed a member of the South Barrackpore Municipality There is not much love lost between the two Municipalities Titaghur was withdrawn from the South Barrackpore Municipality after a stern fight This gentleman was appointed by the Government—I don't wish to challenge the appointment—as a member of the South Barrackpore Municipality, although he is a non resident and a resident of Titaghur It has been represented to me that his presence at the meetings of the South Barrackpore Municipality is at times a source of some little embarrassment to the members of that Municipality I do think the Government ought to surrender its discretion in this matter The Government did so in the Act of 1876, which has just been read to us Under that Act nobody could be appointed by the Government as a member of a Municipality, unless he was a 'resident' of the Municipality I think that was a wholesome provision, and I hope the Government will not take their stand on the lateness of the amendment, but will accede to the Hon'ble Member's proposal, and amend the Bill accordingly"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE said —"I should have somewhat wavered in my loyalty to this amendment if there were any foundation for the prospect, vaguely referred to in the concluding remarks of the Hon'ble Mr Risley, of lady members gracing municipal meetings But as that hope has not been held out, and as in the proceedings during the last twelve years no indication of that graceful desire on the part of the Government has been afforded, I think I shall be true to the amendment of which I have given notice I entirely agree with my hon'ble friend, Mr Surendranath Banerjee, that the question is not whether this amendment comes late or not, but whether it is a necessary and a proper amendment, whether it is an amendment which would be likely to strengthen the working of the Act This is a matter which involves a simple question of principle, it is not buried or lost in a variety of details or a mass of facts We have had the amendment before us for some time, and I may be permitted to say that the reference which the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill made to the fact that this provision existed in the Act of 1876, is to my mind an argument in favour of the amendment and not against it The Hon'ble Member said that in the Act of 1884 this old provision of the Act of 1876 seems somehow or other to have dropped out Surely the necessity for the introduction of the very Bill, now before the Council, might show to the Hon'ble Member that sometimes omissions or mistakes do take place through pure inadvertence And there may possibly have been also this consideration that, as in 1884 for the first time the privilege of election was conceded to municipalities in the Mufassal, it was thought desirable that the Government should keep in its hands the absolute and unrestricted power of nomination Since then twelve years have passed and the Act has been admitted on all hands to have been, on the whole, a success, including those who had some misgivings at its first introduction, and I submit the time has now come when the unrestricted power should be limited and defined in the manner now proposed If the Government were able in 1876 to select the whole number of Commissioners from amongst the rate payers of a municipality, it was not a compliment either to them or to the municipalities to say that in 1896 they could not select one third of that total number from the rate-payers.

"Then coming to the merits of the amendment, I beg in the first place to say that it does not in the slightest degree imply any want of confidence in the Government On the contrary I firmly believe that according to the light and the information placed before the Government, which sometimes is perhaps a limited light because the Local Government has no direct means of knowing all the facts, the Government has done and will continue to do its very best But it is a question of principle which is desirable in itself, and which is recommended by experience In this connection I would also make this observation, with reference to what fell from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, that I support this amendment not because any individual may have a grievance—on that point I am not competent to say anything—but I support it on general grounds, I support it because I believe this provision would tend to the advantage of the municipalities and the strengthening of their working As I have already said, the Government undoubtedly endeavours to exercise its discretion in the best way, but I would ask what is the reason that in the case of elected Commissioners, the limitation of residence or payment of rates is required It cannot be on the ground of want of confidence in the rate payers, for then they would not have the privilege of electing at all, but because it is practically admitted that nobody should be on the Commission unless he has some link of connection with the municipality either by residence or by possession of property within its limits That is the only justification for the limitation in the case of elected Commissioners, and that, after 12 years' experience, ought to be, I submit, the guiding principle in regard also to the nomination of Commissioners Surely within the limits of a municipality the Government can have no difficulty in getting one third of the Commissioners who are competent and qualified under the rules for election In the case of the Calcutta Municipality that restriction as regards nominated Commissioners exists, they must either be resident or pay certain rates I submit that in the case of Mufassal Municipalities the same reason exists, perhaps even to a larger extent, because owing to easy accessibility to Calcutta, people living outside Calcutta might easily transact business, and have some acquaintance with the various wants and circumstances of the town But in the case of Mufassal Municipalities that would hardly be the case, and it was therefore more desirable that no one should be elected or nominated a Commissioner who is not either 'resident' or does not pay rates in the Municipality Now that this amendment is before us, we should lay it down that the gentlemen to be appointed Commissioners must have some interest in the Municipality, some stake in its welfare, in one or other of the ways indicated in the amendment In the interest of the Municipalities themselves, I hope this amendment will be accepted"

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said —"I have to offer a word or two of explanation in justification of the vote I propose to give in connection with the question raised in this amendment No doubt, I am not prepared to differ from the broad proposition that, generally speaking, it is fairly reasonable that persons who are to have a voice in the management of municipal affairs should be those who have some interest in the well being of the Municipality either as residents or as rate payers And if there had been absolute harmony and an absence of race feeling in the Municipality, I would have joined hands with the Hon'ble Members who have spoken in favour of the amendment, but it is impossible for us to shut our eyes to actual facts and to the state of feeling in the mufassal, and to put the matter mildly, it is a subject of regret that there should be some little want of harmony between Hindus and Muhammadans There are places where the Muhammadans ought to be represented in larger numbers, and I regret to say that they are not appropriately represented for fault not their own It is therefore in every way desirable that Government should have power and should be in a position to restore or maintain the equilibrium between the two classes as the case may be There must be sufficient discretion left in the hands of the Government to be exercised as occasion arises I would strongly advocate the desirability of Muhammadans having a fair share in the administration of municipal affairs in the mufassal, where that community preponderates When principles and theories lead to conflicting results, that principle which is most expedient and least mischievous in its results should be adopted. All theories must be tested by facts It is undesirable in the protection of Muhammadan interests that I should support a proposition simply because it sounds well when read and reads well on paper The provisions contained in section 14 of the Act have now been in existence since 1884 During the whole of this time no instance has been brought forward of misuse of the power And apart from other views I think the very interests which are appealed to require that the existing provisions should be maintained It may be that a case might arise where, for the protection of the interests of the Municipality itself, it might be necessary to appoint an outsider and to take full advantage of the wide power given by the section in question I would therefore vote against this amendment"

The Hon'ble MR PRATT said —"Although at first sight this amendment does seem to be both moderate and reasonable, still I feel constrained to vote against it on two principal grounds In the first place, as has already been remarked, this amendment has been somewhat abruptly brought before us. No notice has been given to the municipalities interested with regard to this question, and we have not had full opportunity of making enquiries regarding it. As has been already pointed out, this Council, after due deliberation, struck out from a former enactment, the provision which it is now proposed to re introduce, and I should like to be in possession of the reasons which induced this Council to act as it then did, before I give my vote in favour of such an amendment In the next place I believe it is the practice at the present time to appoint the Sub divisional Officer to be a Commissioner of Municipalities which are not necessarily situated at the head quarters of the sub division, and I should conceive that no more fit individual could be appointed a Commissioner by the Government for such municipalities And we can also quite understand that in the case of young and budding municipalities, instances will occur when it would be advantageous to appoint as Commissioners public-spirited men who, though not residing in a particular municipality, yet take a real interest in its affairs Therefore I say that for these reasons I am not prepared to give my vote for this amendment Perhaps on some future occasion, and when more information on the subject is placed before the Council, a provision of this kind may be accepted, but at present I feel constrained to vote against the amendment"

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA, BAHADUR, in reply, said —"I was rather surprised to hear the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill raise a suspicion, for which there was absolutely no ground I can assure the Hon'ble Member that nobody called on me for this purpose I considered it a necessary amend ment, and I put it forward for the acceptance of the Council, and I regret that such an observation should have been made Certain persons might have called on the Hon'ble Member, but I say that nobody called on me on the subject As regards the question which has been raised by the Hon'ble Mr Pratt that the Sub divisional Officer may be very useful as a Commissioner of a Munici pality, I say it is difficult to imagine that a Sub divisional Officer could not be paying some rates Therefore I have used the words 'residing or paying rates' He might possess a horse and carriage for instance, and, as I have said, I can hardly imagine that he would be excluded under this provision It does not provide that rates must be paid for the previous twelve months or anything of that kind, or that he must be a resident, but merely 'residing' As to the objection that this amendment comes late in the day, I submit it is not a ques tion of fact but a question of principle, and as the principle was admitted in the previous Act, I submit there is no reason why it should not be admitted in this Bill"

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said —"I do not wish to detain the Council by any lengthy remarks, but I myself am inclined to agree with the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that this amendment has come upon us rather suddenly at the last moment We have had no opportunity of consulting Local Munici palities, and of considering the matter in the Select Committee, of which I was a Member It has been strongly brought to notice that no inconvenience has arisen from this power which has remained in the hands of the Government for the last twelve years It was also said by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, that he is not aware of the reasons which actuated the Council, when passing the Act of 1884, to change the provision of law as it existed in the Act of 1876 Neither am I in that position, nor should I be without studying the debates of the Council I may, however, be able to throw some light on the subject The change may possibly have been introduced in view of the circumstances of the many small municipalities in the 24 Parganas, and on the other side of the river for which it was not always possible to secure suitable Commissioners or the most suitable Chairman among the residents In the case of the Serampore Municipality, the right of Dr Troylukhonath Mitter to be appointed a Commissioner was, I believe, challenged, he being a non resident, but in the interests of the Municipality his appointment as Chairman was considered extremely desirable, and in my own case I once remained a Commissioner and Chairman of an important Municipality, though I had ceased to be a resident, but if the section of the Act of 1876 had been retained, it would have removed me from those posts, but whether that would have been an advantage to the Municipality or otherwise it is not for me to say There is an instance within my knowledge where, owing to some rule of the High Court that Munsifs shall not be appointed Chairman of Municipalities, it was impossible to find a proper person to be Chairman within the limits of the Municipality itself, and where as Commissioner of the Division I solved the difficulty by suggesting the appointment of a person to be the Chairman, who was residing at a distance, and who was in no way connected with the Municipality So that the law, as it now stands, has a superior advantage, whereas if we alter it now it might possibly have a disadvantage which might interfere with the very working of the Municipal Law I have no doubt instances will occur to other Hon'ble Members of persons living in Calcutta, who have some interest in neighbouring municipalities and are willing to devote a portion of their time and attention to the affairs of such municipalities"

The Motion being put, the Council divided —

Ayes 5	Noes 10
The Hon'ble Mr Das	The Hon'ble Mr Wallis
The Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen	The Hon'ble Mr Gladstone
The Hon ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra, Bahadur	The Hon ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur
The Hon'ble Mr Bose	The Hon ble Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein
The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee	The Hon ble Rai Durga Gati Banerjea, Bahadur
	The Hon'ble Mr Glass
	The Hon'ble Mr Finucane
	The Hon ble Mr Risley
	The Hon'ble Mr Pratt
	The Hon'ble Mr Grimley

So the Motion was negatived

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE, by leave of the Council, withdrew the following motion, identical with the one just disposed of, of which he had given notice —

That in section 3 of the Bill, after sub section (1), the following be inserted —

"(1) After the words 'for election to be a Commissioner of such Municipality in the paragraph following the first proviso to section 15, the following shall be added, namely —

'And no one, unless he is a male person, who has attained the age of twenty one years, and either resides or pays rates in the Municipality, shall be deemed qualified for nomination as such Commissioner'"

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN also, by leave of the Council, withdrew the motion of which he had given notice that in section 3, clause (1) of the Bill, for the words "three rupees" the words "one rupee and eight annas" be substituted

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE moved that in section 3, clause (1), after the words "three rupees," the following words be added —

"in Howrah, and one rupee eight annas in any other Municipality"

He said —"The principle of this amendment is that legislative sanction should now be accorded to the rules which have been framed by executive authority, which have been fully tested in operation for many years, and in regard to which there has been no complaint Let me at the outset most fully admit that the provision of the law, as it now exists, was necessary at the time when the Act of 1884 was passed At that time a maximum qualification was fixed, and the lower limit was left to be determined by the Government on the result of enquiries to be instituted by it There was not then sufficient information before the Council to enable it definitely to fix what ought to be the rate of qualification in the Act itself A maximum was laid down, and after that the Government set on foot enquiries, as the result of which certain rate paying qualifications have been introduced and given effect to No complaint, either in the Press or in any other way, has been made that the qualification, as it had been framed by rule, is liable to objection, therefore I ask that the qualification which has been so fixed be now embodied in the law I fully express my gratitude to the Government that in spite of the limit of three rupees provided in the Act of 1884, they reduced it so as to place the franchise on a broader and wider basis, and I submit that the time has now come and the present opportunity should be taken advantage of, to fix that qualification by law A vitally important matter like the qualification of voters ought to be determined by the Statute itself unless there are indeed strong reasons to the contrary But no such reasons now exist, or can even be alleged to exist I submit that the experience of the past does afford grounds for taking as the basis of legislation what the rules have so long laid down, that it ought not to be left to executive order to determine who shall have the franchise, but it is the duty of this Council to decide the question I would leave the explanation as it is proposed by the Government, namely, reserve to the Government the power, if they think it necessary, to reduce the qualification still further in any case which seemed to them to require such reduction or to meet the case of newly created municipalities, but subject to that provision, whatever qualification has been found by these twelve years' practical working to be expedient ought to be introduced in the Act, and this is what my amendment proposes to do I will not trouble the Council with all the opinions which have been sent in favour of this amendment, but one opinion I shall venture to place before them because it is the opinion of a late Secretary to the Government and a Commissioner of Division, and one of the most distinguished Members of this Council I refer to Mr Buckland He says —

'With regard to section 3, (1), (2), (3) the Chairman of the Vishnupore Municipality writes that under the rules the right to vote has been extended to persons who pay rates to the amount of Re 1 8, while under the Act the right is given to those who pay Rs 3 The law should he suggests, be brought into conformity with the rule and practice founded upon it Thus appears to be worthy of consideration

"The British Indian and other Associations and public bodies have also supported this proposal I say therefore that it is worthy of serious consideration that we should not leave this question of franchise to be decided by executive rules, but should bring the law and the practice into harmony with one another I am told that besides the Municipality of Howrah, in the case of the Cossipore Chitpore Municipality, the qualification has been raised to Rs 3, and I have no objection to an exception being made in favour of that Municipality as well But let not this important matter be left to be from time to time decided by the Government It may be that long years hence the time may come for another important departure Possibly by that time there would be occasion to revise this Act on other grounds also, but until that time comes I submit that the law should be brought into conformity with the practice, as established by rule—a practice which has been tested and not found wanting by the experience of the last twelve years"

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN said —"There are some cases in which we are told the rating qualification of voters has been raised Besides the case of the Municipality of Howrah, we now hear that in the Cossipore-Chitpore Municipality the rating qualification has been raised to Rs 3 That is a solitary case, but we have not heard of any case in which the rate fixed by the rule at Re 1 8 has been lowered So far, therefore, it has been a success, and that is a good reason why the rating qualification should now be fixed at that rate in the law There has been no case in which, after the passing of the rules, the Government have thought fit to lower the franchise, but it has been thought fit to raise it in one case Therefore I submit that it will be one of the strongest safeguards for the present franchise if, by an Act of the Legislature, the rating qualification is fixed at the lower rate by the law and not left changeable by the action of the Executive Section 15 of the Act may be read in two ways The word there used is 'qualification' It may be qualification according to money rate or qualification according to age I do not mean to say that the Government would ever think of doing so, but there is nothing to prevent them from raising the rating qualification, if they think fit, to Rs 3 in the case of every Municipality in the Province In that case large numbers of people, who have been enjoying the franchise for the last twelve years, will have been disenfranchised Under the rules there are two classes of voters, those who pay rates to the amount of Re 1 8, and those who pay a rent of not less than Rs 20, and there may be danger of the franchise being lowered still more, and you swamp the present real body of voters who come under the Rs 3 rule But if instead of swamping them thus you bring down the franchise to Re 1 8, the effect will be that the Re 1-8 men will then be the real voters under the law Their number would be, I think, three times as many as the number of those who pay Rs 3 Therefore, I submit it is but fair that the Legislature should fix the maximum amount of rates on the payment of which a man will be entitled to vote in conformity with the rules which have been in force for the last twelve years"

The Hon'ble MR. RISLEY said —"I have watched with interest for the last half hour the efforts of my hon'ble friend, the member for Dacca, to ride two horses at the same time The feat has been attempted before, but its difficulty is proverbial, and it takes a very old Parliamentary hand to do it really well For the cause which has led my friend into this unfortunate position we must go back to an earlier meeting, when the Bill was referred to a Select Committee. The Council will remember that the Hon'ble Member's sense of the legal fitness of things suddenly became very tender He was shocked at the supposed discordance of the law and the rules, and urged that they should be reduced to harmony I endeavoured to the best of my ability to relieve his mind by pointing out, not on my own authority, but on that of the Hon'ble the Advocate General, that there was no discord at all, and that under these circumstances this passion for harmony was a little out of place

"My friend, however, stuck to his point in Select Committee, and after much discussion we eventually drafted the explanation which stands in the Bill We did this not because there was or ever has been any doubt in the minds of lawyers as to the meaning of the law as it now stands, but because it appeared from the opinion that this section had been misunderstood by some people, and in an Act which is worked to a great extent by Municipal Commissioners it seemed desirable to go out of our way to be clear The explanation I submit leaves nothing to be desired in point of clearness I have discussed it with the Hon'ble the Advocate General, and I have his authority for saying that it adds nothing to the law and takes nothing away It merely adds to the section an explanation in popular language of what the section really means

"So far, the Council will see, there was not, nor has there been up to the moving of this amendment any suggestion of changing the law My friend gave no indication of any such intention in Council He expressly disclaimed any such intention in Select Committee His soul only pined for harmony Now he has got it in the form of the explanation, but still he is not happy and like a familiar personage in fiction he 'asks for more' He wants to make a sweeping change in the law He wishes to fix and stereotype the existing Municipal franchise and to prevent the possibility of its being changed except by the tedious process of legislation That is what my friend's amendment really means He has endeavoured to obscure the fact in his note of dissent which so curiously distorts the true position of the case that I must examine it a little He says the qualification of voters is an important point Granted He goes on to say 'this point it is proposed to leave to the Executive Government to settle' But is it possible that so learned a lawyer does not know that this power which he writes of as if it had been invented yesterday has, in fact, been exercised by Government for the last 20 years—in fact, ever since the passing of Bengal Act V of 1876, section 16 of which is practically identical with the first part of section 15 of the present Act? It is admitted that this power has been wisely used, no complaint as to the manner of its exercise has ever been made, and at the present moment, as I said just now, in reply to my hon'ble friend's question, the Government has before it several applications from some of the most advanced and intelligent Municipalities asking us to exercise this power by raising the voting qualification from Rs 1 8 to Rs 3 by doing in fact exactly what the Hon'ble Member wishes to render impossible

"Again, my friend says 'if rules were to be the guide, there was no use whatever in bringing this matter of amendment of the Municipal Law before the Legislature' But who brought it before the Council? Why my hon'ble friend himself, who insisted on the removal of an imaginary discord, and by the whole tenor of his speech, gave us to understand that he advocated no change in the substantive law

"Now if my hon'ble friend had followed the proper course—the course which fairness and common sense indicate—he would have stated either in Council or in Select Committee what his real intention was, and we could then have taken opinions on the subject and have ascertained the views of District Officers, Municipalities, and Associations on the subject It is neither seasonable nor reasonable to spring so large a change on the Council at the last moment

"I may add that the amendment introduces so material an alteration in the Bill that would in any case be necessary to report it to the Government of India If we adopted it now with no further consideration and no further evidence than is now before us, it is extremely probable that His Excellency the Viceroy would refuse his assent to the Bill

"My friend says in his dissent that there is no hurry about the measure That, as I explained on a former occasion, is not the case Under the law the Municipal elections come on in November next We must, therefore, pass this Bill in the present Session of Council, and we can only do so by declining to consider contentious amendments moved at the eleventh hour

"So far I have stated what may be called preliminary objections to the amendment These in themselves are obviously conclusive, and I might fairly stop here without going into the merits at all To complete the case against the amendment, I may observe in the first place that the proposed change is unnecessary, in the second, that it would be inconvenient

"On the first point I am content to rely on the authority of the Select Committee of 1893 94 That Committee may be described, so far at any rate as the non official members are concerned, as a Committee of all the talents It numbered among its members my hon'ble friend Babu Surendranath Banerjee, whose experience of municipal administration is large and varied my friend Sayad Fazal Imam, the energetic Vice Chairman of the great Municipality of Patna, and Mr Lal Mohan Ghose, whose tact, common sense and knowledge of public business proved invaluable In fact, you may say of it, as was said of the Master of Balliol, that what that Committee did not know was not knowledge Their attention was expressly called to the provisions of section 15 by the proposal to raise the amount qualifying for a vote in clauses (1) and (2) from Rs 3 to Rs 5 They had before them the opinions of 54 Municipalities and representative institutions, of whom 21 were in favour of the Re 1 8 qualification, 23 in favour of raising it to Rs 5, and 10 in favour of raising it to Rs 3 But neither the Committee nor the persons who gave opinions proposed to change the law in the manner now suggested, and the opinions bring out very clearly the fact that different municipalities may in this matter require different treatment

"That is the common sense view, and that also is the answer to the attempt to appeal to English precedent We have in Bengal already 148 Municipalities, and the formation of others is under consideration These Municipalities vary in size and importance from Howrah with a population of 116,000, of whom 16,000 are rate payers, and a yearly income of nearly three lakhs, to Nalchiti, in Backergunge, with 1,645 inhabitants, 265 voters, and a yearly income of Rs 1,908 Is it in reason to compare this state of things to the state of things that prevails in England? Can it seriously be argued that it should be made impossible for the Government to change the voting qualifications of Nalchiti without passing a special Act, that such a very big steam hammer should be employed to crush such a very tiny nut? After all it is some objection to a proposition that it is absurd"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said —"No one could have listened to what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill without coming to the conclusion that there is a great deal to be said on the other side of the question It is a question which admits of considerable difference of opinion I have talked with persons versed in municipal affairs, and I have heard opinions expressed adverse to the view embodied in the amendment I therefore think we ought not to come to the conclusion that any one who differs from the amendment of my hon'ble friend is necessarily an enemy of Local Self Government or a traitor to the best interests of his country I think differences of opinion in a matter like this are legitimate and may be expected The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has referred to the discussions which took place in the Select Committee of 1894, and has paid a compliment to the Select Committee for which I beg to tender my acknowledgments This question was the subject of most careful and anxious deliberation We contented ourselves by keeping the law as it was, and my reasons were these An attempt was made to raise the maximum rating qualification from Rs 3 to Rs 5 I thought discretion was the better part of valour, and we thought we gained a point by keeping the qualification as it stood in the Act That was the raison detre of the vote which I gave on that occasion This matter was considered very carefully by the Select Committee on this Bill In fact I suggested the amendment which has now been placed before the Council, and a compromise was effected, which is embodied in the Explanation If you read the original Bill introduced in March 1896, and compare it with the present Bill, you will find that the original Bill does not contain this Explanation It was the result of a compromise which was come to on the discussion of the amendment I suggested It reproduces what is really the present state of the law, and will, I have no doubt go far to popularize the Bill At the same time I admit it would be advisable to stereotype in the law the concession which has been made by the Local Government in the rules which it has framed The franchise has been deliberately lowered to Re 1 8 with very few complaints Here and there there have been complaints, and in the nature of things complaints were bound to be made, having regard to the number of Municipalities and the differences between them in respect of their size, their resources and other circumstances connected with them But the complaints have been very few indeed That being the case, namely, that the franchise has been fixed at Re 1 8 by the beneficient policy of a progressive Government, I think the time has come when an advance might be made in the law, and that what has hitherto been embodied in the rules should be stereotyped in the law My hon'ble friend in charge of the Bill suggests that this will represent a substantial change in the law I do not think so I say it will be an adaptation of the law to what is the present practice It will be harmonising law with practice It will be a step in advance Now that we are amending the law, such an amendment, if accepted, will represent a distinct advance upon the system of Local Self Government in this Province A rule exists which is much more liberal than the law It embodies the policy of the Administration of the day, and I am happy to say that the attitude, specially of the present Government, has always been one of sympathy with the system of Local Self Government It will only be an adaptation of the law to the existing practice, and I hope my hon'ble friend, the member in charge of the Bill, will see his way to accept the amendment"

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA, BAHADUR, said —"After the eloquent speech which the Council has just heard from my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, it is unnecessary for me to say much It appears to me that the fact that the rule of Re. 1-8 franchise has worked well cannot be denied I have been the Chairman of the neighbouring Municipality of Hooghly for the last twelve years, and I have heard no complaint against this rule The people in fact seem to be under the impression that it is the law I, therefore, contend that the law should be harmonised with the rule of Re 1 8 franchise"

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said —"It is no doubt a sound principle that an Act of Legislation should be as complete as possible and that as little as possible should be left to the rules to be framed under the Act I myself tried to enforce the recognition of that principle in this Council in connection with certain measures But I failed to succeed in cases that came much better within the operation of this principle

"It would no doubt be a triumph of legislation if all details relating to the working of the numerous Municipalities in Bengal, consisting of more than 100 in number, could be finally and formally laid down But the causes which affect them are so varied and so many that to attempt to lay down rules—in however general terms they might be expressed—in respect to each and all would be a gigantic and hopeless task Certain matters must therefore be dealt with in the Act in their outline, so that the details must be worked out by the rules as occasion arises in respect of each individual case We must have confidence in the Government and we must hope that the right thing to be done shall be done In fact, all the gentlemen who have preceded me have spoken in terms which shew utmost confidence in the Government From the satisfactory way in which Municipalities have under the rules framed by the Government for a period of about twelve years, worked one may confidently expect the same satisfaction in future The Government would enforce the same standard as before, but it has under the Act as it stands some discretion and some power which has only been exercised in cases of emergency I do not think it would be to promote the interests of the community I represent if the Act is to be rendered less elastic and if the Government is to be deprived of the power which was hitherto vested in it"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE said —"I trust that at any rate we shall have the vote of my hon'ble friend who has last spoken in support of this amendment He admitted fully the soundness of the principle, but his objection to vote in its favour arose from what he believed to be the practical difficulty of carrying it out That was an argument which was also advanced by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill But that argument is opposed to actual experience. The rules were framed in 1884, and with the exception of one Municipality to which the 3 Rs qualification was applied, with regard to all the other Municipalities, the Government found on enquiry that the one rule of Re 1 8 would be suitable, and it has been admitted that no complaints have been brought forward against this arrangement Let not therefore the Council be scared away by the idea put forth by the last speaker and also by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill as to the gigantic and hopeless task of framing a large number of rules Experience has shown that that is not necessary The gigantic task referred to has already been accomplished, was accomplished in fact 12 years ago, and the method of its performance has given uniform satisfaction I was glad to hear of the compliment paid by the Hon'ble Mr Risley to the Select Committee of 1894 But as that compliment has been used as an argument against the acceptance of this amendment, I may be permitted to remind the Council that the Hon'ble Member has not always spoken in such high terms of that Committee In his Circular letter, dated the 28th April last, addressed to all Commissioners of Divisions, he says that 'owing to defective drafting, section 15(3) of the Act is wholly unintelligible in its present form' Surely that drafting was placed before the Select Committee, was considered by the Select Committee, and was adopted by them But the Circular says that a section which was considered and passed by the Select Committee has in fact no meaning at all

"Then coming to the other point which was urged, that this amendment will introduce a material change in the Bill, and that it is not right or fair that the change should be brought up in this ex parte way, I submit that if there was any matter which was referred to all Municipalities and District Officers for opinion in connection with the present Bill, it was the question of this very section 15 It was prominently mentioned in the Statement of Objects and Reasons, and was referred to at the time when the Bill was sent to the Select Committee and from the prominence so given to it, section 15 in all its aspects, was fully considered by all Municipalities As a matter of fact a great many of the parties who were consulted have given their opinions on this very point, and many of them are in favour of the proposal to harmonise the rules and the law—the very principle which is now being contended for Therefore, whether it is a sound principle or an unsound principle, at any rate it is not liable or open to the objection that it has been sprung upon the Council at this late hour I have already referred to Mr Buckland's opinion and I need not refer to it again

"The whole question lies in a nutshell What we ask is that the Government should not have the power to disfranchise a body of men, who have enjoyed and exercised the power of voting for so many years, without the sanction of the legislature Is that asking for too much, or for what is unreasonable? After twelve years the law is being amended, the Government has enough experience whereon to base definite proposals, and the proposed explanation leaves to the Government the power of extending still further the benefit of its liberal policy by reducing the franchise

"With reference to what is called the tedious process of consulting this Council, I consider that a desirable process, even if it should sometimes prove tedious, and I contend that it will be to the interest of the Government itself to adopt that procedure in all cases in which they may desire to deprive the people of a privilege which by its own action they have enjoyed for a long time And after all it is not a very tedious process If after a period of say from three to six years the Government find in the case of a certain Municipality or a group of Municipalities a slight raising of the rating qualification is necessary, a short Bill of one section will answer the purpose, if the materials placed before the Council are sufficient That is the principle of the amendment, and I appeal to the Council to accept that principle as reasonable and sound And I would appeal to the Government to consider that disfranchising people is not a popular thing By taking the legislature into its confidence when circumstances rendered this course of disfranchising necessary, they would give publicity to their reasons, enlist public support on their behalf, and, if unpopularity there was to be, at least make the legislature sharers in that unpopularity"

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said —"The course pursued by the Hon'ble Members, the movers of amendments 3 and 7, calls to mind an utterance ascribed to a former Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, Sir John Peter Grant, that the administration of this country could be appropriately described by the metaphor of changing six pence into half pence and the same half pence back into six pence every decade The amendments are a singular example of the aptness of this illustration, for they propose to revert to a policy which was deliberately disapproved in this Council twelve years ago, and the abandonment of a policy as deliberately approved in the same debate, which has stood the test of all these years In the Municipal Bill of 1884 the property qualification was placed at Rs 1 8, but before the Bill passed into law this was rejected and a Rs 3 rate adopted As a Member of the Select Committee I have read with attention the remarks of the Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen in support of his proposal, that the Legislature should provide for the qualifications of voters by positive enactment, and I have listened to the effective speeches before this Council of the Hon'ble Messrs Bose and Surendranath Banerjee, but I venture to think that the Hon'ble Members have not clearly foreseen the full effect of the measure they advocate It would, as the Hon'ble Mr Risley has already said, fix and stereotype the franchise within narrow bounds, which cannot be passed without fresh legislation, while under the present elastic system it is possible to Government within certain limitations to extend the franchise at any time and in any manner it may think fit The principle underlying the present Municipal Act, as formulated by the Hon'ble Mr Reynolds, who introduced the Bill in 1884, is the recognition of the demand of the more intelligent classes for a large freedom in the management of their own affairs, and this was intended to be secured by permitting the people to chose their own representatives To this end the Act provided that rules should be framed by Government for the conduct of Municipal elections There was so much variety in size and importance in the different Municipalities that it was impossible to make provisions in the new law which would be applicable to each 'But' said Mr Reynolds (I quote from the debates in this Council), 'if this power of passing rules were subject to no restrictions, it is evident that the power might be so used as to nullify the principle of popular election It would be of little use to extend the elective system to a Municipality and then to declare by a rule that the franchise should only be exercised by those who paid Rs 50 a year in rates The Bill therefore provides that while Government may lay down such rules as it thinks fit, and may cancel any rule at its pleasure, it may not make a rule which would have the effect of excluding from the franchise any resident of the Municipality who pays rates to the amount of two annas a month' This passage from Mr Reynolds's speech makes it clear that the restriction imposed of a property qualification in certain cases, was framed in the interest of the rate payer, and was in fact, a restriction intended to bind the hands of Government not to raise the franchise It practically dictates to Government 'you may lower the franchise as you will, but you may not place a limit, imposed by law, which says that every person who pays rates to the extent of Rs 3 is entitled to a vote,' but it does not say that any one who has paid below this rate is not so entitled, for it leaves it open to Government by the rules to reduce the limit as it may think proper As a matter of fact Government has acted liberally under the rules, as the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee admits, and lowered the limit generally to Re 1 8, the only exception being the large Municipalities of Howrah and Cossipore Chitpore The amendments suggested appear to me to be opposed to the first principles of Municipal legislation, as understood when the Act was passed, and I shall therefore vote against them"

The Motion being put, the Council divided —

Ayes 5	Noes 10
The Hon ble Mr Das	The Hon ble Mr Wallis
The Hon ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen	The Hon ble Mr Gladstone
The Hon ble Mr Bose	The Hon ble Nawab Syud Ameer Hossein
The Hon ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee	The Hon ble Rai Durga Gati Banerjea Bahadur
	The Hon ble Mr Risley
	The Hon ble Mr Pratt
	The Hon ble Mr Grimley

So the Motion was negatived

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN moved that in section 3, after clause (iii), the following clause be added —

"(ii) has paid not less than Rs 20 as rent in respect of the occupation by him of a holding which is assessed with the rate under section 85, clause (b)"

He said —"Under the law as it stands it will be found by the Hon'ble Members of this Council that there is not a word with respect to what is called the 'lodger franchise Section 15 stands thus —

Rules to be laid down for election.

'For the purposes of the aforesaid election of Commissioners, the Local Government, with respect to each Municipality, shall lay down such rules not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, as it shall think fit, in respect of the Division, where necessary, of each Municipality into wards, and the number of Commissioners to be elected for each of such wards, the qualifications required to entitle any person to vote for a candidate for election and in respect of the mode of election And the Local Government may at any time cancel any rule made by it under this section

Provided that every male person who is at the time of such election and has been for a period of not less than twelve months immediately preceding such election, resident within the limits of a Municipality, and who—

(i) has, during the year immediately preceding such election, paid, in respect of any of the rates imposed by this Act, an aggregate amount of not less than three rupees, or

(ii) has, during the year aforesaid, paid, or been assessed to the tax imposed by Act II of 1886 (an Act for imposing a tax on income derived from sources other than agriculture) or

(iii) being a member of a joint undivided family, one of the members of which has, during the year immediately preceding such election paid in respect of any of the rates imposed by this Act an aggregate amount of not less than three rupees is a graduate or licentiate of any University, or holds a certificate as a pleader or a mukhtear, or revenue agent, shall be entitled to vote at the election of Commissioners of such Municipality

'No person who is not entitled to vote at the election of Commissioners of a Municipality shall be deemed qualified for election to be a Commissioner of such Municipality

"Then comes the explanation which provides that the 'rules made under this section may reduce but not raise any of the sums mentioned in the first proviso thereto, and may declare that any persons who are not referred to in that proviso shall be entitled to vote' There is a large class of persons paying Rs 20 for holdings assessed under section 80 who have during the last twelve years enjoyed the franchise Possibly it is not intended to deprive these persons of the franchise, but I submit that this explanation will not help to prevent their being deprived of the franchise, if the Government so determine Some attempt has been made to father this explanation upon me I deny that parentage, but I see that my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, owns its paternity We have been told that any person who is a lawyer will not have any doubt regarding the correct interpretation of this section, but we have many opinions coming from Government officials and from public Associations with numbers of lawyers in them who have fallen into an error, and what is still more even the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill cannot but admit that the language of the section admits of two different interpretations It is only the word 'qualification' in the early part of the section which one can rely upon to enable the Government to frame rules not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act which may reduce to a minimum the right given under the Act, for if a large number of persons with a qualification of a Re 1 or As 8 rate can be brought in in order to swamp the right of those who have the franchise under the law, then what is that right worth? Therefore strictly in accordance with the interpretation of the law it will not enable the Local Government to put a different construction to it than that of which it naturally admits, and you must read the word 'qualification' as meaning a qualification other than a monetary qualification I am glad, however, that an assurance has been given that it is not intended to disfranchise this large body of voters But if the rating qualification of Re 1 8 has worked well within the last twelve years, why should we not, as a matter of principle, enact it by law?

"As for the other portion of my amendment, I hope I will not be misunderstood This is an amendment which stands by itself It has nothing to do with controlling the power of the Government Even without controlling the power of the Government, you may form a class of voters under clause (iv) and still leave the section as it is This also is the case with the first clause, the amendment upon which has just been lost Under the amendment which I now propose persons will be entitled to vote who have paid not less than Rs 20 as rent in respect of the occupation by them of a holding which is assessed with the rate under section 80, clause (b) that does not exclude the power of the Government to lower the franchise still further or to bring in other persons I submit there is no reason why men who have been enjoying the franchise for the last twelve years should now be swept away, and which it is possible may be done Well it may be said that there is no intention to sweep them away, and probably it will not be done under the present liberal Government But what is the guarantee that this will never be done?

It is the object of my amendment to prevent this being done, and it has no reference to taking away the power of the Government in any way"

The Hon'ble Mr RISLEY said —"I understood the Hon'ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra Bahadur to say, when the question of grouping these amendment was discussed, that it would be convenient that the principle of all these amendments should be discussed upon the first amendment, and that it would be unnecessary to discuss it again when the other amendments came up The rules which have been framed under the Act were drawn up in 1884 by Mr Macaulay in consultation with the Advocate General and the Legal Remembrancer of the day, and the Law Officers of the Government have now held that those rules are in accordance with the law as it stands, and they add that the alterations which the Select Committee now propose do represent the law as it stands The attitude which the Government has assumed with reference to all these municipalities is to act in accordance with their wishes, and their wishes have been thoroughly considered with reference to the effect they are likely to have It appears to me impossible to please any one who takes the view the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment entertains If we raise the franchise, the complaint is that we disfranchise numbers of voters If we lower the franchise, we are told we shall swamp the existing voters It is difficult to see how an unfortunate Government can possibly be right under these circumstances The Rs 20 lodger qualification was introduced in 1886 to meet a want which was then suggested, it was carefully considered, and there is no intention to deprive this class of voters of the franchise But it might happen that the circumstances of particular municipalities might be such that a different amount of rent might be suitable, either more or less than Rs 20 Why should it be proposed to cut off from the Government the power of complying with the wishes of those municipalities in a matter of this kind? That is the whole point to be considered in regard to this amendment"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said —"I am sorry I cannot accept this amendment The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment proposes that a particular rule should be incorporated in the law, and the argument in favor of his proposal is that there is no guarantee that the rule may not be done away with in the future, and a large class of people may thus be disenfranchised We have the assurance of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that there is not the remotest idea on the part of the Government to disenfranchise the class of voters referred to in the amendment, and if ever there was any such danger, the fact of this discussion in the Council will afford an effectual safeguard against such a proceeding on the part of the Government That, I submit, is a sufficient safeguard against the possibility in the future of this right being taken away We cannot possibly incorporate all the rules which have been passed by the Government into the law I should have felt greater inclination to accept the amendment, if it were proposed to reduce the qualification from Rs 20 to Rs 10, if an attempt had been made to widen and broaden the franchise, and not to stereotype it The Government ought to have the power of extending the franchise, but I do not think the Government have any intention to raise it in order to exclude those who now possess the right The action of the Government in the past precludes the possibility of such an assumption It has been a past of much sympathy and of generous encouragement of Local Self Government, and we may take it that in the future it will be the same For these reasons I am not prepared to accept this amendment"

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said —"The question raised by this amendment stands upon a footing slightly different from that on which the question raised in the last amendment which has just been disposed of, stood The argument in favour of the amendment might be stated thus no doubt the rules framed under the Act relate to lodging franchise, but the section itself is silent in regard to such franchise, so that this amendment supplies a heading and an item, and points to a class of persons not indicated in the section Considered in this light, the amendment seems to be a reasonable one The section lays down certain principles as landmarks, and indicates certain classes in a general way, and the Government is empowered to frame rules thereunder the rules are not necessarily to be restricted to the classes to which the section relates, but it would be more symmetrical if the classes could, with some approach to exhaustiveness, be laid down in the section As the section at present stands, this class does not find a place there The first clause deals with the qualification of payment of Rs 3 rates, the second refers to the income tax qualification, the third refers to the case of joint undivided Hindu families, but there is no clause relating to a lodging franchise

"No doubt rules framed by the Government under section 15 comprise the case of lodging franchise, and there is also no doubt that such rules are not ultra vires in consequence of the omission of the class in the section But it would be far more satisfactory to include a clause in section 15 introducing a heading relating to lodging franchise by way of recognition of a principle in the enactment itself I do not understand it is the object of the amendment to lay down the limit of Rs 20, for reasons already assigned by me whilst discussing the last amendment, I do not think it expedient to lay down a rigid rule and to restrain or limit the power of the Government in regard to the extent of the qualification That must be left to the Government as a matter of detail Hon'ble Members have already highly eulogised the action of the Government in framing the rules and carrying them into effect If therefore the money qualification is the gist of the amendment, then I am not inclined to view it with favour, and the matter must remain where it is but if the object of the amendment is to supply a class, then it has my sympathy Therefore, regarded from this point of view, subject to some further light which might be thrown on the nature of the amendment and its effect in the course of the discussion, I am, as at present advised, inclined to vote in favour of the amendment"

The Hon'ble MR DAS said —"I was at first inclined to support this amendment, but in view of certain remarks which have fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, I am not now prepared to support it When this Bill was introduced, the Hon'ble Member said that it was one of the proposals—rather a prominent proposal—to grant what may be called a lodger franchise in future I expected that the rule now under discussion would be embodied in the Act, because it certainly was in the nature of a lodger franchise But as it has not been embodied in the Bill, I would have voted for the amendment, but for the remarks which fell from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, and which remarks were to the effect that a certain amount of latitude ought to be left to the Government so as to meet certain cases in which it may be necessary to reduce the amount of qualification and other cases in which it may be necessary to raise it, whereas if we embodied the rule as it stands in the Act, we would stereotype the qualification, and no latitude of discretion would be left to the Government From the assurance which has been given by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill and the remarks he made in introducing it pointing out the intention of the Government to confer a lodger franchise, I venture to think we should rest satisfied that it is not intended by the Government to disenfranchise any persons who have been hitherto qualified"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE said —"I wish to make one observation, and that is, to suggest to the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment not to press his Motion to a division I do this on two grounds first that he may well be content with the very favourable statement made by he Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, namely that the Government have no intention of lowering the franchise, and, secondly, that the question of principle involved has already been decided, namely, whether the legislature ought to leave to the Government the power of making rules in respect of these matters instead of embodying them in the Act That question was raised and fully discussed on a former amendment, and I think it is better to accept the fact that the Government has certainly had the better in the voting"

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN, in reply, said —"I regret I cannot accept the suggestion of the Hon'ble Member who last spoke, because by my next amendment on the agenda I propose to do what the Government are so much afraid of, that is to say, to control the power of the Government in these matters and have them determined by an Act of the Legislature I have only heard a few remarks which ought to be answered in connection with this measure My hon'ble friends who intend to vote against me on this occasion would like to give the Government a latitude to frame rules, in other words, to give an elasticity to the provisions of the Act, which is a favourite expression with some of them As for that I have only to submit that elasticity will not be wanting if the Government would move the Legislature from time to time to amend the law as may be found convenient, and not leave it to be done by framing rules It is also said that by leaving this power in the hands of the Government, the qualification might either be raised or lowered, as may be found expedient I would not quarrel with the lowering of the franchise to any extent possible, but it will be dangerous to leave to the Government the power of raising the franchise The Government might raise the lodger franchise from Rs 20 to Rs 100 That is what is meant by raising the money qualification, and we have no section corresponding to the section prescribing the 3-rupee rate as the maximum, that a man paying a rent of Rs 20 shall be entitled to vote If that had been inserted in the law, I may have seen the wisdom of Hon'ble Members opposing this amendment There is no maximum fixed in the law Everything is left in the hands of the Government, and they are left to provide this lodger franchise at any amount they please under the words contained in the explanation—'and may declare that any persons who are not referred to in that proviso shall be entitled to vote' That is something which appears to me—I will not say absurd—but something which is out of order It will be, as was said by the Hon'ble Maulvi Mahammad Yusuf, not in the spirit of the law to frame rules by which you will confer a lodger franchise The spirit of the Act will be against such a rule"

The Motion being put, the Council divided —

Hon'ble Babu Guru Proshad Sen	Hon'ble Mr Wallis
	Hon'ble Mr Das
	Hon ble Mr Gladstone
	Hon ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra Bahadur
	Hon ble Mr Bose

	Hon'ble Mr Finucane
	Hon'ble Mr Risley
	Hon ble Mr Pratt
	Hon'ble Mr Grimley

So the Motion was negatived

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN also moved that the word "only" be inserted after the word "shall," where it occurs in the concluding clause of the first proviso to section 15 of the Act, so as to make the clause run thus —

'shall only be entitled to vote at the election of Commissioners of such Municipality"

He also moved that in section 3, sub section (3) be omitted, and that in its place the following be substituted —

"Explanation —The words 'qualifications required to entitle any person to vote for a candidate for election' relate to the qualification as to age and as to one's being registered as a voter under the rules to be framed by the Local Government under this section'

He said —"This brings us to the question of principle, with regard to which we have heard the reply in anticipation, and I submit that the principle is a very sound one, namely, that instead of leaving everything to be done by rules, the most important matters should be provided by the law The maximum rating qualification is Rs 3 By putting it at Rs 2 8 you will disenfranchise a large class of men who have been enjoying it for the last twelve years under the Re 1 8 rule, and by putting it still higher at Rs 3 you possibly disenfranchise three fourths of the present voters On the other hand, by putting it very low, you can swamp a number of voters to whom you have given the right and privilege You minimise the right to nothing If you have not got all the materials before you to come to a conclusion regarding this matter, you should wait until all the materials are obtained We are told that we cannot do this, we cannot wait, because the next election will take place in October next That, I submit, is no reason why in considering an Act of the Legislature there should be any hurry The last elections took place under the existing rules The concession, to be a real concession, must be a concession which is made by the Legislature, and not left to be provided for by rules made by the Local Government, however favourable that Government may be to lowering the franchise No doubt the present Government is very liberally disposed to all kinds of local institutions, but at the same time I must say, and I must say distinctly, to those who are the supporters of the principle of Local Self Government in this country, that this is a matter which ought not to be left to the will of the Executive alone I appeal to those who desire to foster the principle of Local Self Government, whether my amendment does not meet with their entire approval I will not compare India with countries which have both the Municipal and Parliamentary franchise I will not compare our little India with Great Britain, but, on consulting the English Statutes, I find that in many Acts qualifications are not only laid down for guidance, but even the details are regulated by the Legislature They do not leave even the matter of registration to the Executive, but employ revising barristers for the purpose In India, in the Presidency towns, the rating qualification is fixed by Statute, and even in the North Western Provinces, where these matters are left to rules, there is a safe guard under which the rules are to be framed, and that is that the people are to be consulted in framing these rules, and in other places you are allowed six months to consider the rules Under these circumstances I submit that, as by the experiment which has been tried within the last twelve years, it has been established that the Re 1 8 rating qualification is suitable for all municipalities in these Provinces, and that the lodger franchise of Rs 20 will also answer, we have now arrived at a time when these matters should be definitely provided by an Act of the Legislature, and not be left to the Executive If this amendment is accepted, it will make as little change in the present rule of franchise as possible

"One word as to the change of attitude with which I have been charged I do not know of any such change of attitude or change of position on my part I have never held that the matter should be left to the discretion of the Local Government, as some of my friends have thought fit to do on different grounds I do not know the ground upon which some Hon'ble Members would proceed, but I know the ground upon which my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, is acting, namely, the ground of elasticity I have contended from the very beginning that this matter ought not to be left to be determined by rules, but should be provided for by positive legislation, and I do not think I can be charged with any change of attitude If the rules are to provide for everything, how is it that this amending Bill is brought before the Legislature The rules might very well have provided for the few changes now sought to be made in the law The only important matter embodied in the Bill is the proposal to confer the franchise on those who pay income tax If the interpretation of the law is as it is said to be, how is it that this Rs 50 income tax clause could not be provided for by rule In this case my hon'ble friend, the Mover of the Bill, thought otherwise, he did not think it could be done without an Act of the Legislature I say that if the rules are to be our guide on every point, in that case there would be no necessity for an enactment of this Legislative Council I submit that those who are the friends of Local Self-Government should vote with me in this matter"

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said —"I think after what has fallen from my hon'ble friend, Babu Surendranath Banerjee, the

Hon'ble Mover of this amendment will be pleased to consider whether it would not be wise in him to withdraw the amendment He has just been defeated in the amendment relating to lodging franchise, and the effect of introducing the little word 'only' might be that Government would be precluded from framing rules including the very persons for whose benefit statutory recognition was insisted on, viz, persons who pay Rs 20 as rent assessed under section 85 The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment would, by showing persistance in favour of his amendment, defeat the very object he had in view in moving the preceding amendment, which, although nominally lost, is really secured, though in a different shape

The Hon'ble Mr RISLEY said —"I do not think the Hon'ble Member has seen the consequences which will result from this amendment By inserting the word 'only' in the concluding clause of the first 'proviso' to section 15, he proposed to stereotype his two earlier amendments, but these he has now lost, and if he passes this, he will stereotype the law as it now stands, and the effect will be that he will disfranchise all those who now have a right to vote under the Rs 20 lodger franchise As to the question of principle, the position of the Government has been entirely misapprehended we have no intention of reducing the franchise All that the Government desires is to give each Municipality what it wants To embody in the law the varied requirements of all the municipalities would save the Government a great deal of trouble In point of fact this movement to stereotype the Re 1 8 rating qualification surprises me extremely, because it is the one question in which the several municipalities have clearly expressed their wishes Out of the whole number, 33 municipalities want to raise the franchise, some to Rs 5, some to Rs 3, and 21 want to keep it at Re 1 8, and the Government agree that for the minor small municipalities Re 1 8 is the best limitation, but in more advanced places the qualification of Rs 3 and Rs 5 might be introduced if people want it I do not think the Re 1 8 limit expresses the wish of the more intelligent classes of the community The limit of the municipal franchise in England cannot be referred to by way of comparison, because it follows the Parliamentary franchise and refers to a wholly different state of things Then the Hon'ble Member said that the Government of the North Western Provinces took a more liberal view of things and regulated the franchise by Statute I do not happen to have the Municipal Act of the North Western Provinces at hand to refer to, but my impression is that in the whole of Northern India legislation is based on the principle of leaving as much as possible to be provided for by rules, and that I submit is distinctly better than to attempt to provide for all possible circumstances by legislation As to consulting local bodies before passing rules, I may mention that I think the last proposed edition of the rules was sent out with a long explanatory letter and circulated to District Officers and Municipalities some time in May last I do not wish to dwell on the question of my hon'ble friend's change of position He said in April when the Bill was introduced that no change in the law is necessary, now he says he wants to harmonise the law with the rules and the existing practice My own opinion is that any attempt to do so will bring about rather discord than harmony"

The Hon'ble RAI ISHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA, BAHADUR said —"The circumstances of the several municipalities are so varied and different that it is impossible to say that no power should be left to Government to frame rules We must have some rules, and every day there may be a necessity to frame some rule I therefore cannot agree with my hon'ble friend that we should stereotype the existing practice by including in the law what is now provided by rules"

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN, in reply, said —"After the assurance which has been given by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Municipal Department of this Government, it is not necessary for me to press this matter to a decision, especially as my amendment regarding the Rs 20 lodger franchise and the Hon'ble Mr Bose's amendment regarding the Re 1 8 rating qualification have been negatived, I therefore beg leave to withdraw the motion which is now before the Council"

The Motions were, by leave of the Council, withdrawn

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that after the word "University" in line 6 of clause (iii) of section 3, the following words be added —

"Or has passed the First Arts examination of the Calcutta or any other Indian University

He said —"Clause (iii) of section 3 of this Bill proposes to confer the franchise upon a person 'being a member of a joint undivided family, one of the members of which has, during the year aforesaid, paid in respect of any rates an aggregate amount of not less than three rupees—is a graduate or licentiate of any University,' and so on I claim for my amendment that it is in entire accord with the principle which underlies this Bill I am thankful to be able to say that this Bill represents a distinct advance upon the principle of Local Self Government, inasmuch as it includes a large body of intelligent men who hitherto have not enjoyed the franchise, and I beg to tender my acknowledgments for the conciliatory spirit which the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill evinced throughout our discussions in the Select Committee, and, as a proof of that conciliatory spirit, I desire to refer to the Bill as it has been amended by the Select Committee as compared with the Bill which was introduced in March, 1896 There is a great difference between the Bill as it now stands and the Bill as it was introduced Many important and significant modifications have now been made in the Bill The Bill has been practically recast in the light of the opinions which have been received by the Select Committee It is not necessary for me to refer to the various modifications which have been made I need only refer to the important changes which have been made in the section to which my amendment refers When introducing this Bill, the Hon'ble Member in charge proposed to create a lodger franchise, to confer the franchise on all persons in occupation of holdings paying an annual rate of Rs 3, provided they were in receipt of a monthly salary of Rs 50 But this lodger franchise has now been abandoned in favour of the much wider proposal which confers the franchise on all residents of municipal towns, no matter whether they are in occupation of holdings which pay rates to the amount of Rs 3 or not, provided only that they be assessed to the income tax The change broadens the franchise and confers it on persons who did not possess it before It is not necessary that such persons should be in receipt of a salary of Rs 50 a month, but that they should have an income of about Rs 42 a month, and that their names should appear in the assessment books of the Income Tax Department I want to broaden the franchise a little further, to give fuller effect to the policy which underlies the Bill, and I claim the sympathy of the Council and of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill in favor of my amendment I have no hesitation in saying that undergraduates are at least as intelligent and as honest a class of men as Mukhtears and Revenue Agents And having regard to one of the election rules, which provides that no person shall be allowed to vote who has not attained the age of 21 years, we have a safeguard which will prevent too young persons from exercising the franchise The undergraduates upon whom I desire to confer the franchise represent a considerable constituency I have made some rough calculations, and I desire to place the materials before the Council, in the hope that Hon'ble Members will be in a position to form their own conclusions The First Arts examination has been in force for the last 35 years in the Calcutta University For the last 8 or 10 years the average number of those who have passed the First Arts examination is more than 1,000 The average of the last 5 years was about 1,200 If for the 35 years you take an average of 500 a year, you will have at least 17,000 undergraduates, resident in mufassal towns, who ought to be admitted to the franchise But even taking 10,000 to be residing in mufassal towns, they represent a considerable number of intelligent people who ought to be invested with the franchise It might be said why not include those who have passed similar examinations in connection with the English Universities I have not the slightest objection to widen the scope of my amendment But I look upon this matter from a practical point of view How insignificant must be the number of English graduates in mufassal towns in Bengal, as compared with the number of Indian graduates I proceed on the actual lines of the Act and of the Bill You don't confer the franchise on barristers who have been reading in the Inns of Court, and have passed the examinations, and have gone through the important ceremony of eating their dinners, although these gentlemen may be residing in the mufassal But you have conferred the franchise on the much lower class of legal practitioners, known as mukhtears and revenue agents I thus follow the lines of the Bill My amendment is in complete harmony with its principles I therefore feel the less hesitation in appealing to my hon'ble friend in charge of the Bill, who being on the governing body of the University must feel an interest in the intellectual as well as in the political advancement of our young men, to accept this amendment It is indeed a very small concession, but if granted it will popularize the Bill, strengthen the electorate, and broaden the basis of Local Self Government by enlisting on its behalf the sympathies of the young, the ardent, and the intelligent"

The Hon'ble Mr Risley said —"I have found myself, Sir, so much in accord with my hon'ble friend in respect of other sections of this Bill, and his attitude towards the Bill has been so generally reasonable, that I am sorry I cannot go with him in this To start with, the amendment amounts to giving votes to under graduates as such There is no getting over that You may define it in terms of the First Arts, but it really means giving votes to under graduates If the Council does that, the Council will lay itself open to comment, and will run the risk of making itself ridiculous Moreover, when once we have embarked on the course of enlarging these educational qualifications, where are you to stop? If the F A men are to get votes, why not the Entrance men, and I can imagine a plea being put in even for the fail entrances? We shall have opened a door which ought not to be opened, and the tendency will be to try and open it wider

'Then there is a more serious objection You will see if you look at the Act that the proposal gives to under graduates of Calcutta a privilege which is restricted to graduates of the elder Universities This is a fatal flaw, and I do not see how it could be got over I can see no solution

"Lastly, even if you chose to ignore the illogical character of the proposal, it would in any case work unevenly You might even have in the same joint family two members, one of whom had passed the Calcutta F A, and the other had passed or even taken honours in moderations at Oxford, but had stopped there The Calcutta man would have a vote, the Oxford man would not"

The Hon'ble Rai Peshan Chundra Mittra, Bahadur said —"I rise to support this amendment I think that inasmuch as by this Bill the franchise has been given to gentlemen who have obtained licenses from vernacular medical schools, why should not the same privilege be given to a class of men who from their education are likely to exercise the franchise most intelligently? It is well known that in the Mufassal it is most difficult to secure the votes of educated candidates, and those who have obtained a certain amount of education and position are not likely to be led away by the tricks which are played upon ignorant and uneducated men, such as cart drivers and others of the same class They are a respectable body of men, and they should have the privilege of voting in the same way as the holders of the diplomas of Government colleges and mukhtears and revenue agents, with whom under graduates are at any rate equally educated"

The Hon'ble Mr A M Bose said—"I really hoped that the persuasive powers of my hon'ble friend the Mover of the amendment would have prevailed to secure the adhesion of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, but I confess myself disappointed The first argument against the amendment is that if we adopt this proposal there will be no knowing where to stop The Hon'ble Member is well aware that that is a stock argument which in the history of progressive legislation is always brought forward whenever any change is proposed The answer to that argument is that a change should be resisted when for its own sake it ought to be resisted, but not on the ground that it may possibly in the future lead to other changes The next argument of the Hon'ble Mr Risley, which in fact was his strongest argument, was one with which I shall have felt considerable sympathy if it had any appreciable foundation in fact This was that by this amendment you would draw an invidious distinction between under graduates of Indian Universities and those who have passed similar examinations in connection with English and other European Universities That, I submit, is hardly an argument of a practical character under the circumstances of the present case I confess, speaking for our countrymen who have been to European Universities, that I cannot at present call to mind any instance of gentlemen resident in the mufassal who have proceeded to Europe and who have passed the previous examination of some University there but did not proceed to a degree And with regard to European gentlemen similarly situated, one is not aware of any such residing in a mufassal Municipality No instances were mentioned At any rate, whether it is so or not, the number of such gentlemen is not likely to be of any appreciable magnitude And in any case the difficulty, if any, can be easily removed by slightly broadening the scope of the amendment I appeal therefore to the Hon'ble Member to reconsider the matter Having regard to other classes of voters whom it is proposed to admit, those who have passed the First Arts examination and are 21 years of age, would form a most desirable addition to the electoral body Another argument which has been advanced is that by adopting this amendment we shall be breaking new ground I say, first, that this is not an argument which comes with very good grace from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, the very object of which is to break new ground That is the reason for the Bill, and though the amendment of my hon'ble friend may go beyond the scope of the proposals contained in the Bill, it is a reasonable extension of the franchise, and after all it is new ground very much more limited in its character than that which is the groundwork of the amending legislation proposed by the Hon'ble Member I again appeal to him to consider whether it will not be desirable to recognise the educational test as an important test in connection with the exercise of the franchise It has been pointed out that gentlemen who have satisfied the requirements of the University, and who have probably entered life in various capacities, would be at least as well qualified, both intellectually and morally, as many of those on whom it is proposed by the Bill to confer the municipal franchise, and I appeal to the Hon'ble Member to say whether education is not the best help towards good administration, its best ally, and its securest guarantee By recognising it you not only liberalise your policy, but you strengthen your position and improve the practical results of the exercise of the franchise'

The Hon'ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur said —"The strong and eloquent appeal which has been made in favour of this amendment has not failed to make an impression on my mind, although, correctly speaking, what has weighed with me more than the appeal is the favourable effect of the amendment, so far as it tends to the furtherance and promotion of Muhammadan interests It is on this ground that I give my support to this amendment and add my voice in its favour The persuasive powers of my hon'ble friends having failed to achieve success, I will try the effect of my arguments, and I put the matter thus the sum total of convenience in favour of the amendment far outweighs the inconvenient points There are a great many Muhammadan students who have passed the First Arts Examination who would be let in and have the right to vote by virtue of this amendment, but who would be otherwise excluded In their early years, generally speaking, the Muhammadan students are engaged in the study of Arabic, and if so they are 21 years of age by the time they have passed their First Arts Examination, so there is not likely to be much difficulty as regards the question of age the letting in of the amendment would therefore be a distinct gain to the Muhammadan community The pleaders of the Zilla Courts must also be those who should have passed the First Arts Examination the amendment will favourably affect that class also But apart from the question of nationality, and applying myself to the quality of the material let in, it appears that in point of education and therefore of intelligence and character, the persons who would acquire the franchise are in no way inferior to those who are already in In fact the higher the educational standard, the worthier the men you get The objections which have been urged against the acceptance of the amendment are so small that they may very well be put aside and disregarded The difficulty to determine the equivalent examination in English and other Universities is not insurmountable and might be easily provided for and that difficulty arises in so few cases that for the sake of the few, the many need not be sacrificed, because how many students of European Universities are residents of Mufassal Municipalities I therefore express a hope that the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill will see his way to accept the principle of this amendment By so doing he will promote the cause of Local Self Government in more ways than one, he will put the franchise in fitter and worthier hands in some cases The case of failed or passed Entrance students stands on a different footing and when their matter will be brought forward, it will, I submit, be time enough then to consider it but in regard to the passed First Arts students, they are, from their intelligence, education and character, in every way entitled to the franchise The principle of the amendment is fair and reasonable, its particular wording is a question to be decided hereafter"

The Hon'ble MR DAS said —"I also must vote for this amendment With regard to the difficulties pointed out by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, it has been said by the Hon'ble Mr Bose that the difficulties are of a theoretical character, and are of no practical importance If it is necessary to extend the franchise to persons who have obtained similar honors from English Universities, in order that this new franchise may be consistently and justly extended to First Arts passed students of the Indian Universities, I do not think the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment will have any objection to such extension Local Self Government is in its infancy in this country The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill supposes certain difficulties which may be met with if the franchise is extended to certain classes of men, but with all possible deference to the Hon'ble Member, I say that he has no personal experience of the difficulties met with in Mufassal Municipalities, where we have to deal with a number of voters who are wanting in intelligence When this Bill was introduced, it was said that one of the reasons for introducing the Bill was to extend the franchise to an intelligent class of voters, and the franchise was, as proposed, extended to a class of men who have not been included, because they have the property qualification, but they seem to have been included because they have an educational qualification That was no doubt an amendment in the right direction, and as this Bill has been amended by the Select Committee so as to extend the franchise to persons in whose case their education is a guarantee for the just exercise of the right of voting, I think it should on the same ground be extended to those who have passed the First Arts examination I have known an instance in the Mufassal where a person who had worked for a municipality for twelve years (he occupied the position of an Executive Engineer, which went to show that he was a man who could do an immense amount of service to the municipality), stood for election as a Commissioner of that municipality, but I was the only person who voted for him All the other electors voted for a clerk in the Commissioner's office, who was in receipt of a pay of Rs 35 a month And I have also known an instance where a gentleman's own coachman and durzee voted against him, because a clerk in the office told them they would have their taxes remitted if they voted for him These are examples which show that we should encourage intelligence in voters, and I think that in the interests of Local Self Government it is necessary that the franchise should be extended to First Arts students I do not think they are in any way inferior to mukhtears in intelligence and not certainly to revenue agents, and I do not see why the franchise should not be extended to them We have heard from the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment that a very large number of this class of intelligent men are to be found in the Mufassal, and I dare say it will be to the interest of Local Self Government, and of the municipalities themselves, to have intelligent voters to vote for people who really take an interest, and have the ability to administer, the municipal affairs"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"As the temper of the Council has been very distinctly indicated in this matter, I am prepared to come forward with a compromise which might possibly meet the case I entirely admit the intelligence of the proposed class of voters The question of age is covered by the rule which prescribes the age of 21 Perhaps the difficulty might be met by the addition of the words 'or the corresponding standard of any other University' I accept the principle of the amendment, the exact wording of which can be settled hereafter"

The Hon'ble MR PRATT said —"The expression 'First Arts' examination was only applicable to the Calcutta and Madras Universities In Bombay the corresponding standard was called the 'Previous' examination, and in the Panjab and Allahabad it was termed 'Intermediate'"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said —"If the principle of the amendment is accepted, the exact wording can be settled at a subsequent Meeting of the Council"

The further consideration of the amendment was accordingly postponed

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 8th instant

The mean pressure, temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h, 16h and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JULY 1896

As in June, but for other reasons, the discussion of the weather conditions this year during July has to be divided into two parts—one referring to the first half of the month and the other to the latter half The reason for the division in June was the change that became general owing to the bursting of the monsoon In July the disturbing causes developed over the land in the early part of the month, and in the north of the Bay in the latter half The importance of the land disturbances, as compared with those which take place over the sea, arises from the more heavy and general rain which falls in the north and centre of the Province with the former class, while with the latter the heaviest rainfall is confined to the south west of the Province Up to nearly the middle of the month no depression formed over the Bay, but at times there were slight depressions inland These caused an irregular cyclonic circulation of light winds and heavy rainfall, which were most marked about the 5th and 6th and again on the 11th

The rapid rise of pressure which followed the second of these depressions began in the north of the Province, and extending southwards, gave rise to a shallow depression on the 13th off the coast of the Circars By the 14th it had crossed the coast of the Circars, and the disturbance had practically ceased so far as the Bay area was concerned

During the following week high pressure developed over Bengal and spread slowly westwards It remained well defined till the 19th, when a fall began in the north east of the Province and extended south westward in much the same way as the previous rise had done With the fairly rapid fall in the north east a shallow depression formed, and this low pressure area was each day farther south than the preceding one till it was over the north of the Bay where it remained till the end of the month While it was over the land heavy local rainfall occurred, especially when the centre of the irregular cyclonic circulation was in East Bengal on the 21st

Within this low pressure area, which was a very marked feature of the pressure distribution during the last week, two cyclonic storms developed close to the head of the Bay They followed almost exactly the same track towards the west or west north west, passing near Saugor Island and Balasore and across the north of Orissa The first was well defined within that area on the 22nd and 23rd, and the second on the 26th and 27th

Their influence on the weather in Bengal was not very great, but the continued low pressure over the north of the Bay intensified as it was during the existence of the cyclonic storms, gave rise to strong winds over almost the whole of the Bay area and a high sea which did not moderate till after the close of the month

Weather conditions during the last few days of June were recovering from the effects of a cyclonic storm, and, as frequently occurs, after these disturbances the rapid rise of pressure continues till readings are relatively higher in the west than the east of the Province This was the case on the 1st July, though not to any great extent, but westerly winds had become general over a great part of the Province and very little rain was falling The difference from the normal in pressure varied from excess of 03 inch in Chota Nagpur to defect of 05 inch in North Bengal, and mean temperature was everywhere in excess by about 2° The westerly winds were farther east on the 2nd, and as some interaction was taking place, moderately heavy local rainfall occurred, chiefly in the central districts

A slow fall of pressure began on the 3rd, and continuing for several days, gave rise to the first shallow depression over the land It was very faint on the 4th, being shown more by the cyclonic circulation of winds than by differences of pressure but it become slowly more definite, and on the 6th it was in the western half of the Province By the 7th it had crossed Bihar, and easterly or south easterly winds prevailed During these days many stations reported heavy rain daily On the 5th falls of from one to two inches were fairly general on the 6th falls of between two and three inches occurred in the central districts and on the 7th the heavy rainfall was confined to the north of the Province

The slow changes of pressure had made little difference on the distribution, and on the 7th readings were slightly below the normal A slow rise on the 8th was followed by a more decided fall on the 9th This fall began in the east, and caused westerly winds on that day at all except the extreme eastern and northern stations Very little rain was then falling but as pressure became lower daily, the second depression formed, and owing to the cyclonic circulation it set up, rainfall became more frequent and heavy On the 11th the depression was over the central districts, and on the 12th a brisk rise of pressure had driven it westward The distribution was again normal with light general rain in all districts except Chota Nagpur

Up to this time settled weather of the ordinary monsoon character had prevailed over the Bay The brisk rise of pressure which began on the 12th in Bengal and continued on the 13th, accompanied, as it was, by a slow fall in the south west of the Bay, led to the formation of a depression off the coast of the Circars It was very shallow and of short duration, as on the 14th it had crossed the coast between Vizagapatam and Gopalpur, having caused no disturbance except rather heavy rainfall on that part of the coast

Pressure recovered rapidly on the 15th and 16th and high readings became general over the Province and the Bay, being most marked in the eastern districts of Bengal This arrangement retarded the monsoon, and very little rain fell either in Burma or Bengal for several days Winds were generally south west over the Bay, and south or south-east in Bengal These being the usual monsoon directions, the effect of the high pressure was shown more in the loss of strength than in any change of direction

The first signs of a change began on the 18th, when westerly winds set in over the western districts with the exception of North Bihar, and heavy rain fell at Darjeeling There was still high pressure everywhere, excess varying from 1 inch in the north of the Province to nearly 2 inch in the east of the Bay On the 19th it was falling over the whole Province and the greater part of the Bay, nowhere rapidly, but most so in Assam and the adjacent part of North Bengal Winds had become westerly or irregular, and light or moderate rainfall was general On the 20th the fall of pressure continued, and again the greatest change was in the west of Assam and part of North Bengal while a moderate rise prevailed in the west of the Bay These changes had an important influence on the distribution The difference from the normal on the 20th varied from excess of a fifth of an inch in the Circars to defect of 03 inch in North Bengal, so that the gradient was now much steeper than usual from south west to north east The area of greatest fall of pressure moved south westward, and the gradient over the Bay was again steeper on the 21st, also, as the area of lowest pressure was now over Lower Bengal, heavy rain was falling at many stations in the south of the Province, especially at Chittagong, Barisal, and Ranchi On the 22nd the southward motion of the low pressure area was checked over the north of the Bay, where the depression deepened and a cyclonic storm developed

As the fall of pressure on the 22nd was 15 inch at Saugor Island and over the adjacent part of the Bay while there was a slow rise in the west of Bihar, the depression became well defined with a considerable defect over the Sunderbans and the extreme north of the Bay Barometric readings varied from 29 32, inches at Saugor Island to 29 946 inches at Colombo—a difference of 625 inch, showing a steep gradient down to the south of the Bay Stormy weather prevailed over the sea but as the area of lowest pressure was now to the south of the Province, comparatively fine weather prevailed at inland stations, except in the south west, where rain was falling in moderate amounts On the 23rd the centre of the depression was near Balasore, weather being practically unchanged, and on the 24th it had passed out of the Province

Pressure did not recover with the rapidity usual after a cyclonic storm of such intensity, and consequently a trough of low pressure remained stretching across the north of the Bay, and deepest in Orissa on the 24th One result of this arrangement was that the winds in the east and centre of the Bay remained much above the average strength

A slow rise of pressure on the 25th in the west of the Bay and a slow fall in the east transferred the area of lowest pressure eastward over the north of the Bay, and a second cyclonic storm began in the same place as the one preceding It immediately began to move towards the west, and at 8 A M of the 27th the centre was close to Saugor Island, at which the barometric reading was 29 065 inches At the same time the reading at Colombo was 29 862 inches, the difference being 807 inch, nearly 2 inch greater than in the case of the previous storm

This greater difference was due to the steep gradient in the north west angle of the Bay The depression moved rapidly to the west and though there was a very rapid rise at Saugor Island and in its immediate neighbourhood, this recovery was local, and the trough of low pressure remained Defect on the 28th varied from 2 inch to 28 inch over almost the whole of the north of the Bay Though pressure rose slowly on the three succeeding days, the distribution remained practically the same, with a steep gradient over the Bay and considerable defect in the northern part

This last disturbance of the month was the most severe experienced during the present season, but the rainfall caused by it in Bengal was very slight owing to the low pressure which continued over the north of the Bay This low pressure area prevented the free flow of the monsoon current over the Province and the showery weather which generally prevails after such depressions have moved away to the west

Pressure —There is very little to note under this head for the early part of the month The usual oscillations, never large, occurred During the latter half of the month, on the other hand, the distribution was very abnormal—(1) in the high pressure prevailing during the third week , (2) in the continued low pressure during the last week, especially in the north of the Bay and in Lower Bengal

The effect of this low pressure, notwithstanding the previous high readings, is shown in the means for the month, which are below the normal at all stations Defect varies from 02 inch in the north to 05 inch in the south of the Province

Temperature —At the beginning of the month temperature was about 1° above the normal at all stations At times it fell in the northern and more rarely in the western districts till readings were 1° or 2° below the normal, but there was no great change in the early part of the month Afterwards, when the cyclonic storms occurred, there was a fall in the south west of the Province At the same time fine weather with comparatively cloudless skies prevailed in the north, and temperature became unusually high for the season Towards the end of the month mean excess was as much as 6° in Bihar and 8° in part of North Bengal and Assam

Average maximum and minimum readings for the month are nearly normal in Orissa and above the normal elsewhere by amounts increasing towards the north, where excess was 2° in the case of the former and 1° 5 for the latter Mean excess also varied from 0 in the south of Orissa to 2° in North Bengal

Rainfall—The distribution of rainfall, though as usual rather irregular, did not differ to a large extent from the normal, except in the Orissa Hill Tracts, part of South Chota Nagpur, and part of East Bengal In the two first there was a moderate to large excess, and in the last a moderate defect The average fall in North Bengal was 17 71, Chota Nagpur 15 53, Orissa 15 26, East Bengal 12 67, South East Bengal 12 13, and Bihar 11·67 inches In Orissa there was an average excess of 8 59 inches in Chota Nagpur 1 7 inches, and in North Bengal about 1 inch, while in the other divisions there was defect varying from 65 inch in South West Bengal to 4 89 inches in East Bengal

Though the average fall for the whole Province was very nearly normal, the area over which amounts fell in excess of the normal is much less than half, and is largely in the west There are two strips of country in North Bengal showing excess rainfall of from 2 to 4 inches generally One contains the greater part of the Cooch Bihar and Jalpaiguri districts and the other runs almost east and west from the Garo Hills to the Sonthal Parganas The main area of excess rainfall begins from the coast of the north west angle of the Bay, and, extending in a direction a little to the west of north, includes the greater part of Orissa, part of South West Bengal, and the east of Chota Nagpur Continuing north wards but narrowing rather quickly, it crosses Bihar as far as Muzaffarpur Over the greater portion of this tract excess was between 1 and 5 inches and the heaviest rain fell in Chota Nagpur in an area extending northwards from Singhbhum to Hazaribagh In the part indicated by the three stations, Chaibassa, Chakradarpur, and Ranchi, excess was more than 13 inches

In East Bengal, the Sonthal Parganas and in the East of Bihar there are considerable areas over which defect was between 5 and 7 inches, but over the greater part of the Province, excluding the tracts dealt with in the paragraph above, defect was generally between 1 and 3 inches

With the exception of a few stations on the Himalayas, the heavest rainfall occurred in the south west of Singhbhum, where more than 30 inches fell Diminishing from this centre, falls of more than 20 inches were recorded at all stations from Ranchi south to the Orissa Hills, and of more than 15 inches in the whole of Orissa, the southern half of Chota Nagpur, and part of South West Bengal As usual the area of lightest rain was a comparatively narrow strip, except at the eastern end, extending from East Bengal north westwards to the west of South Bihar Within this area falls were between 5 and 10 inches frequently about 7 inches In North Bihar falls were generally about 10 inches, and in North Bengal they were generally between 10 and 15 inches, except close to the hills, where they varied between 30 and 46 inches

The following table gives a comparison of the falls in the various divisions during the month of July with the normal fall the actual being given as a percentage of the normal fall The table also shows the actual falls for each of the previous months of the year expressed in the same way and the last column of the table shows the total of the falls of the past seven months of the year in each division expressed as a percentage of the normal fall —

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of July in all districts of the Province The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each station represents This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past fifteen years The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage and the fourth column gives the same information in a slightly different form, expressing as a percentage how much the district rainfall varied in excess or in defect from the normal rainfall —

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—(ECCLESIASTICAL)

NOTIFICATION—No 276t

The 25th August 1896 —The following subsidiary rules for the erection, repair, and endowment of monuments in Government cemeteries in the Lower Provinces of Bengal are published for general information in supersession of the subsidiary rules promulgated with this Government letter Nos 1767 1779, dated the 18th May 1895 —

Subsidiary Rules for the Erection, Repair, and endowment of Monuments in Government Cemeteries

APPLICATION FOR ERECTION OF A MONUMENT

I —A person desiring to erect a monument should submit his application in the Form A (appended), with a drawing of the monument, to the Chaplain or other officer in charge of the cemetery

II —The Chaplain or other officer in charge will then send on the application and drawing with a forwarding letter (Form B annexed) to the Executive Engineer of the district, who will fill in column 10, and return the application with the drawing to the Chaplain

The repair of fragile or costly work liable to receive damage cannot be undertaken by Government and should not be taken into consideration in the estimate of column 10(b)

III —On return of the application in all cases, except when the applicant wishes to erect merely a simple cross, headstone or slab, consisting of a single stone, over an adequate foundation without endowment, or is a British soldier or non commissioned officer, and does not desire to endow the monument (vide Rule XIX, note (3) of the Government of India, Home Department Notification No 103, dated 20th June 1885, as amended by Addendum No 142 dated 25th April 1895, of the Government of India, Home Department), the Chaplain will obtain from the applicant the amount of the endowment calculated as in Rules VII and VIII and shall give a receipt in the Form C annexed

IV —On the endowment, if any, being paid, the Chaplain will send the application in Form A with the drawing to the Archdeacon, with an intimation that the amount of the endowment has, or has not, been deposited If the deceased belongs to some other denomination than that of the Church of England, the Chaplain shall obtain a certificate of approval of the design from the minister of the denomination to which the deceased belonged and forward it with the application to the Archdeacon

V —The Archdeacon will permit the monument to be erected or refuse to do so In the latter case the amount deposited for the endowment, if already paid, must be returned by the Chaplain to the giver

VI —If permission be given by the Archdeacon, the Chaplain must inform the Executive Engineer as soon as the monument is ready for erection, and the latter will see that it is properly set up, and will enter the monument upon his list for repairs by the Public Works Department

AMOUNT OF ENDOWMENT

VII —An endowment fee of Rs 15 will be charged when a person wishes to endow the simplest form of memorial (namely a cross, headstone or slab) consisting of a single stone over an adequate foundation For more elaborate monuments the capital amounts payable for maintenance and repairs shall be 30 per cent on the cost of the monument to be endowed

VIII —The endowment at 30 per cent of cost is intended to cover the cost of ordinary annual maintenance re lettering and repairs and not the risk of accidents due to floods or earthquakes or other extraordinary causes It is open to any person to provide any larger sum entered by the Executive Engineer in column 10(b) of the application for work such as Government officers can undertake to execute

ACCOUNTS AND ESTIMATES

IX —When permission has been granted for the erection and endowment (or in the case of existing monuments for the endowment only) of a monument, the Chaplain or other officer in charge of the cemetery shall enter the capital sum received under Rule III in the column "Endowment—Savings Bank" in a cash book in Form D annexed, with the necessary particulars and deposit the amount at once in the Savings Bank in a separate account opened for each cemetery

But in the case of endowments in excess of 30 per cent of the cost of the monument made under Rule VIII by persons desiring to provide a larger sum than 30 per cent, for special repairs, a separate account should be opened in the Savings Bank for each monument so endowed

X.—The interest only on the deposit shall be used in meeting the expenditure for the repair of those monuments for whose preservation deposits have been made In no circumstances should the capital sum be applied to meet such expenditure, nor should the interest be separate for each monument The interest accruing on the deposits shall form a common fund to be used exclusively for the repairs of all endowed tombs

But in the case of special endowments exceeding 30 per cent of the cost of the monument, made under Rule VIII, the interest accruing on the deposits shall be credited to the separate account to be opened under Rule IX and used only for the repairs of the particular monument so endowed

Vide also Appendix A, Rule 1 (b) to Government of India Home Department Notification No 108 dated the 20th June 1885

XI.—Joint estimates shall be framed annually by the Executive Engineer and the Chaplain (or officer in charge) of the cost of repairs of tombs, and the aggregate of the sums so estimated as required for endowed tombs shall be placed to the credit of the Executive Engineer, Public Works Department at the Treasury, by the Chaplain or other officer in whose name the monies are in deposit at the Government Savings Bank

XII.—Interest received from the Comptroller, Post Office, on Government securities purchased from the endowment money (Rule XIII) and that allowed by the Savings Bank on the deposits shall be credited in the cash book in the column 'Interest,' and when any amount is withdrawn from the bank for payment to the credit of Public Works Department for the repair of the monuments, it shall be debited in a corresponding column on the charge side of the cash book, the particulars being given in the book The interest received from the Comptroller, Post Office, shall at once be deposited in the Savings Bank, unless it is required for immediate payment to the Public Works Department for repairs, in which case it should be paid at once into the Treasury

XIII.—When the balance at credit of the account, exclusive of interest, exceeds Rs 500, it may be invested in Government securities, through the Comptroller, Post Office, under Savings Bank Rules The amount required for the purchase will, on receipt of intimation from the Comptroller, Post Office, be deducted by the local post office from the Chaplain's Savings Bank pass book The Chaplain will make the corresponding entries in his cash book, by charging the cost of the investment in the column 'Savings Bank' under "Endowments," and crediting per contra the nominal amount of the securities purchased in column "Securities" under "Endowment

XIV.—At the close of each official year, the cash book shall be closed, and the balance agreed as follows —

(i) Endowments—

(a) Securities.—With a certificate from the Comptroller, Post Office, of the amount of securities in the custody of the Comptroller General

(b) Savings Bank.—With the balance of the pass book after deducting the interest credited but not drawn

(ii) Interest—

With the cash in hand, if any, being interest drawn but not yet disbursed (this should be avoided as far as possible towards the end of the official year), plus the amount of interest included in the Savings Bank pass book

XV.—A copy of this account, as closed on 31st March should be sent to the Accountant-General, Bengal, supported by the Treasury receipts for the payments to the credit of the Executive Engineer and certified copies of intimations from the Comptroller, Post Office showing the cost of investments in Government securities, the latter being obtained from the local Savings Bank

ENDOWMENT OF EXISTING MONUMENTS

XVI.—When application is made for the endowment of an existing monument, the above procedure should be followed as far as applicable The application in Form A must be submitted to the Chaplain or other officer in charge, and forwarded by him to the Executive Engineer The latter, besides framing an estimate of annual repairs, must estimate the cost of placing the monument upon a suitable foundation if he is satisfied that such a foundation does not exist On the sums thus estimated being paid, the application should be sent to the Archdeacon, and with his consent the monument will be brought on to the books of the Public Works Department The amount paid for the foundation should be made over to the Executive Engineer, who will carry out the work without delay

XVII.—In order that Government may know that the tombs are kept in proper repair, an Annual Report in form E should be forwarded by the Chaplain (or officer in charge) with respect to their condition, for each cemetery, to the Accountant General, who will consolidate the returns so received and render a general return to Government

The reports sent to the Accountant General should contain remarks, both by the Chaplain and Executive Engineer, as to the state of the tombs for which endowments have been made

No 163 —Declaration —Whereas it appears to the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal that land is required to be taken by Government at the public expense for a public purpose, viz , for spoil at Kalinagore, in the village of Budgebajia, pargana Keoramal, taraf Krench, subdivision Contai, zilla Midnapore, it is hereby declared that for the above purpose a piece of land measuring, more or less, 4 cottahs and 14½ chitaks of standard measurement, bounded on the north by Ramanath Koila's paddy lands south by the excavation pits of the Kalinagore embankments east by the Hidgli Tidal Canal lands, and west by Ramanath Maity s paddy fields, is required within the aforesaid village of Budgebajia

This declaration is made, under the provisions of section 6 of Act I of 1894, to all whom it may concern

A plan of the land may be inspected in the office of the Collector of Midnapore

[Sixth Publication]

The 21st July 1896

No 142 —Notification —The Lieutenant Governor of Bengal proposes to make the following modifications in rule 2 of the rules passed by him under the provisions of sections XI and XII of Act V (B C) of 1864 in Notification No 151 of the 6th June 1893

2 Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below —

Class I —To include all steamers, flats and barges, and such other square built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor, be included

Class II —To include all vessels of the usual native types of build

The net tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V (B C) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements —

Class II —

A —The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern measured along the water line multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied

B —The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches , the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth

C —In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only

D —Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty, for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II shall be increased by one half For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only In the case of steamers the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one third as an allowance for engine space

For approved firms constantly engaged in traffic, the way bills on board a vessel of Class I, certified to shew the total actual weight of cargo carried, will be accepted as the basis for assessment of tolls

The notice convening the meeting having been read and Mr R A Lyall having been invited to take the Chair it was

Proposed by Mr A S Lovelock
Seconded by Babu J C Mookerjee

1 That the Managing Agents report having been taken as read be adopted and that the accounts be passed as correct

Carried unanimously

Proposed by Mr C P Lomax
Seconded by Mr R A Lyall

2 That Messrs Lovelock and Lewes be re appointed Auditors of the Company on a salary of Rs 300 per audit

Carried unanimously

The Managing Agents informed the meeting that since the report was issued the Oudh and Rohilkund Railway to whom an offer to transfer the working of the line to their Company had been made had declined to entertain the proposal as the Government of India did not approve of their taking it up but at the same time that Company had offered to render the Tramway all the assistance in their power in regard to repairs of rolling stock &c which liberal offer the Managing Agents have gladly accepted They further stated that the Collector of the district of Shajehanpore is interesting himself in the position of the Tramway Company and has stated his willingness to forward to the Commissioner any reasonable proposals that the Tramway Company may have to make and further that he will render the Company all the local aid possible The Managing Agents hope ere long to be able to lay a scheme before the shareholders for raising the funds necessary to place the rolling stock in proper order and pay off the liabilities of the Company

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chair

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No 347 of 1896) that on 30th March 1896, the light vessel Newchwang at the entrance to Liau river was temporarily replaced by the light vessel Omega

The Omega shows two fixed lights, placed vertically, the upper one red, elevated 65 feet above the sea, and visible in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles, the lower one white, elevated 41 feet above the sea, and visible 10 miles

Should the lights be lowered for trimming a small white light and a flare up light will be shown

Approximate position, lat 40° 34′ N, long 122° 0½ E

If this light vessel is driven from her station to a position where she is of no use as a guide to shipping, the usual lights will not be exhibited, but a red light will be shown at each end of the vessel, the ball being struck as soon as possible, and until struck will be surmounted by a red flag.

Also, the fog signal on board the Omega will consist of a gong, which, during thick or foggy weather, will be sounded at intervals of one minute.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON THE GOVERNMENT CINCHONA PLANTATION AND FACTORY IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1895 96

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS

READ—

The Annual Report on the Government Cinchona Plantation and Factory in Bengal for the year 1895 96

The year under review was remarkable for the drought which followed the close of the rains a drought which is said to have been the severest on record since the plantation was started thirty two years ago It did considerable damage to the cinchona plants, and effectually prevented any extension being made during the cold season, although 300,000 seedlings were ready to be planted out and a large piece of land had been prepared to receive them Thus, except for the addition of 9,200 plants of hybrid cinchona the plantation was not increased The number of trees uprooted for their bark was 453,000 against 498,500 in the previous year, the number comprised 65,000 red bark trees used for the manufacture of cinchona febrifuge, and 388,000 of the kinds which yield yellow or quinine producing bark The result of the year's operations was that the total number of living cinchona plants at the Government plantations, excluding the nursery stock, at the close of the year, was 3,483,701

2 The crop collected during the year amounted to 467,190 lbs of dry bark against 500,534 lbs in 1894 95, and consisted of 53,380 lbs of red bark and 413,810 lbs of yellow bark The whole of this crop, with the exception of 790¼ lbs supplied to medical depôts or sold to Government institutions, was, as usual, made over to the Cinchona Factory for manufacture into quinine and febrifuge In addition to the bark cropped at the Government plantations, 170,000 lbs of bark of the quinine yielding sorts were purchased from certain tea companies in Darjeeling

3 The outturn of the factory was 9,004 lbs of sulphate of quinine and 3,124 lbs of cinchona febrifuge, against 8,318 and 4,032 lbs respectively in 1894 95 The following statement compares the issues of the year with those of the preceding year —

	1894 95		1895 96

Given as samples	1 8½	0 7	2 11½	1 14
Total	7 561 13½	3 276 4	10 287 2½	3 830 14

The increase of 2,725 lbs in the issues of sulphate of quinine was caused in nearly equal proportions by the growth of the post office demand for pice packets, and also by the larger indents of the medical depôts in connection with the Chitral Expedition The rise of 194 lbs in the quantity of cinchona febrifuge purchased by the public shows that although the minor cinchona alkaloids are now sold very cheap, this preparation still ranks high as a remedy for fever The stock of manufactured alkaloids in hand at the close of the year was 3,105 lbs , viz , 2,357 lbs of sulphate of quinine and 748 lbs of cinchona febrifuge

4 The following statement compares the receipts from the sale of sulphate of quinine, cinchona febrifuge, cinchona bark, and other products of the plantation during the last two years —

	1894 95 Rs	1895 96 Rs.
By sale for cash	74,347	79,508
By credit from the medical depôts and Port Blair	39,500	63,589
By credit from the Inspector General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal	2,657	1,090
By credit from the Inspector General of Jails, Bengal—
For jails	515	874
For pice-packets	27,084	44,469
Total	1,44,103	1,89,530

Excluding Rs 73,025 which was paid on account of the last instalment of the purchase money of the Nimbong Cinchona Plantation, and Rs 34,000 paid for the purchase of bark from the Darjeeling Tea and Cinchona Association, the expenditure on the plantation amounted to Rs 79,865 against Rs 73,806 in the previous year, the increase being chiefly under contingent expenditure incurred on the transport of bark from Nimbong The amount spent on account of the factory rose from Rs 35,700 to Rs 41,811, which was chiefly due to the extensive purchase of chemicals during the year In addition to the factory expenditure proper a sum of Rs 21 171 was paid for the purchase and transport from the Madras Government Factory, Ootacamund, of 1,500 lbs of quinine required to meet the increased demand for pice packets

6 The net profit on the working of the plantations amounts to Rs 4,598 against Rs 7,705 in the previous year As the capital cost of the plantations has long ago been paid off, and Government desires only to secure for the people, without loss to itself, a cheap remedy for fever, the Lieutenant Governor considers this result entirely satisfactory

7 The scheme for the sale of Government quinine, through the medium of the Postal Department, makes steady progress The amount delivered to the Jail Department, for conversion into pice packets, was 3,170 lbs against 2,025 lbs in 1894 95 The demand for this quinine has increased with such rapidity that it has been necessary to limit the sale to post offices in Bengal and Assam, and to discontinue the regular supply to other Provinces The working of the scheme has been reviewed at some length in the Jail Report for 1895 and in the Resolution recorded thereon, and attention was drawn in the Resolution on the Sanitary Commissioner's report to the general correspondence between fever mortality and the demand for quinine

8 The acknowledgments of the Lieutenant-Governor are again due to Dr King and Mr Gammie for the efficient management of the Department during the year

By order of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal,

H H RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt of Bengal

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE INCOME-TAX DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1895-96

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—SEPARATE REVENUE

RESOLUTION—No 4588S R

Read—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the financial results of the Administration of the Income tax for the year 1895 96

No change of any importance was made during the year in the administration of the Income Tax The following statement compares the financial results during the last two years —

	1894 95 Persons.	1895 96 Persons
Number of persons originally assessed, excluding Government servants	108,765	110,584
Number of persons finally assessed, excluding Government servants	106,975	108,901
Number of persons finally assessed, including Government servants	115,583	117,639
Number of assessees including Government servants, who paid the tax within the year	112,874	114 820
Final demand of income-tax for the current year	44 87,280	46,44,587
Final demand, including penalties, fines, and arrears of previous years	47,20 384	48 14,912
Collections of income tax within the year	43,95,230	45,14,456
Gross receipts	45,61,118	46,58,323
Charges	1,75,703	1,81,774
Percentage of charges on receipts	3 9	3 9
Net revenue	43 85,415	44,76,549

The net revenue shows an increase of Rs 91,134 or 2 08 per cent , against an increase of Rs 2,13,234 or 5 1 per cent in the previous year Including advance payments and excess collections, and making allowance for various adjustments, the actual receipts at the close of the year amounted to Rs 46,58,323 against Rs 45,61,118 in the previous year The receipts on account of the current demand for 1895 96 amounted to Rs 45,43,998, which is Rs 1,22,986 in excess of similar receipts in the previous year

3 The increase in the final demand occurred in every district except in Monghyr, Murshidabad, Cuttack, Patna, Bogra, Hazaribagh, Khulna, Palamau, Malda, Tippera, Rajshahi, Lohardaga, and the 24 Parganas, and is ascribed by the Board to the discovery of new assessees and enhanced assessments in towns and centres of trade In some cases, however, special causes have been at work Thus in Manbhum the development of coal mining in the north of the district, and in Darjeeling a prosperous tea season and great activity in the building trade, enhanced taxable incomes and brought in new assessees, while in Dacca an increase of 24 5 per cent was mainly due to fluctuations in the profits of the jute trade from year to year The causes assigned for the instances of decrease are various, but in no district does the percentage of decrease exceed three, except in Cuttack and Monghyr, which show a decline of 3 9 and 3 08 per cent , respectively These causes scarcely call for comment, except in Khulna and Palamau, where the decrease was due to large exemptions on revision, consequent on careless assessments made in previous years

4 Demand, collections, and balances —The following statement shows the original demand, the revised demand, and the percentage of collections from assessees, exclusive of Government servants —

Year	Original number of assessees	Revised number of assessees	Original demand	Final demand after revision	Amount of final demand collected	Percentage of final demand collected.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
			Rs	Rs.	Rs.
1894-95	108,765	106 975	40 72 041	39 72 551	38,91 351	97 7
1895- 6	110 684	108 901	42 28 980	41 28,253	40 08 151	96 9

The outstanding balance at the close of the year, including penalties, &c, aggregated Rs 1,61,461 against Rs 1,62,002 in 1894 95 Of this balance, Rs 81,100 are reported to be good and under realization, Rs 57,985 doubtful, and Rs 25,376 bad and irrecoverable

5 The districts which succeeded in collecting the entire demand within the year were Burdwan, Bankura, Murshidabad, Faridpur, Tippera, Noakhali, Patna, and Malda, the last three of which did equally well in the previous year The collections on account of current and arrear demand, including tax, penalties, &c, were below 95 per cent in the following districts —

Dinajpur	94 1	Darbhanga	90 9
Calcutta	92 2	24 Parganas	84 9
Muzaffarpur	92	Singhbhum	73 6

These districts failed to attain the prescribed standard in 1894 95 Two of them, Calcutta and Darbhanga, were also unable to collect 95 per cent of the current demand of tax only No explanation is furnished of the short collections, except in Darbhanga and Calcutta in Darbhanga this is attributed to the non payment of the tax by several European employés of the Darbhanga Raj and of indigo factories, and in Calcutta to unavoidable delay in completing the assessment of certain large native firms and of some house property in selected areas The Lieutenant Governor trusts that the Board will continue to impress on the officers engaged in the administration of the tax the importance of making timely assessments and enforcing prompt payments so as to get in the bulk of the current demand within the year

6 Assessments — The number of assessors employed was 49—the same as in 1894 These assessors visited 69,450 villages (including streets in Calcutta) against 68,461 in 1894 95 The number of persons finally assessed was 108,901 against 106,975, showing an increase of 1 8 per cent Calcutta, where the numbers in the preceding year fell off by 208, heads the list with an increase of 319 Midnapore and Gaya, with an increase of 308 and 283 respectively, occupy the second and third places A few districts show a reduction, but this nowhere exceeds 59, except in Khulna and Tippera, where the decrease was 199 and 100, respectively The decline in Khulna is attributed to exemptions on revision due to faulty assessments in previous years the decrease in Tippera, which had showed a falling off of 184 persons in the previous year, has not been explained

Year	Number originally assessed excluding Government servants	Number of objections	Percentage of objections	Number of successful objections	Percentage of successful to total number of objections column 5 to column 3
1	2	3	4	5	6
1894-95	108 765	10 635	9 8	3 456	32 8
1895 96	110 684	10 797	9 8	3 363	31 1

The percentage of objections to assessments was again highest in Gaya (36 9) The percentage of successful objections exceeded 40 in Cuttack (55 2), Calcutta (44 5), 24 Parganas (42 8), and Burdwan (42 7) These figures show a slight improvement on the results obtained in 1894, but the need for great care in supervising the work of the assessors, while the assessments are being revised, must not be lost sight of

8 Incidence of the tax — Excluding the tax on interest of Government securities and the salaries of Government officials, the average incidence of the tax in the whole Province was Re 1 to every 17 2 persons, against 17 9 persons in the preceding year Outside Calcutta, the average incidence was Re 1 to 33 1 persons, against Re 1 to 34 9 in 1894 95 Darjeeling continues to show the highest mufassal average, Re 1 to every 4 persons, while the incidence was lowest in Singhbhum, Re 1 to 87 persons The average incidence in Calcutta was Re 1 to every 4 person, and 1 person in every 39 was assessed to the tax The proportion of person assessed for the whole of Bengal was 1 to 653 against 1 to 660 in the previous year

9 The following statement illustrates for the year under review and for previous years the distribution of the income tax and of the other direct taxes which preceded it as between Calcutta and the rest of the province —

Figures not available
† Exclusive of the tax on salaries &c recovered by the Accountant General and the tax on the interest of Government securities

The figures show a steady increase in collections, both in Calcutta and in the mufassal since 1887 88, Calcutta contributing in the past year 48 4 per cent of the whole

10 Coercive measures —The coercive measures which had to be taken for the realization of the tax are compared for the last three years in the following statement —

Year	Number of persons finally assessed	Distress warrants		Cases of distraint		Cases of sale
		Number	Percentage to column 2	Number	Percentage to column 2	Number	Percentage to column 2
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
1893 94	105 476	5,920	5 6	2,290	2 2	288	3
1894 95	106,975	5,0.5	4 7	1 934	1 8	337	3
1895 96	108,901	5,636	5 2	2,173	2	317	3

The number of distress warrants issued was larger than in the previous year, but the cases in which actual sale was resorted to fell from 337 to 317 In Darbhanga, Purnea, Gaya, Jalpaiguri, Singbhum, Jessore, and the 24 Parganas, the proportion of warrants issued exceeded 10 per cent of the number of persons assessed The last three districts showed a high percentage in 1894 95 also In 12 districts no sales of distrained property took place, while such sales were again most numerous in Jessore, Gaya, and Rangpur In Calcutta distress warrants were issued in 684 cases against 736 in the previous year, and in one case only was also found necessary Ignorance and wilful recusancy on the part of assessees no doubt account for a large proportion of the warrants issued, but it is obvious that the earlier the assessments are completed the less need will there be for coercive measures, which are often resorted to somewhat at random towards the close of the year in order to get in the demand

11 Under section 9 (2) of the Income Tax Act, a small commission, varying with the date of payment, is allowed to managers of companies, or other employers of labour who collect the tax from their employés on behalf of Government The total amount of tax collected in this manner was Rs 2,74,233 against Rs 2,68,234 in the previous year, and the number of companies, &c , who undertook to collect the tax also rose from 303 to 318 Ten of these, however, failed to collect the tax which was realized by the district officers It is not suggested that the present rate of commission is inadequate, but where the number of taxable servants is small it is not worth the employer's while to undertake the work of collection

12 Expenditure —The total expenditure rose from Rs 1,75,703 in 1894 95 to Rs 1,81,774 in the year under review The rise is due partly to increase in establishments rendered necessary by increased work and partly to the accident of certain travelling bills for 1894 95 having been cashed during the year under review

13 The system of payment of income tax by money order is said to be still rising in public favour as a simple and safe method of remitting the tax One trifling embezzlement occurred, and that was due to neglect of rules on the part of the assessee Under an order issued in October 1894, income tax assessors are required to learn the numerals of any native character in which accounts are usually kept in the district in which they are employed, so as to enable them to form fair estimates of the income of traders whose accounts are kept in that language With the exception of the Assessor of Cuttack who has not yet mastered the Telugu numerals, all the assessors have complied with these orders The Board's proposal that the assessors should further learn not only the numerals but the languages in which accounts are kept in their districts, should be separately submitted for the orders of Government

14 The names of the Deputy Collectors specially reported by the Board as having done good service, will be communicated to the Appointment Department

15 On the subject of popular feeling in regard to the tax, the Lieutenant Governor has nothing to add to the remarks recorded by Sir Charles Elliott in the concluding paragraph of the Resolution on the last year's report

By order of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal,

H H RISLEY,

Secretary to the Govt of Bengal

RESOLUTION ON THE TRIENNIAL REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER FOR BENGAL ON THE WORKING OF THE VACCINATION DEPARTMENT DURING THE YEARS 1893 94, 1894 95 AND 1895 96

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION

READ—

The Triennial Report of the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal on the working of the Vaccination Department during the three years 1893 94, 1894 95, and 1895 96

This Triennial Report, which is the third of its kind, was due to Government on the 15th June, but was not received until the 27th July No reason is assigned for the delay Surgeon Lieutenant Colonel W H Gregg was in charge of the Department from the 1st April to the 1st May 1893, when he went on furlough for six months, and Surgeon Captain H J Dyson, who was transferred from the Sanitary Department of the Punjab, officiated for him This officer was in charge of the Department from the 2nd May to the 1st November 1893 Dr Gregg resumed charge on the 2nd November 1893 and held it till the 20th August 1895, when he vacated the appointment and Dr Dyson succeeded him The latter officer, who submits the report, was thus in charge of the Vaccination Department during the first six and the last six months of the period under review

2 Strength of inspecting and working staff—The following table shows the strength of the working and supervising staff during each of the three years under review —

The fluctuations which the table discloses in the numbers of the subordinate establishments are due mainly (1) to the provision made for extra supervision in the Orissa Tributary States, (2) to the employment for the first time of special establishments paid by the District Boards of Puri and Noakhali and by zamindars in Tippera, (3) to the appointment of a small extra Government staff in certain districts where small pox broke out, and (4) to the creation of the new district of Angul In point of numbers the superior staff, consisting of Civil Surgeons and Deputy Sanitary Commissioners, remained practically unaltered, but the Sanitary Commissioner observes that the systematic working of the department was greatly interfered with by the frequent shifting of individual officers, especially of the three Deputy Sanitary Commissioners, among whom no less than eleven changes occurred in 1893 94

3 Number of operations and average per operator —The total number of vaccinations performed rose from 1,844,304 in 1893 94 to 2,174,097 in 1894 95 and 2,277,081 in 1895 96, while the yearly average for the period 1893 96 was 2,098,494 against 1,770,492 in 1890 93, giving an increase of 328,002 The average per operator also rose from 560 in 1893 94 to 608 in 1894 95 and 622 in 1895 96 The increase in the yearly average is shared by 35 districts, including Calcutta and the Tributary States of Orissa and Chota Nagpur It was highest in the following districts —

Dacca	59,927	Noakhali	20,897
Darbhanga	42,708	Backergunge	20 727
Mymensingh	35,586	Faridpur	19,382

Fourteen districts show a falling off, the decline being largest in—

Cuttack	16,222	Manbhum	5,988
Pabna	6,666	Hooghly	4,442
Rajshahi	3 339

In Cuttack the large decrease is said to have been due to a strike among the vaccinators in 1892 93 in consequence of the reluctance of the people to pay their fees This reduced their number from 100 to 12, and although the strength has since risen to 48, it still falls short of the needs of the district In Pabna the Civil Medical Officer refers to the greater unhealthiness of the people as accounting for the decline in vaccination In Manbhum the decrease is attributed to three causes, viz (1) to the scarcity which prevailed in the district in 1893 94, (2) to less populous and more jungly tracts having been taken up for vaccination, and (3) to the excessive prevalence of measles in 1895 96 An unusual outbreak of malarial fever, especially among children, is said to have been one of the causes of the reduction of vaccinations in Hooghly In Rajshahi the falling off is ascribed to a smaller number of persons being available for vaccination and the prevalence of malaria in the district In rural areas the average number of operations per man was 612 against 665 in 1890 93 this decrease is attributed to the employment, since the reorganization of the department, of a large number of apprentices who do less work than the regular vaccinators The average has also been affected by the inclusion of vaccinators paid by Government or the District Board, who worked for short periods during the prevalence of small pox

4 Protection afforded to infants —In paragraph 6 of the report a statement is given showing the degree of protection afforded to infants under one year of age, which, as has often been pointed out, is the proper test of the working of the Department The total number of such infants available for vaccination during 1895 96 was estimated at 2,460,469 against 2,491,305 in the preceding year, and of these, 416,307, or 169 19 per thousand, were successfully vaccinated, as compared with 405,065, or 162 59 per thousand in 1894 95 The proportion of infants successfully vaccinated per thousand of population in 1892 93, the last of the previous triennial period, was 125 49 only, so that a distinct advance has been made during the past three years The Malda and Darjeeling districts head the list with 712 49 and 700 68 successful operations, respectively, out of every thousand of the available infant population Next in order comes Lohardaga with 641 71 per mille Gaya, Cuttack, and Patna stand lowest with 37 72, 30 29 and 26 52, respectively, per mille The statistics, however, vary so greatly that their accuracy cannot be wholly relied on, and it seems probable that in many districts the proportion of infants protected has been overstated

5 Primary vaccinations —The average ratio per cent of successful cases for the entire Province for the three years is returned at 95 38 against 99 26 in the previous triennial period The Sanitary Commissioner ascribes this incredibly high percentage to the dishonest practice, believed to have been in force in Bengal for many years, and strongly condemned in paragraph 5 of last year's Resolution, of excluding unsuccessful cases from the returns, and even of entering absolute or partial failures as successful vaccinations Dr Dyson goes on to show, by statistics laid before the Royal Commission on vaccination, that the degree of protection afforded by vaccination bears a definite relation to the number of successful vaccination marks, and for this reason he recommends that in future three punctures should be made in each arm, as is the practice in the Panjab, and that the vaccination returns should show exactly in how many points each case of vaccination has been successful The Lieutenant-Governor accepts this recommendation, and desires the Sanitary Commissioner to submit for the approval of Government a draft of the instructions which he proposes to issue on the subject

6 Secondary operations —The average ratio per cent of successful secondary operations in rural areas for the entire Province for the triennial period was 60 07 against 5? 81 in the preceding triennial period, and in municipalities 53 79 against 38 70 Here again the percentages of successful cases seem rather high, and their accuracy is questionable In connection with this subject, the Sanitary Commissioner refers to the almost complete suppression of small pox in Germany, which has been brought about by the introduction in 1874 of compulsory vaccination for infants and of revaccination for all school children in their twelfth year, and urges that all boys at school and all young men entering Government service should be vaccinated or revaccinated, as the case may be The proposal should be submitted to Government through the Director of Public Instruction

7 Recess work —The average number of operations performed during the recess in connection with small pox epidemic rose from 75,357 in 1890 93 to 110,541 in 1893 96 This increase is attributed to increased activity shown in vaccinating whole communities on the slightest outbreak of small pox, instead of, as before, only those residing in the immediate neighbourhood of the persons attacked It is also stated that many municipalities now carry on vaccination all the year round

8 Vaccination at the expense of District Boards —The number of vaccinators employed by District Boards and paid from District Funds rose from 57 in 1893 94 to 59 in 1894 95 and to 67 in 1895 96, and the total number of persons vaccinated by them from 13,086 in 1893 94 to 27,061 in 1894 95 and to 29,060 in 1895 96 The contributions made by District Boards towards vaccination in rural areas also increased from Rs. 694 in 1893 94 to Rs 3,279 in 1895 96 The largest contribution during the past year was made by the District Board of Puri, viz Rs 1,148 Among the other District Boards, Tippera contributed Rs 500, Gaya Rs 450, Chittagong Rs 384, Dacca Rs 317, Backergunge Rs 300, Bogra Rs 91, and Bankura Rs 88 Provisions have been inserted in the Bill to amend the Local Self Government Act, which will legalise the action of these Boards and will enable other District Boards to devote a portion of their funds to providing free vaccination in those parts of their districts where, for special reasons, the system of licensed vaccination is found to be unpopular

9 Cost of vaccination — The total cost of vaccination during the year 1895 96 was Rs 2,09,480 as against Rs 1,95,218 in 1894 95 and Rs 1,80,199 in 1893 94 The average cost of each reported successful vaccination was the same during the past two years, viz 1 anna 6 pies as against 1 anna 7 pies in 1893 94

10 Death rate from small pox and proportion of population protected —The usual diagram illustrating the death-rate from small pox in each district, as compared with the proportion of population protected by vaccination, is given It shows that, as a general rule, small pox is comparatively low in places where vaccination is actively carried on, and vice versâ The total number of deaths from small pox during 1895 96 was 13,080 as against 9,562 in 1894-95 and 12,499 in 1893 94 or 18 per thousand of population, as compared with 13 in 1894 95 and 17 in 1893-94 The following districts had the highest mortality —

Midnapore	1,734
Cuttack	1,505
Patna	1,160
Faridpur	1,106
Calcutta	1,010

Singhbhum and Jalpaiguri returned only two deaths, Rajshahi three, Lohardaga four, and Malda and Darjeeling five each

11 Methods of vaccination —The Sanitary Commissioner as usual furnishes a statement which purports to show the comparative efficacy of the three methods of vaccination practised in Bengal, viz , (1) with vaccine lymph obtained direct from the calf, (2) with vaccine lymph prepared with lanoline, and (3) with human lymph taken by arm to arm transfer But, as he remarks, the value of the statement is reduced by the fact that in the case of the arm to arm method repetitions are included and unsuccessful operations excluded from the returns On the advantages of using vaccine rather than human lymph, Dr Dyson observes —

"Speaking from personal experience extending over six years in other provinces, of all these methods of vaccination, I have no hesitation in pronouncing very decidedly in favour of vaccination direct from the calf I see it stated in previous reports of this Department that lymph 'when properly procured by the arm to arm process and from healthy children is of equal value to the lymph procured direct from calves' I am not prepared to admit this but even supposing it to be the case, the difficulty is always to procure healthy subjects Invariably, the children used as vaccinifers are low caste and unhealthy No woman of the well to do classes will allow her child to be used as a vaccinifer On the other hand, the advantages of vaccination direct from the calf are distinct, and obviously superior to any other kind of lymph In the first place, the lymph is pure, the only danger being from tuberculosis, which, however, is not a common disease among cattle in this country secondly, this source of supply is practically inexhaustible, and, thirdly, the poorer people are not harassed to supply their babies as vaccinifers which is an important consideration The advantages of direct calf vaccination are so great, that it is fast gaining a strong foothold in the public estimation Three years ago when I was officiating as Sanitary Commissioner of these provinces, and suggested this idea for mufassal towns and rural areas, there was immediately a storm of opposition religious prejudices were put forward, and the impossibility of inducing the people to give up their calves temporarily was said to be insuperable Judicious perseverance, however, in some places, in accordance with my expressed conviction that it would succeed, has gained the day, and I now find on returning to Bengal that there is scarcely any prejudice in the northern, eastern and lower districts of the Province"

Lanoline lymph is said to be very useful in starting vaccination, and also in times of emergency, such as sudden outbreaks of epidemic small pox, and it is for this reason chiefly that a supply of it ought to be maintained

12 It was stated in the last Resolution that arrangements had been made to provide the Nepal Darbar with a regular supply of vaccine lymph from the Darjeeling depôt Of the lymph sent last year three consignments out of five proved inert owing to the change of temperature, but 694 persons in all were vaccinated, 573 being successful The Medical Officer in charge of the Bir Hospital, Nepal, has taught the arm to arm method to a number of vaccinators, who will commence work next season, and it is stated that there is no immediate necessity for supplying fresh lymph Should such necessity arise, the Sanitary Commissioner will no doubt be able to meet the requirements of the Darbar

13 Attitude of the people —The Sanitary Commissioner reports that in Bengal the people seem to be gradually realising the benefits of vaccination, but that there are still places where vaccination is opposed chiefly on sentimental grounds A considerable step in advance has been made in Faridpur by Dr Deare, Deputy Sanitary Commissioner, who induced 36,240 Farazi Muhammadans, including the leaders of the community, to submit to vaccination with lanoline lymph A full account of Dr Deare's operations forms an appendix to the report The Lieutenant Governor's acknowledgments are due to him, and also to Maulvi Fazl ul Karim, Subdivisional Officer of Madaripur, for the tact and perseverance with which they managed to overcome the prejudice which has long been a serious obstacle to the spread of vaccination in Eastern Bengal

14 Inspections —The Sanitary Commissioner remarks that the inspections made by Deputy Sanitary Commissioners were on the whole not as numerous as they should have been, but he adds that they have to inspect the remote parts of the districts, while Civil Surgeons visit places comparatively easy of access The increased activity on the part of Civil Surgeons noticed in the last year's report, was maintained in 1895 The largest amount of inspections was made by Dr Peck, Civil Surgeon of Muzaffarpur, who inspected 13,997 operations Dr Russell, of Dacca, comes next with 13,487 inspections, and is followed by the Civil Surgeons of Saran, Mymensingh and Monghyr, with 11,892, 11,865 and 11,479 inspections, respectively Twelve Civil Surgeons inspected more than 5,000 operations, and thirty one from 1,000 to 5,000, while the officers in charge of the 24 Parganas, Faridpur, the Chittagong Hill Tracts and Angul inspected less than 1,000 The amount of inspection done by Inspectors and Sub Inspectors varied greatly from district to district While the Inspector at Dacca inspected 72,331 out of 141,822 operations performed in the district, the Inspector at Howrah could not manage to inspect as many as 10,000 operations The special attention of the Civil Surgeons should be drawn to the matter

FINAL FORECAST OF THE JUTE CROP FOR 1896

THE following is published for general information

REVENUE DEPT, M FINUCANE,

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL

FINAL FORECAST OF THE JUTE CROP FOR SEASON 1896

(Up to the middle of August)

1 Explanatory—The form in which the final report now appears differs in a few particulars from the form used in previous years, the chief difference consisting in the substitution of the "average acreage of two previous years" for "normal acreage" in column 4 It is hoped that a comparison of the current year's crop with the average of previous years will enable a better idea to be formed of the nature of the present crop than any comparison with the so called "normal acreage," about the meaning of which term much uncertainty exists

2 Season—The character of the early part of the current jute season was described in the preliminary forecast issued on the 23rd June 1896, as being generally of a much less favourable character than that of the year 1895, but it was noted that the outturn would depend very much on the rainfall in the two months between the middle of June and the middle of August Unfortunately the rainfall in all the important jute growing districts during this period has fallen considerably short of the normal, and the present season has proved unfavourable to the jute crop in many ways Want of rain was felt in March and April, when land is usually prepared for jute, and much of the crop is also sown in chur and other low lying lands In May and the early part of June excessive rainfall interfered with the growth of the seedlings and also with weeding operations And now deficiency of rainfall in July and August has still further reduced the prospects of the crop in most of the important jute growing districts, and in some places has interfered with steeping The crop is also reported to have suffered to some extent from want of flood water in Dacca and Tippera, and from the ravages of insects in Nadia, Jessore, Pabna, Dacca and Faridpur And it seems doubtful whether heavy rain now will save the prospects of the crop

3 Area cultivated—The total area under jute in the current year is estimated at 2,220,400 acres against 2,242,700 acres estimated to have been cropped in 1895 The decrease of 22,300 acres is nominal.

4 Character of the crop—The deficiency of rainfall during the last two months, which has been referred to above, has caused a reduction in the preliminary estimates in many of the most important jute growing districts, notably in Tippera, Pabna, Rangpur and Mymensingh Only two (Rajshahi and Purnea) of the eleven principal jute districts return a 15 anna crop, only one (Tippera) a 14 anna crop, and the rest estimate the crop at from 10 to 12 annas The mean outturn for the Province, obtained from the district reports, stands at 12 annas as against a mean outturn of 15½ annas in 1895

5 Gross outturn of the crop—As suggested by the Chamber of Commerce in a recent letter, the factors which determine the exportable balance of bales, such as the amount locally consumed, and the amount taken by Indian mills, are so uncertain and variable that it is safest to let those interested in the trade make their own calculations from a rough estimate of the total crop

The gross outturn of the present jute crop would appear, from the appended district returns, to amount to about 49¾ lakhs of bales, as against 64¼ lakhs estimated as the produce in 1895, and 55¾ lakhs suggested as the average outturn of the two years 1893 and 1894

This calculation is based on the assumption that 1,200 lbs or three bales may be taken as the rough average or 16 anna outturn from one acre for all jute districts in Bengal Experiments are being conducted to determine this figure more exactly, but for the present this is the estimate which approximates most nearly to the reports on outturn which have been received in this Department

The outturn this year is expected to be better than that of last year in the Sadar of Katwa and Ranigunj subdivisions. The crop was affected to some extent by want of rain at sowing time in the Katwa subdivision.

A larger area was actually brought under cultivation than was estimated in the previous jury forecast. The timely rainfall of the present year has had a good effect on the crop and the outturn bought estimated at three-fourths of the average, is likely to prove a little higher. It is curious that though the season has been more favourable the area sown has been reported as less than last year's.

SALT

THE HON BLE MR W H GRIMLEY

I AM directed to submit the following report on the state of the salt market for the first quarter of 1896 97, comprising the months of April, May, and June 1896

2 The quantity of salt of every description cleared during the quarter under review, amounted to 28,43,269 maunds, against 24,00,904 maunds in the previous quarter, and 28,04,085 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year, and the net amount of duty levied thereon, was Rs 68,06,060, against Rs 54,88,437 in the previous quarter, and Rs 66,34,015 in the corresponding quarter of the previous year In all cases fractions are omitted

3 The quantity of locally-made salt removed from the golas in Orissa during the quarter under review, and the quantity which remained in store at the close of the quarter, are shown below in table I —

TABLE I

The total sales of locally made salt during the quarter under review amounted to 18,130 maunds, against 19,275 maunds in the previous quarter, and 17,932 maunds in the corresponding quarter of the previous year Duty was levied during the quarter on the full quantity sold

4 The subjoined table shows in detail the importations into the port of Calcutta and the total clearances of sea imported salt during the quarter under review, as compared with the figures of the corresponding quarters of the previous two years —

The stock in bond at the close of the quarter was reduced to half of what it was at the close of the previous quarter, owing to heavy deliveries from the golas during the period under review The shipments of salt for Calcutta, as noted in paragraph 9, have, however, considerably advanced, being almost double of what they were during the previous quarter

6 The despatches of salt from Calcutta by water and the three railways passing the several pass stations into the interior of the country both east and west of the river Hooghly, as well as the despatches by steamers and flats during the quarter under review and the corresponding quarters of the previous two years, are shown in the table below —

The mean pressure temperature, &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph

The 1st September 1896

No 166 —Notification—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal is pleased to make the following modifications in rule 2 of the rules passed by him under the provisions of sections XI and XII of Act V (B C) of 1864 in Notification No 151 of the 6th June 1893, with effect from 1st October 1896

22nd and 29th July and 5th 12th 19th and 26th August 1896

A draft of the modifications was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the dates noted in the margin as notification No 142, dated the 21st July 1896

2 Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below —

Class I—To include all steamers, flats and barges, and such other square-built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor, be included

Class II—To include all vessels of the usual native types of build

The net tonnage of every vessel, whether laden or empty, shall, for the purposes of Act V (B C) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements —

Class II —

A —The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern, measured along the water line, multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied

B —The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches, the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth

C —In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only

D —Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty, for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement

For Class I the tonnage, as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II, shall be increased by one half For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class, any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only In the case of steamers the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one third as an allowance for engine space

For approved Firms constantly engaged in traffic, the way bills on board a vessel of Class I, certified to shew the total actual weight of cargo carried, will be accepted as the basis for assessment of tolls

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India

BY DR GEO WATT C I E

Reporter on Economic Products

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department

The first five volumes and Vol VI Parts I II III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing No 8 Hastings Street Calcutta and will be supplied to non subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set which is Rs 45 in India and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index for which a separate charge will be made) packing and postage in India 8 annas per volume for England Rs 2 8 per volume Bound copies bound in half calf or half morocco Rs 6 and 8 shillings respectively will be charged extra for the whole set

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal vegetable and mineral each product being treated after a uniform plan the paragraphs of which give the scientific vernacular and European names botanical tation or source history properties and uses (both chemical and industrial) trade statistics markets &c The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks and with a reference to the original publication Numerous contributors have however furnished the results of new diligence and confirmed the vernacular names so that the Dictionary is not only a compilation of published information but has been brought abreast of the most recent investigation and discoveries

Volume I contains the letters A and B and consists of 559 royal octavo pages Vol II embraces the letter C in 689 pages Vol III comprises the letters D E F and half of G Vol IV the rest of G to middle of L and Vol V contains the other half of L to end of O Vol VI (which will consist of four parts) Part I contains the letters P to R the whole work will it is expected be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol VI) during the current year but a tenth volume may also be issued consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants animals and minerals of India and as such will be a work of reference which it is hoped may prove of considerable value

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th August 1896

No. 19 of 1896

A Bill to amend the Indian Post office Act 1866

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Post office Act 1866 It is hereby enacted as follows

Addition of new section to Act XIV 1866

1 After section 66 of the said Act (as amended by section 7 of Act III of 1895) the following section shall be added, namely

Recovery of duty levied by postal authorities

"67 When a letter parcel or other article on which any duty of customs is payable has been received by post from any place beyond the limits of British India and such duty has been paid by the postal authorities at any Customs port or elsewhere, the amount of such duty shall be recoverable in the same manner as postage under this Act

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

As the officers of the Customs Department cannot release articles arriving from abroad without realization of any customs duty due upon them it is the practice of the Post office to pay the customs duty leviable on articles received with the mails from abroad and to recover the amount as if it were postage from the addressee on delivery The postal authorities have, however no legal authority to enforce such recovery and cases have occurred in which the addressees, though taking delivery of the articles, have refused to pay the charge This is a state of things which clearly ought not to be allowed to continue and the object of this Bill is to add to the Indian Post office Act (XIV of 1866) a provision which has become necessary by reason of the Post office undertaking a class of business which was not contemplated at the date of the Act in question

The 19th August, 1896

May 6th	151	8vo dy	1st	500	Printed	1 0 0		An historical drama in imitation of Shakespear s Hamlet The scene is laid in Kashmir and the plot is as follows — Jayákar, commander in chief of Kásmir falls in love with the queen Srílekhá and murders King Ananta Deva by administering poison, while he was a guest in his house The king s spirit rises from the burning pyre informs his son Harirá j of Jayákar s treachery and adjures him to take vengeance on the murderer but to spare the queen In due course Harirá j ascends the throne but absorbed in the contemplation of his mother s shame and the vow of vengeance on his father s murderer he loses all interest in the affairs of existence His apathy turns his affianced bride Aruná mad The queen mother whom in a secret interview Harirá j severely reprimanded for her faithlessness now plots with Jayákar against her son s life Under a forged letter purported to have been written by his intimate friend Ajit the king was invited into a garden and there stabbed in the dark by Jayákar The murderer, however falls by the sword of the king and Anantadeva s death is avenged The queen mother in a momentary fit of affection for her son stabs her prostrate paramour and then plunges into the river Harirá j s death follows and the sight kills his affianced bride Aruná Her death brings the drama to a close The book is written in blank verse and not wanting in merit The writer has freely drawn on Shakespeare for expression and imagery	3848
April 13th	112	12mo dy	1st	1,000	ditto	0 8 0	The Author 30, Narkeldá n g á, Sastitálá Lane, Calcutta	A drama based on the incidents of a Mahratta raid on Mewar led by Kálabhoj Vijay was Kálabhoja s friend and disciple in arms bu disgusted with his cruelty he went over to the Rajputs and led them against his countrymen His brother general was Bhim Sing who very generously allowed him to marry Nilánjana, who had been previously affianced to himself Kálabhoj had vowed vengeance on Vijay In the battle which followed the Rajputs were victorious but their leader Vijay was taken captive and sentenced to death as a traitor to his country by Kálabhoj But before the sentence could be carried out, he was rescued from the prison through the efforts of Lál Bái the kind hearted mistress of Kálabhoj and of Bhim Sing who forced his friend to leave his cell and took his place there Bhim Sing was forgiven by Kálabhoj but while returning home from the Mahratta camp he fell mortally wounded by Mahratta bullets Vijay now sought a duel with Kálabhoj in the course of which the latter was stabbed to death by his mistress Lál Bái whom he had condemned to death The plot though not properly developed is not uninteresting	3841
April 6th	142	8vo dy	1st	500	ditto	1 0 0	The Author Shahzadpur Pabna	A mythological drama based on the Brahma Vaivartta Purána describing the defeat and death of the demon Sankhachuda at the hands of the god Siva Sankhachuda was in his previous birth a friend of Sri Krishna and his birth as a demon was due to the imprecation of Rádhiká.	3850
Jan 28th	146	12mo dy	1st	1,000	ditto	1 0 0	Yatindra Nath Mitra Harish Ghosh s Street Calcutta	This is a drama depicting the evils of the practice now unhappily too common among the upper classes of the Bengali Hindu society of the fathers of boys to demand large dowries on the occasion of marrying their sons The plot is as follows — A man had three daughters to marry and the expense of marrying the first two cost him all his fortune The youngest remains unmarried for the father has no money wherewith to buy a husband for her She grows up towards womanhood and becomes an eyesore to her parents In the meantime the father of his second son in law institutes a criminal prosecution against him on a charge of passing as genuine certain gilt ornaments which he had given to his daughter at her marriage In the midst of the confusion and misery which the prosecution leads to the youngest daughter commits suicide and the catastrophe ends the play Though devoid of artistic merit the book is important as being a protest against a custom which is being attended with great practical inconvenience	3851
March 30th	57	12mo dy	1st	1 000	ditto	0 4 0	The Author 52 Nawabdi Ostá gar s Lane, Calcutta	A social farce written with the object of ridiculing the female education and female emancipation movements A man had two wives of whom the younger one was a fashionable lady having a lot of admirers The husband was in mortal dread of her and she had her own way in all matters Her two daughters were educated after her own fashion and given to drinking and coquetry like her The mother courts a man named Narvikár who is secretly in love with her eldest daughter Bouquet While amusing themselves in a garden, the daughter and her lover are discovered by the mother and by Lohárám another suitor for the hand of Bouquet Narvikár is then shot dead by Lohárám and the daughter charges both Lohárám and her mother with murder The catastrophe ends the play It is full of indelicate ideas and expressions and the incidents described in it give a very false idea of Hindu radicalism, which it holds up to ridicule	3854

1st	267	8vo cr	1st	1,500	ditto	1 4 0	The Author, 2, Ananda Chatterji's Lane, Calcutta	This is a religious poem in the course of which the writer developes his own notions of Vaishnavism The plot is as follows —A man renounces the world, goes into a wood and sets his heart on the contemplation of God His wife follows him thither, and her touching devotion to him put into his head for the first time the idea of worshipping God through love He then goes to sleep and sees in a dream five girls seated in a wood and narrating one after another, the adventures which befel them in their search after God They represent five types of worshippers according to Vaishnavism and teach the doctrine of worshipping God in the following five ways viz, 1st by quietly meditating on Him 2nd, by regarding Him as a master, 3rd, as a friend 4th, as an object of affection and 5th, as an object of love Their story ended they invoked the aid of Rádhá (Prakriti or the feminine principle in God) to help them in obtaining the favour of God or Srí Krishna Rádhá comes the girls get what they wanted and the man who has hitherto been a silent spectator of the scene, fully realises the necessity and efficacy, from a spiritual point of view, of regarding God as an object of love and affection and of worshipping him accordingly A vein of the utmost piety and spirituality runs through the poem, which is as the editor admits in the preface a development of the author's views on the lines of Chaitanyism And these views have been set forth with an earnestness, which marks the author as a devoted follower of Chaitanya and a believer in his God head	3944
Feb 29th	124	8vo cr	1st.	500	ditto	0 10 0	The Author, Bánkipur	A book written with the express object of advocating the re marriage of widows, or if that is not practicable the revival of the ancient practice, under which a man's younger brother was allowed to have connection with his childless widow It has an appendix written in prose headed Punarbhú, or the re married widow wherein the question of the propriety or otherwise of the re marriage of widows is discussed from a Sástric point of view The condition of Bengali widows is depicted in the book in dismal colours	3945
April 28th	158	12mo dy	1st	250	ditto	2 8 0	The Author, 7 Rám Mohan Sáhá's Lane, Simlá.	A collection of short pieces on a variety of subjects chiefly emotional and lyrical Many of the pieces contain a touch of genuine poetry The writer is a Hindu lady well known for her poetical works	3946

In the Library Catalogue for the quarter ending 31st March 1896, page 59 in re Urdu Book No 882, in column 16 in place of the remarks as therein published, read as follows —

In this book the writer makes a distinction between the cardinal principles of Islam and the social and religious practices known as the masáles These masáles are intended for the temporal good of mankind, and there is nothing in their nature to prevent them from being modified according to the changed circumstances of humanity Unless therefore, the Musalmans see their way to change these masáles so as to suit their changed condition the downfall of the Muhammadan community will not be arrested and its members will in the course of time be reduced to the rank of hewers of wood and drawers of water The Muhammadan Law of Inheritance by encouraging the division of property into too many petty shares tends also to impoverish the race The Musalmans should also have a landed aristocracy like the Hindus and they can not have one unless they are declared competent to constitute final wakfs or make testamentary dispositions of property

PROTECTION OF WOMEN IN MYMENSINGH

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Whether the attention of the Government has been called to a statement which appeared in the Charu Mihir of Mymensingh to the effect that a number of budmashes carried off the daughter of one Kumari Chandalini, of Bajipore, and committed outrages on her? Is it the case that the Judge in sentencing the accused to seven years' rigorous imprisonment remarked —"I have already called attention to the need of protection of women in this district?" Will the Government be pleased to state what action it has taken to ensure this protection?

"The attention of the Government has been drawn to the statement referred to The accused arrested in the case of Kumari Chandalini were fortunately convicted, and sentenced to imprisonment for seven years each The Judge remarked, before passing sentence, that he had already called attention to the need women have for protection in the district, but this remark referred evidently to observations made by him in a previous case, when the accused were also convicted for an outrage on a young woman, and in both cases the remarks were intended by him to explain the severity of the sentences passed The Judge has not addressed the Government as to the necessity for special measures for the protection of women in Mymensingh Such measures have, however, been taken by the Magistrate's orders on the occasion of the Ashtami bathing festival, and the Commissioner has been instructed to renew them annually so long as necessity for them appears to exist As regards isolated outrages on women which might occur anywhere and at any time during the year, it is impossible to take special measures It may be hoped that the severe punishments which have been inflicted in Kumari Chandalini's and the previous case will have a salutary effect in deterring the bad characters who are disposed to this kind of crime The Lieutenant Governor has also directed that the most experienced and reliable police officers available should always be deputed to investigate these cases whenever they occur, and the District Superintendent of Police has been instructed to give his special attention to the cases

"The Magistrate reports that these offences are usually committed by low class Muhammadan loafers of loose character, who, under Act X of 1872, could have been dealt with under section 505 as persons of notoriously bad livelihood or dangerous character, but who cannot be reached under section 110 of the present Criminal Procedure Code"

SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS AGAINST MR AINSLIE

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to some paragraphs published in the Hitabadi newspaper of the 5th June, in which some serious allegations are made against Mr Ainslie, the Subdivisional Officer of Govindpur? Is it the case that Mr Ainslie harassed witnesses and parties by causing them to follow him from camp to camp and by holding cutcheries in the mufassal, but not always in the places notified? Is it true that he struck off from his file seven out of nine cases on the 11th May last, three out of six cases on the 12th, and four out of eight cases on the 15th, the parties not having been able to find out his camp and attend in time and committed several other irregularities referred to in the same paper? If so, will the Government take any steps to prevent a recurrence of similar proceedings in future?

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY replied —

"The attention of the Government was drawn to the paragraphs referred to, and the Commissioner was requested to issue instructions to Mr Ainslie to make better arrangements for the convenience of parties in future This has been done, and the Lieutenant Governor trusts that similar cause for complaint will not recur The figures in the paragraphs in question are generally, though not uniformly correct"

MR MORSHEAD'S CASE

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

(1) Whether it is true, as stated in the newspapers, that Mr Morshead, Deputy Commissioner of Purulia, directed Babu Upendra Chandra Mookerjee, a Deputy Magistrate, at the instance of the District Superintendent of Police, to withdraw an order for bail issued by the said Deputy Magistrate in respect of some persons charged with an offence under section 392, I P C, and that in consequence the order was withdrawn and the prisoners were remanded to jail, where they remained from the 9th June to the 1st July, when they were ordered to be released after a full investigation by the said Deputy Magistrate?

(2) Is it the case that the Deputy Commissioner, in the order directing the withdrawal of the bail bond, laid down the dictum that "when accused persons are sent up in A Form (by the Police) there are primâ facie grounds for believing that they have been guilty of the offence of which they are accused"?

Does the Government approve of this interference on the part of an Executive Officer with the judicial discretion of a Magistrate subordinate to him? Will the Government be pleased to take such steps as to the Government may seem fit with a view to prevent the recurrence of proceedings such as these on part of Executive Officers?

In the absence of the Hon'ble MR A M BOSE, who came late, the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

(a) Has the attention of the Government been called to the facts and the papers marginally given of a case at Purulia, which have been published in the Amrita Bazar Patrika of the 7th July, and in which, under the orders of the Deputy Commissioner, an order passed by the trying Deputy Magistrate admitting the accused persons to bail was cancelled and they were sent to hajut? Are the proceedings correctly given in the Patrika?

(b) Under what provision of any existing law did the Deputy Commissioner interfere with an order passed judicially by the Deputy Magistrate, and direct him to commit the accused to custody, and under what provision did the District Superintendent of Police appeal to the former against the order of the Deputy Magistrate? Is it not the fact that, under the law, the High Court alone could interfere with that order? Does the Government approve of such interference by District Officers? If not, will it be graciously pleased to take steps which may lead to its prevention?

Section 392 Indian Penal Code

The 9th June 1896—The Court was occupied from 8 A M to 11 20 A M with the rioting case No time to-day and the file is full to morrow Case remanded till the 19th instant

U C M

Recognizance of Rs 20 each from the witnesses Accused may be enlarged on good bail of Rs 200 each

U C M

The 9th June 1896—Under orders of the Deputy Commissioner the order of bail is recalled and accused are committed to custody

DEPUTY COMMISSIONER—

In this case Deputy Magistrate Upendra Chandra Mukerjee has let out three men on bail in a special report case without first going into the evidence though the witnesses for prosecution were present.

According to section 497 Criminal Procedure Code the Deputy Magistrate should have first, I think gone partly into the case and then given bail if he considered the evidence against the accused weak or insufficient.

2 The men standing bails are mukhtears and the man marked thus is said to be unfit to go bail Necessary orders solicited

C B

The 9th June 1896

Babu U C Mukerjee—

Please report and return by bearer

L F M

The Explanation of the Deputy Magistrate

I could not go into the evidence of this case as I was very fully occupied with a rioting case in which six witnesses were cross examined in great length by vakils engaged in the case It is humbly submitted that it is illegal to send accused to hajat without satisfying one's self that there is anything like a case against them I therefore allowed them to be released on bail

I should note that when the Police first sent the accused to have their confessions recorded by the Senior Deputy Magistrate a few days ago they made no confessions or incriminating statements of any sort and on the express ground that the Police failed to send any evidence to justify their being put into hajat that this Court ordered the accused to be released on bail When the A Form was sent I thought it would be fair to examine the witnesses at the trial in the regular way If the accused have offered any security who is unfit to stand bail the matter should be reported to me in the usual way My order on the record was that the accused should give good bail

Upendra Chander Mukerjee

Deputy Magistrate—

It is a question of the interpretation of section 497 Criminal Procedure Code When accused persons are sent up in an A Form there are primâ facie grounds for believing that they have been guilty of the offence of which they are accused (therwise they would not have been sent up They should not be released on bail therefore until it appears that such reasonable grounds do not as a matter of fact exist you are requested to recall the bail and commit accused to custody

Offg Deputy Commissioner

The 9th June 1896

(c) Is it the fact that after the order referred to by the Deputy Commissioner the accused were taken to jail and kept there for several weeks until on the case for the prosecution alone, and at its close, they were released from custody on bail and afterwards acquitted? Was the order committing them to jail passed in their presence?

(d) Does the Government approve of the general proposition which appears to have been laid down by the Deputy Commissioner and which would seriously affect the liberty of the subject, viz, that whenever an accused is sent up by the Police under any of the numerous sections relating to offences of a non bailable character, it must be held that there are primâ facie grounds for believing that he is guilty of the offence charged, and he should not be released on bail until the contrary is made out? Is it the fact that statements before the Police may be and are made behind the back of the accused, and he has no means of testing them at the time? Is the Government aware that, altogether apart from any question as to the credit or capacity of any section of the Police, sometimes on the facts deposed to before the Police alone, no offence under the law is established at the hearing against the accused?

The Hon'ble Mr Risley replied —

"One reply may be conveniently given to the separate questions asked by the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee and Hon'ble Mr A M Bose

"These are the facts of the case —Three men arrested by the Police on a charge of robbery (section 392, Indian Penal Code) were sent before Babu Atal Bihari Moitra, the Senior Deputy Magistrate at Purulia, on the 4th June, 1896, to have their confessions recorded They did not, however, confess, and no evidence having been sent with them, the Deputy Magistrate allowed bail in the sum of Rs 400 each On their failure to furnish bail they were kept in custody On the 6th an A Form, sending up the accused for trial, was submitted by the Police, and the Deputy Magistrate passed an order that the men should be kept in custody until the 9th This rescinded the previous order granting bail On the 9th the Deputy Magistrate made the case over for trial to Babu Upendra Chunder Mukerjea, another Deputy Magistrate The latter, without recording any evidence, though the witnesses for the prosecution were present, very improperly postponed the case to the 19th June, on the ground that he had no time, although he might easily have taken up the case in the afternoon of the 9th, as his other case work only occupied him up to 11 20 A M He ordered at the same time that the accused might be enlarged on bail of Rs 200 each The District Superintendent of Police brought the order to the notice of the Deputy Commissioner, and the Deputy Commissioner, being of opinion that bail should not have been allowed, since the Deputy Magistrate, having taken none of the evidence, which was ready, could not assume that there were no reasonable grounds for the serious charge against the accused, requested the Deputy Magistrate to recall the bail and commit the accused to custody The bail was accordingly not allowed, and the accused remained in custody On the 19th the Deputy Magistrate took up the case and examined some witnesses, and rejected an application then made to him for bail, wishing to hear further evidence The hearing was postponed to the 27th, and thence to the 29th, for want of time and on the latter date a charge was framed against the accused under section 392, Indian Penal Code There were then further adjournments to the 30th June, and the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd July, and finally, on the last date, the accused were acquitted, no witnesses for the defence having been examined, and only one of the witnesses for the prosecution having been cross examined after the drawing up of the charge

"There is no doubt that Mr Morshead was technically wrong in the order which he passed requesting the Deputy Magistrate to recall the bail The mistake was, however, made in good faith, through misapprehension as to his judicial authority The Deputy Magistrate's order allowing bail, with which he interfered, appears, moreover, to have been wrong The Deputy Magistrate should not have passed that order without first satisfying himself that there was some doubt as to the truth of the charge He actually refused bail on the 19th June after hearing some of the witnesses, and he also drew up a charge against the accused, thus showing that he considered a primâ facie case to have been made out against them It would appear that he allowed bail on the 9th merely because he had decided to postpone the case for 10 days, and not because he then entertained doubt as to the guilt of the accused

"With regard to the third part of the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee's question, the Lieutenant Governor is satisfied that Mr Morshead acted not executively, but on what he conceived to be his judicial authority The mistake was made bonâ fide by an individual officer, and His Honour considers that no necessity exists for such steps as the Hon'ble Member suggests

"With regard to clause (d) of the Hon'ble Mr A M Bose's question, the Lieutenant Governor does not feel called upon to interpret authoritatively the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, which both Magistrates and Police are required to follow, and which are sufficiently clear for their guidance"

COOLIE RECRUITING

In the absence of the Hon'ble MR A M BOSE, who came late, the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the many cases reported in the Bankura Darpan and several other papers, showing the gross evils resulting from the present system of coolie recruiting for the labour districts?

Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the following remarks on this subject of coolie recruiting, reported to have been made by Sir Steuart Bayley, late Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, at a meeting held in London on the 14th of May last —

"Systematic recourse to fraudulent recruiting and even to kidnapping became common—sufficiently common to be felt as a discredit to the Administration" (vide Statesman of 1st July)?

And also to the following remarks reported to have been made at the same meeting by Sir Charles Elliott, late Lieutenant Governor of these Provinces —

"The great evil which had arisen with regard to the competition for labourers had arisen from the immense number of different persons who were competing against each other, deceiving each other, stealing each other's coolies, kidnapping women and children, or enticing them by false pretences, and even using force and wrongful confinement, so that they constantly figured in the Police Courts" (Statesman of 1st July)

What steps does the Government propose to take on behalf of a most helpless and ignorant class of its subjects, both women and children, to put a stop to the sad abuses referred to in the above extracts?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"The special attention of Government has for some time been directed to the whole system of coolie recruiting for the labour districts The subject is still under consideration of Government"

LABOUR COMMISSION'S REPORT

In the absence of the Hon'ble MR A M BOSE, who came late, the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEA asked—

Has the work of the Labour Commission been finished? When is its report expected to be published?

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE replied —

"The report of the Labour Commission has been lately received, and been sent to the Chamber of Commerce, the Mining Association, the Tea Association, and other authorities for their remarks It cannot be stated exactly when the report will be disposed of, but copies are available for purchase at the Secretariat Press, and are now being forwarded to the principal newspapers for information,"

BENGAL MUNICIPAL ACT, 1884, AMENDMENT BILL

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY moved that the consideration of the Bill to further amend the Bengal Municipal Act, 1884, be resumed

The Motion was put and agreed to

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN said —"Before proceeding to move the first amendment which stands in my name, I should like to know, through the Hon'ble Member who represents the Local Government in relation to this Bill, whether the large class of carters, who have enjoyed the privilege of voting during the last twelve years, will, with the present definition of the word 'rates' in its most restricted sense, still have that privilege, that is to say, whether, the rules will confer the franchise on this large body of men I may add that section 15 now gives the Government power to deal with such cases, even if they do not fall under the provisoes of that section under the explanation added to it"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"I understand the Hon'ble Member's intention is to offer to withdraw the amendment, of which he has given notice As he has so gracefully retired from the uncompromising position he took up the other day, and is content to leave the matter to the discretion of Government, I am glad to be able to say that I have not the slightest hesitation in giving the assurance which my hon'ble friend wants, namely, that there is no intention of withdrawing the franchise which this body of men have had ever since the year 1886 Any action intended to restrict the franchise in any direction will only be undertaken on the strongest representation from a Municipality itself"

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN in reply said —"Having received this assurance, I have much pleasure in withdrawing the amendment I could not have advanced the cause any further by pressing for my amendment than what I have got from the assurance which has now been given"

The Motion that sub section (2) of section 3 of the Bill be omitted was then by leave of the Council, withdrawn

The Hon'ble RAI ESHA* CHUNDRA MITTRA BAHADUR moved that in section 6, clause (v) the words "and libraries" be inserted between the words "schools" and "either"

He said —"The Bill recognises the principle that a certain portion of the municipal fund may be devoted to the establishment and maintenance of schools, either wholly or by means of grants in aid, and it follows as a corollary that a portion of the municipal funds may also be spent on the establishment and maintenance of libraries Libraries are schools where boys and grown up men may alike take instruction They are in one sense hospitals in which those who are diseased in mind and body are ministered to by a class of superior doctors, who do not claim their fees I find that provision has been made in the Calcutta Municipal Act to legalise the expenditure of a certain sum of money upon the maintenance of 'free libraries,' and there is a similar provision in the Bombay Municipal Act (VI of 1873) It is not with the object of incorporating into the Bengal Municipal Act provisions which are found in the Calcutta Municipal Act and the Bombay Municipal Act, that I press this amendment for the consideration of Hon'ble Members, but because the want of libraries has been sadly felt in mufussal Municipalities I am personally aware that in Hooghly there is a library established by the munificence of the local zamindars for the use of the public, some thirty years ago, and there are still funds amounting to about Rs 3,000 in the hands of the Collector of Hooghly, who is the trustee of that library This library had its subscribers, but they have ceased to pay, and the library is now shut up, as it now receives no support at all from any quarter With the extension of education and a consequent increase in the number of educated rate payers, such a provision has become absolutely necessary, and I hope the Council will see its way to accept the amendment"

The Hon'ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur said —"The Council will be pleased to observe that this amendment refers to clause (v) of section 69, and is not comprised within the group of clauses to which the proviso relates This amendment ought not to be accepted Libraries have all the advantages claimed for them in the eloquent and figurative language employed by the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment Sir John Lubbock in his book, 'The Pleasures of Life,' says 'Comfort and consolation, refreshment and happiness, may indeed be found in his library by any one who shall bring the golden key that unlocks its silent door A library is true fairyland, a very palace of delight, a haven of repose from the storms and troubles of the world Rich and poor can enjoy it equally, for here at least wealth gives no advantage We may make a library, if we do but rightly use it, a true paradise on earth, a Garden of Eden without its one drawback, for all is open to us, including and especially the fruit of the tree of knowledge, for which we are told that our first mother sacrificed all the pleasures of Paradise Here we may read the most important histories, the most exciting volumes of travels and adventures, the most interesting stories, the most beautiful poems, we may meet the most eminent statesmen, poets and philosophers, benefit by the ideas of the greatest thinkers, and enjoy the grandest creations of human genius (See page 63, the 'English Citizen his Life and Duties,' by Charles Henry Wyatt)

"But although the advantages of a library have been set out in such glowing terms, still it is questionable whether the funds of the Municipalities should be diverted in the manner proposed by the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment to the establishment and maintenance of libraries in the mufassal The resources and wealth of the Municipalities are pretty well known, so also their immediate wants requiring immediate attention I do not think libraries in the mufassal are matters of such necessity that municipal funds must be devoted to them I am not therefore prepared to vote in favour of the amendment"

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said —"I am not in agreement with the Hon'ble Member who has just spoken We have been treated to some poetical effusions from a distinguished writer, notwithstanding that our work here is of the most prosaic order The question is not whether the provision now under consideration should be made a compulsory obligation on the part of Municipalities, but whether power should be given to Municipalities which they may exercise in their discretion for the promotion of the interests of education in general My hon'ble friend's amendment is in entire accord with the accepted principles of the municipal law In section 6 of the Bill we have a statement of the objects to which the municipal fund may be applied, Municipalities may devote their funds to the establishment and maintenance of schools, hospitals, dispensaries, and a variety of other purposes, and, if my hon'ble friend's amendment be accepted, municipal funds may also be devoted to the establishment and maintenance of libraries And then, as a matter of fact, we, in the Calcutta Corporation, make a grant of Rs 4,000 a year as a contribution towards the maintenance of the Calcutta Public Library as a free library, and I submit that mufassal Municipalities ought to have a similar power conferred upon them The principle is admitted that Municipal funds may be devoted to educational purposes, and the enlargement of the power now proposed would involve only a slight amplification of this principle I hope the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill will see his way to accept this amendment"

The Hon'ble MR PRATT said —"I regret I cannot agree to this amendment It seems to me that in mufassal Municipalities, where the proportion of highly educated people is comparatively small, a library will be a luxury enjoyed by a very small portion of the community The books in these libraries will be almost entirely in English, which probably not 5 per cent of the population will read I do not think it fair to compare mufassal Municipalities with Calcutta, where we have a very large proportion of the community highly educated, and in this respect I think a distinction should be made between the Calcutta Municipal Act and the Bill now before the Council"

The Hon'ble MR GRIMLEY said —"The amendment regarding 'libraries' will doubtless commend itself to many, though it might conveniently have been brought forward at a much earlier stage of this Bill, so as to have permitted of local opinion being obtained, and of its being considered by the Select Committee The proper place, however, for it would be among clauses 8 to 11, for a library, as the HON'BLE MR PRATT has said, is undoubtedly a luxury which should not be permitted or indulged in until all ordinary expenditure has been provided A library must be free, and it may be necessary to impose a library rate, for there is the question of maintenance to be considered In most mufassal stations there is a library for Europeans, and I feel no doubt that if free municipal libraries were started, the committees of many of these European libraries would be able to present many of their superfluous books to it, and gifts might also be expected from persons leaving a station on transfer The idea of municipal libraries is one to be encouraged If, then, the sense of this meeting is in favour of the proposal, I would suggest that the following words be placed either after clause (xi) or before clause (viii)— 'the establishment and maintenance of public libraries'"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"I fully accept the principle upon which the establishment and maintenance of free libraries is permitted in the Calcutta Municipality, namely, that in questions of this kind we should give full discretion to the Corporation Unfortunately in this particular case the proposal has been brought forward so late in the day that we have not been able to obtain any expression of opinion from the Municipalities which are concerned I think that theoretically the matter may be taken as an open one I regret I cannot altogether agree with my hon'ble friend Mr Pratt, or my hon'ble friend on my left (Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf) that a library is merely a luxury I know that in the stations of Gaya and Rangpur the people were much benefited by the establishment of libraries which were the gifts made by certain Judges on their retirement, and that they were much resorted to, and I should not be at all surprised to find that the Municipalities of those stations did contribute towards the support of those institutions But it is quite clear that the interpretation which the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment attempted to put upon the section is not tenable You cannot say that libraries are either schools or hospitals It is also equally clear that any library which may be established or contributed to, must be a free library which is a distinct omission in the terms of the amendment and I do not know that it would not be well to consider the provisions of the English Libraries Act which restricts the contribution by the local authority to a penny in the pound, or one two hundred and fortieth part of the annual income, or say about a pie in the rupee Whether some limitation of this kind should not be attached to the provision is a matter for consideration, but I am perfectly sure that if the amendment is accepted, it should come after clause (xi), so that it may be included among the forms of expenditure, which should only be undertaken after all the other forms of expenditure which are mentioned have been met and disposed of Subject to that condition, I am prepared to vote for the amendment as a provision of the same category as those specified in clauses (viii) to (xi) The question is entirely an open one for the Council to determine"

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said —"I think that this amendment ought to be allowed I consider that the range of subjects over which this section 6 travels is so large, and embraces so many useful purposes, that I cannot for a moment conceive why this very useful purpose, the establishment and maintenance of libraries, should not also be included A man's education does not end when he leaves school, he begins then to mature what he has learned before, and a library is very necessary for that purpose, and taking the proposal in connection with the establishment and maintenance of schools for which provision is made in the Bill, I cannot conceive a more useful purpose But whether this provision should be inserted where it is proposed by the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment, as an addition to clause (v), or where the Hon'ble Mr Grimley suggests it should come, is for the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill to consider"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY, by way of amendment, moved that the following new clause be inserted after clause (xi), in section 6 —

"(xii) the establishment and maintenance of free libraries,"

Also that the remaining clauses of the new section 69 (1) be re numbered accordingly, and that in the proviso to the same section for "xi" the figures "xii" be read

These amendments were put to the vote and agreed to, and the original motion of the Hon'ble Rai Eshan Chundra Mittra Bahadur was withdrawn

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN moved that in section 6, clause (viii), the words "and of veterinary practitioners" be omitted, that is to say, that the training and employment of veterinary practitioners be not included as one of the objects upon which municipal funds may be expended

He said —"There is no doubt that the object aimed at by these clauses of the Bill are very desirable ones But the question is whether the scanty revenue of our Municipalities should be devoted to the purpose I submit in reference to this amendment, and also with reference to other amendments standing in my name on this subject, in regard to which I shall not separately address the Council, that they are very desirable objects no doubt, but the question with reference to all of them also is whether municipal funds should be applied to these purposes Instead of giving you my opinion upon the matter, I shall simply put before you certain opinions given by public Associations and other bodies and persons The Calcutta Trades' Association, of which we find an hon'ble representative here, say —

'The Bill further proposes to empower municipalities to spend money on the improvement of the breed of horses, cattle and asses, and on the breeding of mules' The Committee submit that these are purely agricultural objects, which do not come within the scope of municipal enactment, and on which, therefore, municipal funds should not, in their opinion, be employed indeed, the committee consider it would be unwise to divert any portion of the scanty revenues of municipalities to objects other than those for which they are intended, such as the provision of a water-supply, the repair of roads, the improvement of sanitation, etc If experiments for the breeding of mules and the improvement of draft cattle are necessary, the committee submit that the same should be conducted by, and at the expense of, the State alone As to the probability of such experiments proving a source of profit to the Commissioners the committee of the Association doubt the expediency of allowing a township to embark on schemes for the improvement of cattle and the breeding of mules on the chance of obtaining a profit There is in this an element of speculation which the committee feel should not be introduced amongst municipal objects

"The Indigo Planters' Association say —

'It seems very improbable that natives will take advantage of any veterinary staff or hospital for the treatment of cattle or horses There is at present a competent establishment in Muzaffarpur under charge of persons who have passed through the Lahore Veterinary College but it receives little or no encouragement or support from the zemindars or people generally It is believed that horses cannot be bred with success on this the (north) side of the Ganges, and the attempt at mule breeding, made under Government auspices some years ago, was a conspicuous failure

"The Eurasian and Anglo Indian Association say —

'The Association, however, are inclined to question whether it would be good policy and whether any practical benefit would result, if breeding establishments for cattle and horses or for mules were directly established and maintained by municipalities. It is doubted whether municipal bodies are fitted for the management of such enterprises, which, to be economically and efficiently worked must be conducted by owners under the stimulus of personal interest, and which under paid agency are likely to be costly failures, as even the Government stud department has proved

"The Bengal National Chamber of Commerce say —

'The Committee cannot refrain from observing that municipal funds, specially intended as they are for purposes of sanitation and conservancy and other purposes of a cognate nature and which are hardly sufficient for satisfying their requirements, cannot legitimately be devoted to objects specified in the second paragraph of the letter under reply, the costs of which, vast as their scope is, should, the Committee respectfully submit, be borne from the Provincial funds

"The British Indian Association has something to say to the same effect —

'Considering that the resources at the disposal of Municipal Commissioners are limited, and that the number and character of works on which the municipal fund may be spent are diverse, it is desirable that, except in the matter of works of primary importance, they should be given full and free scope in the selection of works The training and employment of medical and veterinary practitioners and the establishment of dispensaries for the treatment of animals—in short all the new clauses added to section 69 should be left entirely to their discretion They should be also left unfettered as to the system of training and treatment for it is still a moot question whether the native system of treatment of domestic cattle is not superior to any foreign system'

"The Bhagalpur Landholders' Association say —

'As regards section 5, the new provisions occur in clauses (6), (8), (9) and (10) of sub-section 1 to section 69 and in sub-section 3 There is not much objection to the provisions contained in clause (6) The establishment and maintenance of veterinary dispensaries at the cost of the municipality is not required, and is not desirable at present The treatment of horses and other animals, however desirable, is not of such urgency as improvements in other directions The municipal fund should not be applied for the above purpose unless it can be spared after adequate provision has been made for more legitimate purposes. There are municipalities where roads are in a wretched condition, and conservancy and latrine arrangements are very unsatisfactory, and yet the municipal fund is diverted to pet projects, and the same may be done if discretionary power be vested in the Municipal Commissioners under these new provisions As regards clause (10), the objection would apply very forcibly It is not the business of municipalities to embark in trade It is not desirable to burden them with the work of improvement of the breed of horses, cattle and asses and the breeding of mules There will be a danger of the municipal fund being appropriated to this purpose at the sacrifice of improvements of a more legitimate character affecting the health, comfort and well being of the townspeople A small expenditure will be inadequate for the purposes referred to in clauses (6), (8), (9) and (10), and if the expenditure be large, it would affect the other purposes to which the municipal fund can be applied Novelty is more attractive, and a Municipal Chairman and Municipal Commissioners, for the sake of introducing a new thing, would not be unwilling to incur expenditure for the purposes referred to in the aforesaid clauses, to the sacrifice of other necessary purposes The matter should be considered from a practical and not from a theoretical point of view The argument that the appropriation of the municipal fund to the purposes mentioned in the new provisions will be entirely in the discretion of the Commissioners may be good in theory, but in practice the discretion is not always judiciously exercised The power should not be given unless it be required and my Association are of opinion that the power to apply the municipal fund to the purposes specified in clauses (8) and (10) is not required My Association would further suggest that the training of medical and veterinary practitioners should be restricted to such of them as would practise within the limits of the municipality defraying the cost of the training, so that it may reap the benefit of the cost incurred Why should a person trained at the cost of a particular municipality be free to practise anywhere he may choose, and not be bound to practise in the municipality which met the cost of his training?

"To these opinions may be added the opinions of some officials I shall not trouble the Council by reading all the opinions in favour of my amendment, but I shall call attention to the opinions of Mr Westmacott, Commissioner of the Presidency Division, Mr Bourdillon, Commissioner of Patna, and Mr Dutt, Commissioner of Orissa

"Mr Westmacott says —

'Training of veterinary practitioners veterinary hospitals and dispensaries, appointment and payment of veterinary practitioners – I do not think that municipal funds should be spent on these objects until there is a public demand for it At present I believe, any veterinary hospital would remain empty, and any veterinary practitioner would remain idle, so far as native owners of cattle are concerned Such a legal provision as is proposed might do no harm so long as Municipal Commissioners are unable to spend money on these objects without the sanction of the Commissioner of the Division, but I do not think the provision, even when permissive, is at all required by the people A few fussy amateurs might get up an agitation on the subject, but so long as the public do not want the expenditure, I see no use in making it permissive'

"Mr Bourdillon says —

'As regards section 5 my personal opinion is that the improvement of the breed of horses, cattle and asses and the breeding of mules are not objects on which the money of the rate payers should be expended Besides the fact that the rate payers will derive little if any benefit from them, there remains the consideration that these operations to be successful must be carried on by a specially trained staff, and that they require constant attention, are expensive and as far as the experience of Government goes doomed to failure For all these reasons I should be unwilling to see any municipality given the opportunity of spending public money on such schemes.'

"Mr Dutt says —

'Mr Bell's opinion is quoted below —

'He says —While fully realising the importance of endeavouring to improve agriculture in these as in many other ways, I think that such an object should not be delegated to municipalities, but should be kept under the direct control of the central Government of the Province The improvement of agriculture is a public function which, specially in a country like India concerns all and that alone is a weighty reason for entrusting it to a central Government

'I think there is considerable force in what Mr Bell says It appears to me that the training and employment of medical and veterinary practitioners is an object in which residents outside municipalities have a larger interest than those in towns, and I scarcely think such institutions should be supported from municipal contributions unaided by contributions from other sources, and the same remark applies to the establishment and maintenance of veterinary dispensaries the appointment and payment of qualified persons to treat animals, and the improvement of the breed of horses, cattle, &c

'The resources of mufassal municipalities are also exceedingly poor, and are not fully adequate in any large town that I know of in Bengal to provide for necessary sanitary improvement and the provision of water supply

"It will probably be said that there are the opinions of the Chairmen of a number of municipalities in favour of the provision in the Bill, but looking to those opinions, we find that most of them say —'We are poor, the provisions do not affect us, but we don't see any objection to the provision applying to Municipalities which can afford to spend money over them,' if not, like the opinion of a Deputy Commissioner, who says 'I am very busy, have no time for this, but I approve, I submit that the body of weighty opinions which I have quoted should not be disregarded The only thing that will be said is that the expenditure is permissive The legislature simply enables—it does not compel True, but let me remind you of what Mr Westmacott says —'A few fussy amateurs might get up an agitation on the subject' Let me then tell you what the Bhagalpur Landholders' Association say — 'Novelty is very attractive, and a Municipal Chairman and Municipal Commissioners, for the sake of introducing a new thing, would not be unwilling to incur expenditure for the purposes referred to in the aforesaid clauses, to the sacrifice of other necessary purposes' While on this point I shall give you a concrete case The other day I asked a question in this Council about the expenditure by a certain Municipality of Rs 37,000 for the acquisition of certain land"

[The Hon'ble MR RISLEY—I submit this is not relevant]

[The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT—It is by way of illustration, and is not out of order]

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN, continuing, said —"I am simply illustrating my point The acquisition of land was for the purposes of the Sonepur fair On turning to the law, you will find that there is nothing in the law to justify the expenditure of money for such a purpose, and if in that instance money could be expended beyond the sanction of the law, what would there be to prevent it being done in regard to the matter now under discussion Again, the subject of deterioration of cattle in this country attracted attention long ago In 1871 there was a Commission, and an elaborate report was drawn up, after a searching enquiry The Commission determined the causes and pointed out remedies It is only the Imperial Legislature which can, to some extent, grapple with the causes, and it is the Imperial exchequer which alone can supply sufficient funds for carrying out the remedies We have waited these twenty five years without taking any initiative whatever, excepting, perhaps, the formation of a veterinary school at Belgachia two or three years ago, and now it appears to me somewhat odd that the first experiments regarding this matter should commence with local funds It is not fair, I submit, that to carry out the suggestions of that commission or to try experiments money should be spent from local funds The subject is one of Imperial interest or at least of Provincial concern We here in Bengal entertain a costly establishment under a Director of Land Records and Agriculture To outsiders it appears from the work turned out that this Department is dying of inanition The proper course possibly would be to give it work, and work for which at least the Provincial funds should be available But certainly I am sure that the money for these purposes should not come out of municipal funds Look at the state of those funds You have in all about 22 lakhs raised by 146 Municipalities, under municipal administration, you have 2¾ million inhabitants, but the municipal revenues are not contributed by all these people, but by a small knot of rate payers whose number does not exceed 450,000, i e, about one sixth of the population under municipal administration Why then should the Municipal funds be charged with the additional duty of looking after animals with which they have no concern when they have not only themselves, who supply the rates, but five sixths of their fellowmen, who do not pay the rates to look to? With these remarks, I ask the Council to support my amendment"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"The Council has nothing to do with the question whether veterinary medicine and surgery are or are not wanted in India That point has been settled long ago by authority The Cattle Plague Commission in 1870, Dr Voelcker in 1892, and Dr Fleming in his various writings had said the last word on the subject Their conclusion is that enormous numbers of cattle and horses die every year from preventable causes, and Dr Fleming, the leading expert on the subject,—an expert with special Indian experience—estimated the yearly loss on this account, the yearly diminution of the wealth of the country, at nine millions sterling If anyone is rash enough to attempt to go behind this mass of evidence, all I can say is that that person will have a very long day's work By the time he has read the literature he will probably have learned enough to qualify him to agree with the experts If he has not, his opinion may be neglected The real question before the Council is—Can Municipalities, and local bodies generally, properly be empowered to contribute to veterinary schemes? This is only a part of the larger question of which much has been heard in Europe and is likely to be heard in this country—What is the proper division of functions between the Central Government and the organs of Local Government? Much has been written on this subject of late years, and all writers of whatever school and whatever nation, agree that the principle of general and particular interest governs the division—what affects the whole society is done by the Central Government, what is specially needed by a locality or minor division is usually done by the latter All who have touched the subject, whether practical politicians like Mr Goschen or theoretical economists like those of the continental school, accept this principle, which, after all, is the plainest common sense I ask that this principle be applied to what is proposed by the Government It is to the general interest of the people of the Province that veterinary practitioners, like medical practitioners, should be properly trained, so that they may cure and not kill Therefore Government started, as it has done here, and as other Governments have done in Bombay and Lahore, Veterinary Colleges These Colleges further serve the interest of the society generally by opening respectable and lucrative careers to educated young men of the over crowded middle classes The conversion of the existing school here into a college, and the raising of the scales of pay will greatly improve the prospects of the men who take up this line It is also to the interests of Society generally that veterinary practitioners and veterinary institutions should be subject to inspection and control For this reason the Government provides an inspecting and controlling staff As to the practical working of the scheme, the Hon'ble Mr Finucane is better acquainted than I am with the administrative details, but I understand the general idea is to place before the local bodies of a certain number of districts a scheme for a veterinary dispensary with a suitable staff, and to invite them to accept it Something may at the same time be done for the interior of districts by opening dispensaries, or appointing Veterinary Assistants in large Government or Wards' estates In all dispensaries some income might be secured by charging fees on a reasonable scale, to be approved by local bodies and Commissioners of Divisions, for the treatment of horses and cattle belonging to well to do individuals or companies A scheme thus framed is precisely in accordance with the principle which I have quoted It puts upon local funds matters of particular interest—dispensaries which will serve a special area and so forth,—and it leaves matters of general interest to Provincial funds Municipalities will, moreover, have another source of income to help them in the form of the fines realised under the Act of 1869 for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals During the five years ending 1894 95, receipts from that source increased in mufassal Municipalities from Rs 5,000 to Rs 28,000, and the Government of India have sanctioned the continuance of the existing arrangement for a further period of five years This concession will, no doubt, be maintained as an inducement to Municipalities to interest themselves in veterinary undertakings

"The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment has spoken to the whole case, and I will also deal with the whole matter The Hon'ble Member has quoted certain 'opinions' on the matter I will deal with those opinions in the order in which they have been quoted As to the opinion of the Trades' Association, that Association makes, only with less authority, the same points as the Planters' Association does The Association suggests that the assistance of Municipalities 'should be limited to the grant of scholarships.' But this is exactly what is meant by training This and practically nothing more The term could not be defined more closely The opinion of the Planters' Association is an opinion which should carry some weight It should be treated with respect, as the planters certainly know what they were talking about But even the planters were not infallible They argue from a single instance of very recent date The establishment at Muzaffarpur is only a year old I should have liked to have heard a little more about it. It is possibly due to the fact that the institution is in charge of unsympathetic foreigners,—Punjabis—that it received so little support from local zemindars Punjabis and Purbias, like oil and vinegar, cannot unite They hate each other and cannot understand one another's language Government has recognised this difficulty and has proposed to raise the status of the local veterinary school, and teach up to a higher standard, in order to avoid employing foreigners from Bombay or Lahore As to horses there is little doubt that they cannot be bred successfully north of the Ganges, nor at Dacca, but surely they can south of the Ganges in Arrah In regard to mules, where Government failed Municipalities might succeed At any rate Municipalities will not attempt to breed them unless there is a fair prospect of remuneration The Defence Association has no authority for their opinion As for the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce, its opinion, taken as a whole, is that the proposed system will be to the advantage of Municipalities Most of the Municipalities have declared in favour of the scheme The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment has laid special stress upon the remarks of Mr Bourdillon, the Commissioner of the Patna Division It is true that Mr Bourdillon says 'Besides the fact that the rate payers will derive little if any benefit from them, there remains the consideration that these operations to be successful must be carried on by a specially trained staff, and that they require constant attention, are expensive and, as far as the experience of Government goes, doomed to failure' Now, as to the benefit to be derived by the rate payers, surely very many of them own cattle In all Municipalities, in overgrown villages, even in real towns, cattle are kept under horribly unsuitable conditions Take the case of Dacca, where four or five years ago there was a severe outbreak of cholera Several cases were traceable to bad milk If Dacca had kept a veterinary practitioner, he would have stirred up the Gowalas, if he did nothing else, and would have earned more than his pay in the saving of human life, let alone the cows As to the necessary trained staff, Government has a college whence to supply them Then as to the anticipated failure The real cause of the failure of the Government Studs was that the establishments were worked on a very expensive scale, and the cost of a horse bred at one of these establishments was very high Horses could be obtained cheaper from Australia Where Government failed, private enterprise has everywhere succeeded Then the fact is overlooked that Municipalities will not undertake breeding operations unless they are assured that they are likely to pay and can undertake the operations cheaply Mr Bourdillon then goes on to say that 'trained assistance should be available for the use of the rate payers' Of course it will be They do it already in the case of medical practitioners Municipalities will assuredly take excellent care that the people they train will work for them when their education has been completed They can deal with them under any bye laws they may frame As far as I understand him, Mr Bourdillon would not object to the section in its present form

"One very interesting opinion has been received from Babu Umesh Chunder Ghosh, the Chairman of the Jessore Municipality His concluding remark in his reply to the application for his opinion runs thus 'The provisions for breeding and training of medical men may be made both in the Municipal Act and in the District Board Act' This gentleman is evidently a very advanced person, and it would be interesting to know how he intends that his recommendation for the 'breeding and training of medical men' should be given effect to It is a difficult enough job to train doctors, let alone breeding them The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment has quoted the opinion of Mr Westmacott, the Commissioner of the Presidency Division It is pleasant to see how, in the necessities of debate, the lion and the lamb have lain down together Mr Westmacott, as is well known, is an authority on horses, but I am not aware that he is strong on cows He, however, sees no harm in the measure 'so long as Municipal Commissioners are unable to spend money on these objects without the sanction of the Commissioner of the Division' That of course they can in no case do The opinion of Mr R C Dutt, the Officiating Commissioner of the Orissa Division, is also, as a whole, in favour of the section, under certain reservations In regard to the purchase of a plot of land at Sonepur, an unfair attempt has been made to prejudice those who have brought it about What is the use of Local Self Government if local bodies are not to be trusted to some extent? The Sonepur District Board proposed the purchase, and the expenditure was perfectly legal Before the purchase was completed, the local Government declined at first to give sanction, but said that if the District Board pressed the point and showed good cause, the necessary sanction would be given They did show cause, and Sir Charles Elliott accorded his sanction to the arrangement This was done in the interests of sanitation and for the better regulation of a great fair, and it is well known that Sonepur during its annual great fair is the centre of cholera

"I have also to say that the scheme on which the Municipalities have recorded their opinions is distinctly less favourable to them than the scheme as it now stands The former said nothing about the combination of all the local bodies in a district, an arrangement which obviously lightens the burden of any particular Municipality Nevertheless 102 Municipalities are for, and only 7 are against, it Had they had before them the scheme as it now stands, I have little doubt that the opinion would have been unanimous Anyhow I have stated the facts A definite proposal has been put before the local authorities, and all but an insignificant minority have accepted it What happens next? The professed advocates of Local Self Government turn round and laboriously discredit the action of local authorities whom they themselves represent I confess I do not understand the position If the Council cannot trust the elective Municipalities to know their own minds, how can these bodies be trusted to do anything—to elect a member of Council for example What is the good of them? That is not what I say, but what the supposed friends of Local Self Government have been saying this day But people must be consistent One cannot face both ways—swear by Local Self Government when it suits one's purpose and disown it when it produces unexpected results I note that what I will call the coercion argument has been made use of in the Council to day and has apparently had its weight with the Hon'ble Member for the Trades' Association Now this talk about coercion reminds me of the famous examination answer, which everybody knows—'The horse is a noble animal, but if you drive him he will not do so' That is just the way of Municipalities They are noble institutions, but if you drive them 'they will not do so,' particularly if you want to drive them to do something which the law leaves optional with them

"In conclusion, I trust seriously that the Council will reject all the amendments on this subject, and pass the provisions in the Bill as they stand The Bill is a deliberate and well considered attempt to deal with a very difficult problem It deals with it, as I have shown, on recognised principles, and in the present stage of the question we are bound to be comprehensive We are some extent feeling our way We are also bound, as far as possible, to follow the same lines as other Provinces The thing has got to be tried There is every reason to believe it will succeed At any rate I can give the most positive assurance that it will be worked with all fairness towards local interests"

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said—"While I sympathise to a great extent with what has fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, I think the Council should not accede to his suggestion to receive all these proposals en masse in the form in which they have been recommended by the Select Committee, by whom no doubt they were very carefully considered The clauses should, I think, be considered separately with reference to the modifications which have been proposed I have listened with great interest to the speech of the hon'ble mover of the amendment But I have not been convinced by his arguments When this Bill was introduced in March last, it was recommended, I believe, by the Hon'ble Babu Guru Prosiad Sen himself that the Bill should be circulated among different public bodies and among the several municipalities in the Province for an expression of their opinion That has been done, and we have before us a big tome of papers, mostly from the municipalities which have been consulted It is a matter of the first importance that we should consider with great care and attention the opinions of the municipalities who will be called upon to administer the provisions of this Bill However great may be my respect for the various Associations who have submitted their opinions, the Bihar Planters' Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the British Indian Association, the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce I am bound to say that, in matters affecting municipal interests, I would attach greater importance to the opinions of those who have a larger interest in and a more intimate knowledge of municipal affairs As has been pointed out by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, 106 municipalities gave their opinion in favour of the veterinary clauses of the Bill Only five or six are opposed to them, and about a dozen at the most give a somewhat uncertain sound I say that we are bound to pay the utmost possible deference to these expressions of opinion My hon'ble friend the mover of the amendment referred to the opinion of the British Indian Association, and let me repeat the words he used in doing so He said — "The British Indian Association say something on the subject" What that something was, he left his hearers to infer That something was distinctly in favour of the Bill before us I will read to the Council what the Association say They observe—

'Section 5—Considering that the resources at the disposal of the Municipal Commissioners are limited and that the number and character of works on which the municipal fund may be spent are diverse it is desirable that, except in the matter of works of primary importance, they should be given full and free scope in the selection of works'

"I claim on behalf of the Select Committee that such full and free scope is provided by the terms of the proviso we have attached to this section of the Bill The British Indian Association go on to say—and I desire to draw the special attention of my hon'ble friend the mover of the amendment to this part of their observations,—

'The training and employment of medical and veterinary practitioners and the establishment of dispensaries for the treatment of animals—in short, all the new clauses added to section 69—should be left entirely to their discretion They should be also left unfettered as to the system of training and treatment, for it is still a moot question whether the native system of treatment of domestic cattle is not superior to any foreign system The Committee would accordingly beg leave to suggest that the new clauses be added to the proviso appended to section 69'

"In fact we have gone a step further We have provided that it is only after the primary needs of a municipality have been fully met that a municipality will be at liberty to spend municipal funds upon the objects mentioned in clauses (viii) to (xii) of the section Thus then the opinion of the British Indian Association, to which my hon'ble friend referred in somewhat ambiguous and doubtful terms, is an opinion which entirely supports these provisions of the Bill as now modified by the Select Committee

"There is another opinion to which I think my hon'ble friend will attach the utmost importance, because it is the opinion of a gentlemen who is held in the highest possible respect by all those who have the honour and the privilege of his acquaintance—I refer to Babu Ambica Charan Mazumdar, Secretary to the Faridpur People's Association He says—

'The avowed object of the Bill seems to be to provide for the protection and improvement of the live stock in the country In this the Committee of the Association fully shares the views of the Government and as a preliminary attempt towards the practical solution of a great economic problem, it cordially welcomes the proposal of Government to accord its sanction to the establishment of veterinary institutions in the country Though the Committee is not very sanguine as to the probable results of the proposed experiment it would not hesitate to say that it wholly dissents from the view expressed in certain quarters that no portion of the municipal funds can be legitimately appropriated to any such purpose as the one now under consideration In fact since the amending Act of 1894 has rendered even agricultural holdings chargeable with the municipal tax, the Committee does not see how municipal corporations can altogether repudiate the responsibility which naturally attaches to them for effecting some improvement in the breeding and rearing of cattle Those who are entrusted with the duty of preventing cruelty to animals ought at least to have some arrangement made for protecting them either from natural diseases or from the effects of such treatment It may be that in many cases, owing to want of necessary funds, this object of the Bill will practically remain a dead letter Nevertheless, if the barest recognition of the principle by Government will encourage and stimulate some Municipalities to give effect to the noble intentions of the Bill, the labour of the Government and of its Council will not be deemed to have been spent in vain'

"I attach very great importance to this opinion, and I am certain that my hon'ble friend will attach a similar measure of importance to it Therefore having regard to these expressions of opinion, I submit that these clauses should form a part of the Bill Whether they should be modified and changes made here and there are matters which may fairly admit of discussion, but as far as the principle of the inclusion of these veterinary clauses within the scope of the Bill is concerned, I am bound to say that, having regard to the opinions which have been received, and to which the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill has referred, we ought to come to a conclusion distinctly in favour of these clauses At the same time I desire to say that in a matter like this the Provincial Government ought to come to the assistance of local bodies I hope and trust when the Bill is passed, the Local Government will see its way to give wherever possible contributions to help local bodies in regard to an object in which the Local Government is interested, in which the people at large are interested, and in which, I am perfectly certain, are involved the best interests of an agricultural country like ours"

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA BAHADUR said —"I happen to be the Chairman of a neighbouring Municipality, and I think I ought to say something Before making any remarks upon the subject of the amendment now before the Council, I may inform Hon'ble Members that some two or three years ago the Commissioners of the Hooghly and Chinsura Municipality purchased a very fine bull at a cost of Rs 200 and has been maintaining it at an expenditure of Rs 15 or Rs 16 a month, but it unfortunately so happened that the animal got sick and there was no body in the district who was able to discover the disease from which the animal suffered and to treat it, and the animal is still suffering I may also inform the Council that the District Board of Hooghly, of which I am a member, passed a resolution recommending a scholarship to be given to any one who would study in the Veterinary College at Belgatchia, and then practise as a Veterinary Surgeon in the Hooghly district That resolution was passed by the representatives of the people not under pressure from any quarter, but in due discharge of their duties They have under the present law committed an illegality, but I may say in their defence that they done a little legal wrong to do a great right I am in a position to say that there is a growing want for improvement in the breed of cattle, and I therefore submit that it is not quite the proper thing to object to the clauses under discussion To the Indian peasant cattle is of more concern than roads and bridges, and looking to the constitution of the municipal fund, and the class of people who pay the rates, I submit that a portion of those funds should be devoted to the relief of diseased cattle Something has been said in the reports that have been read by the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment about the novelty of the scheme operating as an inducement to Municipal Commissioners to spend money upon it I must say I do not relish that remark Municipalities in Bengal are now represented mostly by elected Commissioners, and the men so elected are not likely to fritter away the municipal fund through official pressure, they have their independent judgments, and I do not appreciate the remark that the Commissioners will be attracted by the novelty of the scheme, and be thus led away unless restrained by the provisions of the Bill Lastly, I would observe that Hindus have a very sacred veneration for the bovine class, and a measure like this, which tends to the improvement of that class of animals, will be welcome to the Hindus It will be equally welcome to the Muhammadan and the Christian communities It is said that municipal funds ought not to be spent for this purpose, but in fact bulls and other animals are kept by Municipalities for conservancy purposes, and they require some such person as a Veterinary Surgeon to look after them Therefore I submit there can be no possible objection to these clauses of the Bill, and I support the provisions of the Bill and oppose the amendment"

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said —"This day's debate in Council has served to bring to a focus the real question and the real point in connection with the clauses under consideration The question is whether the clauses relating to the training and employment of veterinary practitioners should be allowed to find a place in the Bill, and the existence of the proviso to the section must not be forgotten in connection with that question The effect of the proviso is to render the Bill only an enabling measure The Bill simply seeks to confer on the Municipal Commissioners a power which they do not possess under the Act it only legalises the expenditure of municipal funds on such objects, when the Commissioners should think it desirable to incur such expenses, and when their funds permit them to do so It could not be denied that the measure is one of great importance and utility the obvious tendency of it will be to improve the condition of the agricultural classes, whose sole wealth not unoften is their cattle, and the treatment of cattle disease and the improvement of the breed of cattle is calculated to improve the general prospects of agriculture

"The objections against the measure are two first, it is the duty of Government to provide funds for the object, and, secondly, that the permissive character of the measure might not be sufficient in some cases, and that, in spite of the permissive character of the Bill, 'a few fussy amateurs might get up an agitation on the subject,' and thus induce the general body of Commissioners to devote funds on this subject to the detriment and prejudice of more important objects

"As regards the latter objection, what I have to say is that legislation must be undertaken on the assumption that people concerned in and entrusted with the carrying out of the law will do their duty If we are to go into such side issues as have been raised to day, and if we are to be deterred from legislating by reason of want of confidence even in such a body of intelligent and reliable persons as the Municipal Commissioners generally are, it will be impossible to pass a single measure in connection with Municipalities We are bound to proceed on the assumption that the Municipal Commissioners as a body of men having a deep sense of their high responsibilities will do their duty unflinchingly, and will not attempt to abuse the power by diverting the resources of the Municipalities to this purpose to the neglect of other proper and more needful purposes

"As regards the first objection, it is urged that the subject is one of Imperial interest or at least of Provincial concern, and the Imperial exchequer alone ought to supply funds, and that at least Provincial funds must be applied to this purpose, for which local funds should not be employed As regards this objection, what I have to say is that I am not here to advocate that the Government is not bound to contribute towards the purposes of these clauses On the other hand, I say it is the paramount duty of a good Government to promote by all possible means the welfare of the subject, and more particularly of the agricultural classes and I say that the Government is bound to contribute from Provincial or Imperial funds for all measures having a tendency towards the improvement of the condition of these classes But this duty of the Government has not much to do with the question Alongside with the duty of the Government it is the duty of the Municipalities, when they have surplus funds and superfluous money, to apply that surplus and superfluity to such a desirable object At least they should have the power to do so, and be in a position to exercise that power whenever they are inclined and willing to spend money in this direction after other necessary purposes have been satisfied

"It must be remembered that these clauses comprehend the treatment of cattle both within municipal limits and outside such limits, but the fact that cattle coming from outside the municipal limits are to be benefited by the operation of these clauses affords no ground for the rejection of these clauses Hospitals and schools situated within a Municipality are institutions by which the population generally is benefited their usefulness is not confined to those only who reside within municipal limits it has never been made an objection that because persons residing outside municipal limits are benefited by schools and hospitals, therefore municipal funds should not be expended for the maintenance and support of schools and hospitals In the same way cattle within municipal limits will be benefited by the operation of these clauses, and there should be no objection based on the benefit being extended to areas outside the municipal limits or shared in by persons living outside such areas

"The Muhammadan bodies who were invited to give their opinion on this Bill have expressed themselves in favour of the inclusion of these clauses in the Bill In East Bengal the bulk of the chasa population consists of Muhammadans, in Bihar the cultivating class consists both of Hindus and Muhammadans But whether Hindus or Muhammadans, the ignorance which prevails in the country in regard to the treatment of cattle is simply appalling Even salutrees, ignorant and useless as they are, are difficult to get at These salutrees, it is said, work very much by the rule of the thumb, and they kill more cattle than they cure by their treatment Nobody is more fully acquainted with the condition of Bihar than the hon'ble mover of the amendment I appeal to him to say whether the Bihar raiyats have any knowledge how to treat cattle, and whether it is not a fact that cattle there are dying by hundreds and thousands every day, the people being powerless in the matter and wholly apathetic, attributing the result to divine visitation I have taken care to ascertain the state of feeling of the people on this question, and I find that these clauses are generally accepted as a boon to the country, and that the Muhammadan feeling is very keen in favour of the Bill in fact I have been told that the Bill falls short of what it ought to be, that this measure should have been made one of the chief objects of municipal administration, and not be allowed to have a place given to it where it might remain a dead letter As, however, there is no motion before the Council in the direction of making the provision more stringent, I must be content with what we have in the Bill But I certainly say that to deprive the population of the benefit to be derived from the training and employment of veterinary practitioners, because it is the duty of the Government to provide for it, is not a just appreciation of the duties of the municipal bodies also that to refuse to accept power, because the power might be abused, is not showing that confidence in the Municipalities generally which they, in my opinion, fully deserve I would vote against the amendment'

The Hon'ble MR M S DAS said:—"There cannot be any general objection to the introduction, into the Municipal Act, of a proviso relating to veterinary matters Much has been already said on the subject, but it strikes me that now that certain agricultural areas are included within municipal limits, it becomes the legitimate duty of the Municipality, when funds can be spared for the purpose, to do something towards improving the breed of cattle in the country, and we cannot do a greater service to the agricultural population than to improve the breed of cattle I am glad to hear that the Hooghly Municipality have been maintaining a bull for this purpose I always thought the disappearance of the old Brahmini bull, which was a fine specimen of a bull, was due to the avarice of Municipalities The Brahmini bull, which is dedicated to an idol, is often found in Municipalities in the scavenging cart, and I am glad to see that one Municipality at least has exhibited its zeal for the atonement of the sacrilegious misappropriations by purchasing and maintaining a bull specially for the purpose of improving the breed of cattle As regards the remark that the attempt to establish veterinary dispensaries in certain places has proved a failure, I think that in a country like India any new institution must be launched under the most favourable circumstances, and efforts should be made to see that the people take to it Conservative people like those in India will not easily take to new institutions When the Cattle Commission sat, I believe that two or three years before that there was a good deal of cattle disease in Bengal, and steps were taken by the Government to check it It was then in the contemplation of the Government to meet the expense of preventive measures from the revenues derived from pounds Now that revenue goes to Municipalities, and I think therefore that they may be well called upon to devote a portion of this fund for veterinary purposes I do not think we shall get a favourable answer from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill as to the probability of a grant from the Provincial Revenues The Hon'ble Member is never liberal in making grants, but where a measure is practicable and feasible, and it is put on the ground that it should be undertaken only when funds are available for the purpose, I do not see that there can be any objection to such a measure being included in the Bill"

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE said—"If I interpose in the debate on the particular questions now under consideration, it is because my official duty has necessitated my giving some attention to them for the past 10 or 12 years So far back as 1885, I proposed the establishment of a Veterinary as well as an Agricultural School or College in Bengal

"At that time it was held by many competent authorities that there was no demand in these provinces for the kind of instruction that would be given in these Schools or Colleges, and it was urged that the licentiates of them would obtain no employment, and would only add to that numerous class of persons who have already received instruction, at the expense of the State, in various branches of literary and scientific learning, which they are unable to utilise for their advancement in life, to the extent that they had expected, and therefore are disappointed and discontented

"The Veterinary School has, however, already been established in Bengal, largely owing to the munificence of two native gentlemen—Sir Dinshaw Manockjee Petet, a Parsee of Bombay, and Rai Shewbux Bogla Bahadur, a Marwari of this city Its classes have been attended by Hindu students of different castes from the highest downwards, by Muhammadans and others, who have shown much interest in the subjects taught and been very successful at the annual examinations hitherto held

"In view of the assertions to which I have referred that there was no demand for veterinary instruction in Bengal, I had at first some misgivings regarding the immediate practical results of the establishment of the school, though none as to its ultimate utility I listened therefore with great pleasure at one of the first meetings of this Council, at which I had the privilege to attend, to one after another of the hon'ble elected members expressing his cordial assent to the desirability and necessity of providing the means for giving instruction in agricultural science generally to such natives of Bengal as may desire to avail themselves of it This approval was carried so far that Hon'ble Members vied with one another in their enthusiastic expressions of it, and each of them wished to have an Agricultural College in his own particular part of the country Approval of the introduction of a system of agricultural instruction I thought implied approval also of providing instruction as to the means of improving the breed of cattle and of preventing and combating cattle disease—subjects than which none can be more important to agriculturists

"But, Sir, if the desirability of giving instruction in veterinary science is admitted, on what ground, it may be asked, is it now asserted that we are not to utilise the services of the veterinarians when we have got them? Or that we are to be prohibited from utilising them in the manner provided in this Bill?

"The Hon'ble Member who has proposed the present amendment says the Government of India or the Local Government ought to provide employment for them, while another Hon'ble Member appears to think that veterinary services should be paid for exclusively by such private individuals as may require them

"Now I submit that it is absolutely out of the question that Veterinary Assistants should be appointed or veterinary dispensaries established in each and every local area throughout India or Bengal Veterinary Assistants can at present, and for many years to come, only be appointed in a few selected places where local opinion is sufficiently enlightened to require them If this be so, why should the general tax payer throughout India or Bengal be called upon to pay the entire cost of services rendered or advantages obtained in particular localities only? The Government of Bengal pays the whole expenditure on the establishment of the Veterinary School It will also pay the cost of such an inspecting staff as may be required I am not in a position to make any definite promise on the point, but I think it will probably be willing to give grant-in aid to such local bodies as may be willing to employ veterinary Assistants and establish veterinary dispensaries More it cannot be expected to do As to the other view that private individuals should pay for veterinary aid if they require it, I admit there is more to be said for it It is, I think, quite true that what we ought to aim at, and what we in fact are aiming at, is the attainment of a stage when each individual proprietor or each individual raiyat or other owner of cattle will pay for the services rendered by veterinary licentiates to him personally This, as every one acquainted with the mufassal knows, at present is impracticable of attainment, and therefore we look to the smallest aggregate of individuals, or, in other words, to the smallest local body that we can reasonably look to, as the unit for employment and payment, for the present, of Veterinary Assistants for services locally rendered It is hoped and believed that large proprietors will employ some of the Veterinary Assistants on their own estates, and the Government and Court of Wards will, as a matter of course, pay for such Veterinary Assistants as may be required on estates managed by them respectively But this is not enough We desire to enlist the co operation of local bodies, knowing that even if Government were to send Veterinary Assistants to the mufassal as Government Agents, they would be at first regarded with suspicion, and would not be given a fair opportunity to show what they can accomplish For this among other reasons we have asked local bodies whether they are willing to help in the matter, but we do not desire to force them to do so What is their answer?

"I have looked through most of the reports which we have received on this Bill, and find, as we have been already told by Mr Risley, that of 109 Municipalities no less than 102 are in favour of the provisions which the Hon'ble Member would eliminate, and only 7 against them But the Hon'ble Member says two or three Commissioners and an important body like the Bihar Indigo Planters' Association are against the allocation of any part of municipal or District Board Funds to purposes of the kind He does not, however, refer to the opinions of the six other Commissioners or of the 102 Municipalities or of many Public Associations who hold that it is right to give Municipalities the powers proposed to be given under this Bill, and he does not examine the arguments of the few Commissioners and Associations who hold the same views as himself The reasons given by the Commissioners to whose reports he has referred are, that there is no demand for veterinary assistance among natives of this country, that the people are too ignorant to appreciate its advantages, and therefore that the provisions of the Bill now under consideration, however laudable their object may be, will remain a dead letter In answer to such arguments I would submit that some of the more enlightened Municipalities have already applied for Veterinary Assistants, and others have expressed their intention to do so if the law permits them, and so far is it from being a fact that Veterinary Assistants have failed wherever they have been tried, the exact reverse is the case

"The Hon'ble Member has referred to the Bihar Indigo Planters' Association in support of his amendment What does that Association say Their Secretary writes

'The native public generally will not make use of veterinary establishments, which would therefore be conducted at a dead loss Private enterprise has already started such establishments in Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga, which are freely used by European gentlemen, and I have heard that it is likely that similar establishments will be opened at other centres, but in every case they will be dependent on European support'

"The Veterinary establishments referred to by the Secretary to the Planters, Association are mainly intended for the treatment of horses, and prohibitive fees are charged at them, but the Veterinary dispensaries that we propose to establish with the aid of Municipalities and Local Boards are entirely or mainly intended for treatment of cattle disease in which little, if any, fees will be charged for treatment Does the Hon'ble Member or does this Council think that it is only Europeans who are interested in, or will contribute anything towards, the treatment of cattle disease in this country? The Hon'ble Member refers to the opinion of the Bihar Planters' Association, but he does not refer to the opinion of the most powerful and, from the landholders' point of view, the most representative of all such associations, namely, the British Indian Association

"That body, as we have heard today from the Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee, say—

'The training and employment of medical and veterinary practitioners and establishment of dispensaries for the treatment of animals in short all the new clauses to section 69—should be left entirely to their discretion (i e, of Municipalities and other local bodies)'

"This is precisely what the Bill proposes to do—to leave it entirely to their discretion But the Hon'ble Member would refuse to give them that discretion

"What, then, is the position? These 102 Municipalities say they desire to be allowed to spend part of their funds in employing Veterinary Assistants when they think fit The Governments of India and of Bengal say they think it is right that Municipalities should be given power to spend their money in this way if they wish to do so after they have provided for more urgent needs, but the Hon'ble Gentleman says power should not be given to them to do anything of the kind, and he asks this Council to support him in taking up that position There is no subject on which the overwhelming preponderance of opinion could be more on one side, that is to say, in favour of the provisions of the Bill, yet the Hon'ble Member would have us disregard this mass of opinion I submit that it would not be consistent with the interests of the people of the country or with the principle of Local Self Government for us to do so

"The loss to agriculturists in India by preventible mortality among cattle is, according to the best estimates available, no less than six million pounds sterling, or say ten crores of rupees per annum There can be no more humane or beneficent aim than that of reducing that loss, and no greater injury can, in my opinion, be done to the agricultural classes than would be done by successfully placing difficulties in the way of effecting that object

"In other provinces District Boards and Municipalities have not felt that it was an improper allocation of their funds to entertain and to pay veterinary establishments I am informed that Veterinary Assistants are employed by Municipalities and local boards in the Punjab and in Bombay, with excellent results

"It has been made a subject of reproach to this Province elsewhere that we are so much behind other provinces in this respect, and I hope, as a first step towards wiping out that reproach, that the Hon'ble Gentleman's amendment will be rejected by the Council

"Whether Veterinary Assistants should be employed or veterinary dispensaries opened, or either or both, is a question for each particular Municipality to decide, having regard to its own special wants and resources, but surely it is not too much to ask that Municipalities be given the option of coming to a decision on that point

"On the subject of the establishment of dispensaries, I would explain that it is next to useless to employ a Veterinary Assistant, unless we give him a dispensary where he can treat diseased cattle and win the confidence of the people by showing what cures he can effect, and by dispensing the necessary medicines which are not to be otherwise procured in the muffasal Further, the cost of such dispensaries will be trifling A Veterinary Assistant and his establishment will cost about Rs 570 per annum The expense of instruments will be only Rs 200 once for all, and that of drugs about Rs 200 per annum Is it worth while for any Municipality to spend Rs 570 on a Veterinary Assistant, and then refuse to give him the trifling sum of Rs 200 per annum to enable him to carry on his work satisfactorily?

"Sir, I attach little or no importance to the provisions of the Bill which enable Municipalities to spend money on improvement of the breed of horses, mules, and asses, and would not myself object to their omission, though their retention is, I think, harmless But I attach great importance to the provisions enabling these bodies to spend moderate sums on improvement of the breed of cattle, and more especially on the prevention and curing of cattle disease

"Bengal has produced the best native medical practitioners in India, as well as the best native lawyers and engineers It will, I believe, produce the best veterinary practitioners also if they are given a fair start I would ask hon'ble elected members to consider whether, by opposing the provisions of this Bill, they are not placing obstacles in the way of opening up a new profession, and a new outlet for employment to their fellow-countrymen, and, what is a far more serious matter, whether they are not placing unnecessary and merely technical difficulties in the way of reducing that enormous loss, to which I have already referred, that is now sustained by the agricultural community

"We have been told, and told truly, that my hon'ble friend in charge of this Bill has met all reasonable objections to it made by Hon'ble Members, in the most conciliatory spirit

"Is it too much to ask Hon'ble Members to look at this matter in the same spirit, and in voting on the provisions of the Bill now under consideration, the objects of which are admitted to be most laudable, not to be influenced by technical and narrow considerations as to whether one particular body shall do more and another less towards mitigating the ravages of cattle disease The right principle I submit is that all should, so far as their resources permit, do what they can towards attaining this most humane object"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE said —"I do not rise to support the provision in the Bill in regard to the training and employment of veterinary practitioners which is the subject matter of the present discussion, because, after all that has been said, it stands in no need of any further support I rise to thank the Government for the spirit in which it has met the difficulties which have been raised in connection with this clause and for the promise made by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that the Government would meet with perfect fairness any proposals for carrying out these clauses which might be brought forward by any Municipality, and I rise also to thank the Government for the statement made by the Hon'ble Mr Finucane, who, without making any absolute promise, said it was very likely the Government would make a grant, in order that these clauses might easily be brought into operation, for I believe it is only by cordial co operation between the Government and the local bodies that the success of the measure can be ensured, and its provisions duly carried out"

The Hon'ble MR GRIMLEY said —"The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has fully explained in his exhaustive speech the scope and object of the provisions relating to the training and employment of veterinary practitioners and the principles on which they rest The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE has described their permissive character and the safeguards which have been introduced in order to ensure that municipal funds shall not be expended in the treatment of cattle until all necessary objects have been sufficiently provided for The HON'BLE RAI ISHAN CHUNDRA MITRA, BAHADUR, has given a concrete example in the case of the bull of Hooghly, on which money was or might have been usefully spent An ounce of fact is worth a pound of theory I will give another instance embracing the treatment not of a single animal, nor indeed of a hundred, but of cattle in vast herds Formerly, there were large grazing grounds for the pasturing of cattle in most districts of Bengal, but these have gradually disappeared, and very few now remain But there are still to be found extensive wastes on the high table lands in the Native States to the north and west of Chota Nagpur, particularly in the State of Sirguja Hither large herds of cattle are yearly brought to graze from the neighbouring districts in the North West Provinces of Mirzapur, Allahabad and more distant places They come in thousands and remain for months in charge of Ahirs, who stock the ghi marts of the North West and Lower Bengal But though they come in thousands, they only return in hundreds when the grazing season is over, for they are carried off in thousands and tens of thousands by a frightful epidemic which the simple graziers are powerless to check All that I could do from the distant station of Ranchi was to preach through the Chief of the State segregation of cattle and the burying of carcasses, and to disseminate leaflets of instructions But the assistance might have taken a more practical form had only a few veterinary practitioners been available in the adjoining districts This is a consummation to be wished for, and I shall therefore vote against the amendment"

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN said —"As to the desirability of the objects for which these clauses of the Bill are intended to provide, I do not like to differ in the least from my hon'ble colleages who have addressed the Council They are, indeed, very desirable objects, and I do not see why in a country like this there should not be colleges and dispensaries for the treatment of cattle and proper arrangements also for the improvement of the breed The only question and I submit the important question—with which we are concerned is whether or not municipal funds should be applied for providing for such things As, however, the Hon'ble Members who have spoken are in favour of the retention of these clauses in the Bill, I can only say that, with the assurance which has been given by the Hon'ble Member in charge of this Bill and by the Hon'ble Mr FINUCANE, I beg leave to withdraw this amendment"

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn

The Hon'ble Mr WALLIS moved that in section 6, clause (viii), the words "training and" be omitted

He said —"I am in perfect sympathy with the objects desired to be attained by the employment of female medical practitioners and of veterinary practitioners, the establishment of veterinary and medical dispensaries, and the appointment and payment of qualified persons to prevent and treat diseases of horses and cattle and other animals, but I oppose the use, even of surplus municipal funds, for the training of students I should like to draw the attention of Hon'ble Members to the fact that on several occasions it has been proposed to introduce into the Bengal Municipal Act a clause providing for the training (at the expense of municipal funds) of medical practitioners When the Act was being amended in 1883 84, a clause was inserted in the Bill providing for the training of medical practitioners, but this was omitted by the Select Committee, who considered that municipal funds could not properly be applied to such purposes It was next suggested that the training should be confined to the training of female medical students, but this was also abandoned, and now again we find the proposal is brought forward I agree with the employment of female medical practitioners and of veterinary practitioners, but I object to their being trained at the cost of Municipalities If it is thought desirable that Municipalities should encourage the training of these students, they might go so far as to offer scholarships for this purpose It is true that no part of the municipal funds can be utilised for this purpose without the sanction of the Commissioners in meeting, and it is equally true that the funds can only be so used after all the other purposes for which rates and taxes are levied have been fulfilled But I submit that it is not a right use of the municipal funds to train men and women to earn their own living, and after they have been trained they may leave the Municipal Institutions if inducement should offer It may be said that they can be legally bound to serve the Municipality after such training, but we know what the result of such contracts are If a man is bound to serve against his own will, the chances are that he would be useless I therefore say that even the surplus funds of a Municipality should not be spent in the training of female medical practitioners and of veterinary practitioners It has also been urged by Hon'ble Members that the operation of this clause would be wholly permissive, and that of course is the only redeeming feature I cannot agree with the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill that the principle is a small one, I submit that the principle is a very large one The principle is that municipal funds are to be utilised for purposes for which they have not been utilised in the past, and that is the principle I stand against

"There is another aspect of the case, and that is in some year of unusual prosperity a Municipality may be induced to sanction funds for the training of such students, and having once done so they could not at short notice inform students that surplus funds being no longer available, their training must be discontinued. On the contrary the Municipality will be obliged to find funds to continue the studies of these students, and in consequence the needs of sanitation and other important duties will have to be put on one side I hope I have been able to show that it is undesirable to utilise even the surplus funds of Municipalities for the purposes I have mentioned, namely, the training of female medical practitioners and of veterinary practitioners"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"It seems to me that my hon'ble friend, the member for the Calcutta Trades' Association, has followed the somewhat unusual course of answering by letter, beforehand, the amendment he now moves in the council I shall read an extract from the letter of the Trades' Association on the subject They say —

'The Committee would venture to suggest that if Municipalities are desirous of obtaining the services of students of medicine, when qualified for their own dispensaries they assistance should be limited to the grant of scholarships This is the practice which is now followed in the case of female students studying at the vernacular medical schools and the Committee see no reason why municipalities should extend any assistance beyond this point

"I understand that to the grant of scholarships there is no objection, but that is precisely the meaning of the words 'training and' to which the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment objects If it is proposed to allow the grant of scholarships for the purpose of receiving the necessary training, I think that is all we desirable to have, namely, that grants may be made of whatever sum may be necessary to send a girl from any Municipality to the Calcutta, Dacca, or Cuttack Medical School to get a training there in order that she may go back and practise among the poor of the Municipality from which she was sent That is what is now done, and that is what we want to legalise It may, however, be necessary to pay for books and for expenses of travelling and the like, which would not come under the head of scholarships, but there is no probability of a provision of that kind being unduly large As to the history of the proposal, there is no doubt that it was brought forward in 1892 It was strongly urged upon this Government by the Government of India in 1887 88 They said there was a provision in the Madras Municipal Act which met a want which had been felt, and they asked that when the Bengal Municipal Act next came under amendment, the opportunity might be taken to introduce an amendment similar to that contained in the Madras Act The question was brought up in the Select Committee first of all in the general form of training medical practitioners, and then again in the form of training female medical practitioners The Select Committee then rejected the proposals on what I think were à priori grounds, but the real reply is that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, for while the Select Committee were discussing all the principal arguments on the subject, a great number of Municipalities had incurred very expenditure for this purpose In 1894 95, the Serampore Municipality made a grant of Rs 24 towards the training of a female medical student in the Campbell Medical School, the Darjeeling Municipality made a grant of Rs 25, the Rampur Boalia Municipality sanctioned Rs 20 a month, the Hooghly Municipality paid the travelling expenses of a female student, the Backergunge Municipality provided a stipend of Rs 5 a month, the Patna and Darbhanga Municipalities also made contributions, the Burdwan Municipality paid Rs 40 in four months, the Khulna and Kutwa Municipalities failed to find any suitable girl And as for the suggestion that these girls, when they were trained, did not work in the Municipality by which grants were made in their behalf, it appears to me that Municipal Commissioners are not so stupid as all that When they paid a female student Rs 4 or Rs 5 a month for three years to be trained, they take good care to see that she does not go elsewhere to practise, and, moreover, she being a native of the place, has no inducement to go away In Rampur Boalia for example I found last year that the arrangement had been most successful, and now they are giving the girl a nominal retaining fee, and she is practising among the people there So that really what is proposed to be done under this clause is precisely that which I understand is now actually done"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE said —"Having the honour of being connected with the Bengal Branch of the Countess of Dufferin Fund, I beg leave to say a few words in support of the proposal of the Select Committee The training which is intended to be given to female medical students is not to enable them to find employment wherever they choose, or to open out a new career for a class of Her Majesty's subjects at the cost of municipalities If that had been the object, I should entirely sympathise with the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment, but the object is to remove a grave and a felt want within the Municipality, which unfortunately is not met by the law of supply and demand by the law of competition There is not the slightest apprehension, as has been pointed out by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, of anything else being done, but to provide a little scholarship for some suitable female candidate to receive a training at the Campbell Medical School, or at some similar institution A little money grant makes a deal of difference as to whether a candidate is available to receive that training, not for her own sake, but for the good of the people in the Municipality which provides the scholarship It is not contemplated, as in the case of veterinary practitioners, that there should be a hospital or an educational institution suitable for the purpose of this training I hope there will be no opposition to this proposal The Government has for its own part most generously endowed suitable institutions where female medical practitioners may be trained All that is wanted is that the municipalities should, where necessary, supplement this by a special grant. It will be for the relief of suffering humanity in the case of those who specially need it, and I am sure the object will command the sympathy of the Council "

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said —"The words proposed to be omitted from clause (viii) govern both parts of that clause, and the effect of the omission on the veterinary aspect of the clause will be something the mischief of which it is impossible to overrate The result will be the retention and employment of the class of veterinary practitioners called salutrees, the extent of whose knowledge, or rather I should say ignorance, is well known to those who have come across them it is highly undesirable that such a class of persons should have the authority of the Municipality to go about spreading destruction among cattle and rendering their disease worse by their unskilful and quackish treatment the great object is that the Municipality should be able to train veterinary practitioners so that they might be useful to the country The effect of the omission as regards female medical practitioners has already been pointed out by the Hon'ble Members who have preceded me I therefore think it absolutely necessary that this clause should remain as it stands, and that the law should contain a provision for the training and employment both of female practitioners and of veterinary practitioners "

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE said —"I wish to explain in a few words the effect of the omission of the words 'and training' in this clause as regards veterinary practitioners It will be impossible if these words are omitted for Municipalities to send any persons to a veterinary school at their own expense or to give scholarships to students who go there of their own accord In point of fact Municipalities have in several cases already established scholarships, and paid for them ever since the institution of the Bengal veterinary school, though without legal authority to do so The effect of the omission of the words 'and training' will perpetuate the illegality which now exists I do not think the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment really thinks there is any harm in Municipalities establishing scholarships at the school at Belgachia, and that is all that is meant by training It is not meant that the expense of providing a veterinary school is to be borne by any Municipality The only effect of the words is to enable Municipalities to provide for scholarships at established schools "

The Hon'ble MR WALLIS in reply said —"Taking into consideration the remarks which have fallen from the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill, and the Hon'ble Member who has just spoken, it seems to me that the Council is not disposed to vote for my amendment I should not like specifically to narrow down the proposal to training by means of scholarships, but as I understand that to be the intention of the clause, I beg leave to withdraw my amendment "

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn

The Hon'ble BABU GURU PROSHAD SEN moved that clauses (ix), (x) and (xi) in section 6 be omitted

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said —"We have already received an explanation from the Hon'ble Mr Finucane with regard to these clauses I have given notice of a motion to omit clause (ix) My objection to clause (ix) is based on financial considerations I believe that Municipalities will not be in a position, having regard to their financial resources, to establish dispensaries for the reception and treatement of horses, cattle and other animals, and it is on that ground I gave notice of this motion The Hon'ble Mr Finucane has explained that the establishment of veterinary dispensaries will not be an expensive matter, and I think he has stated that Rs 200 a year is the normal expenditure on account of a dispensary of this kind I have another question to ask, and if the explanation is satisfactory, I am prepared to withdraw my motion I wish to know what the expense would be for the treatment of animals in these dispensaries Whether I will press my motion or not will depend very much upon the answer I receive"

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE said —"I have been informed by Veterinary Captain Gunn, who is an authority on the point, that persons who send their animals to these dispensaries will have to pay for their keep, and that no expense whatever will be incurred by Municipalities on that account"

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said —"Then we may restrict the terms of the clause in that sense The establishment and maintenance of veterinary dispensaries, and the reception and treatment of animals therein are two different things altogether Municipalities in general are so poor that they would not have funds to do more than provide the cost of medicines, which, it has been stated, will come up to about Rs 200 a year It is distinctly unwise to clog a novel provision like this with a greater liability to expenditure than is absolutely necessary and which will render the clause partially inoperative I would suggest the clause being restricted to the 'establishment and maintenance of veterinary dispensaries,' and I would omit the subsequent words 'for the reception and treatment of horses, cattle and other animals'"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —'The question is whether the expression 'veterinary dispensary' will include the treatment of horses, elephants, &c

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said —"A dispensary means a place for distributing medicines That is the sense in which the word is used, but when you speak of reception and treatment, you mean a hospital"

The Hon'ble MR FINUCANE said —"It is intended that horses and cattle shall be received for treatment The owners of these animals will have to pay for their keep, but they will be treated in the dispensary Therefore the expense which will be incurred will be the expense for the medicines"

The Hon'ble MR RISLEY said —"Dispensaries in the mufassal are usually used as hospitals"

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE by leave, withdrew his motion to omit clause (ix) in section 6

The Hon'ble MR WALLIS said —"After the explanation which has been given that persons who send their animals for treatment in these veterinary dispensaries will have to pay for their keep while under treatment, I conclude this will be provided for in the rules to be framed by the Local Government"

The Hon'ble MR WALLIS therefore, by leave of the Council, withdrew the motion of which he had given notice, that at the end of clause (ix) in section 6, the following words be added —

"on payment by owners of certain prescribed fees"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE moved that in section 6, in the proviso to the new section 69 (1), for the words after "both inclusive" to the end of the proviso, the following be substituted — unless such application be sanctioned by the consent of two thirds of the Commissioners present at a meeting specially convened for considering such application, or held after special notice has been given that such application will be considered at such meeting'

He said —"The words of this amendment are copied from the wording of the present section merely substituting 'two thirds' for 'one half,' and I hope, having regard to the conciliatory way in which the several amendments to this section have been dealt with, the Government will be willing to allow a two thirds majority to sanction the establishment of these veterinary dispensaries I venture to suggest that in introducing a novel provision, in making an altogether new departure in municipal administration like that involved in the opening of such dispensaries and the like, a substantial majority of the Municipal Commissioners should be obtained This would disarm local opposition, and secure that support and co operation which are necessary for the success of the undertaking Under the Bill the procedure to be adopted seems somewhat complicated There are to be two divisions or votings of the Commissioners in meeting First, a division on the question whether funds are available for these new undertakings, and then there is to be a second motion and a second division on the point whether these available funds should be devoted for veterinary purposes I submit that this is a complicated and a novel procedure It is absolutely unknown to the Municipal law as it stands, and it is complicated because it requires two divisions where one would be sufficient, that one division being on the question whether on a consideration of all the issues relating to the matter, these measures should or should not be adopted That question would be discussed in all its bearings and issues—the issue of available funds, the requirements of the Municipality, and the desirability of the undertaking All these questions would be considered, and then a clear expression of opinion taken in one division There is another matter regarding which I beg to ask a question of the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill One of the purposes mentioned in section 69 is the training and employment of female medical practitioners and of veterinary practitioners Expenditure for these purposes would ordinarily be incurred outside municipal limits—at the Campbell or other medical school, and at the Belgatchia Veterinary College, money would therefore have to be spent beyond municipal limits But there is a special provision of the municipal law relating to this matter Section 70 of the Bengal Municipal Act provides a special procedure when any expense out of the Municipal Fund has to be incurred in any other municipality, or elsewhere, for any of the purposes mentioned in the Act, and the procedure is that the consent of two thirds of the Commissioners has to be obtained in a certain manner I wish to ask whether the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill has considered that for the purpose of spending money on the training of female medical practitioners or of veterinary practitioners outside the municipal limits, the vote of the Municipal Commissioners will have to be taken in a particular way, whereas under the proviso to section 69 now under consideration, for all these purposes a bare majority is supposed to be sufficient This is a matter which requires solution at the hands of the Council in order to avoid uncertainty and trouble in the future Passing on I would appeal to the Government whether instead of, I will not say driving Municipalities by a bare majority—for a majority is a majority—it is not desirable that a very clear and decided expression of opinion should be a condition precedent to the carrying out of these measures The Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill made one observation on the question of pressure or influence being brought to bear on municipalities He said that the Sanitary Commissioner would always see that the sanitary needs of the Municipality were first attended to Suppose a Magistrate wants these objects to be carried out in any particular municipality, how would the Sanitary Commissioner see that no pressure is brought to bear upon the Commissioners The District Magistrate and the Divisional Commissioner are near, the Sanitary Commissioner is far, he has no opportunity of knowing what is proposed to be done until long after the budget has been passed and sanctioned The large powers left in the hands of the Divisional Commissioner in passing the annual Municipal Budget give him a controlling influence which every Municipal Commissioner know and has felt only too well It will only be in exceptional cases that the Sanitary Commissioner will have the opportunity of closely supervising the expenditure of the Municipality, that is to say, when a complaint is made to him, or when, in the course of many years, he pays a visit to the Municipality There are two opinions bearing on this question among many in the mass of papers which have been circulated to which I may be permitted to refer One of these is from the District Magistrate, or rather the Deputy Commissioner of Lohardaga, who says —'If there is any fear (and it is difficult to say that there is no fear) of expenditure under these heads being forced on unwilling municipalities, I would much prefer to see them omitted from the Act altogether' Therefore there is the fear entertained of some sort of pressure The only other opinion to which I shall refer is from one who represents not a backward but an advanced district like the 24 Parganas, the Magistrate of which says —'The Bill is, I am of opinion, premature, but as it is permissive in character, there is no special objection to it, except that municipalities are prone to expend money on new and attractive objects, and there is some reason to apprehend that pressure may be brought to bear on them in this direction I speak, however, only for the municipalities of this district' I may add that if this should be true for a Metropolitan district like the 24 Parganas, it may be held to be not altogether inapplicable to the circumstances of other parts of the province The question of pressure, however, is a very delicate matter, and I will not stop to criticise how far these two officers are altogether correct in what they say, but I beg to point out that these new undertakings will carry with them popular support and cordial appreciation on the part of the public if the Government were to accede to the suggestion that the vote of a majority of two thirds should be taken after considering all the circumstances, instead of following the novel procedure prescribed by the Bill"

The Hon'ble Mr Risley said —"I trust the Council will support the Select Committee in this matter This particular amendment was very carefully considered indeed The solution which the Hon'ble Member has just put forward was very fully considered and deliberately rejected, and it appears to me wholly unnecessary The section provides ample safeguards against any abuse of these provisions Moreover, so far from this being a novel procedure, it is based on the nearest approach we could provide to the procedure followed in the Calcutta and Bombay Municipal Acts In both those Acts separate provision is made for what may be called necessary purposes and for optional purposes The members of the Select Committee will remember that we tried to define and separate by enumeration the two sets of purposes, but we could not do it to our satisfaction, and the procedure prescribed in the Bill was adopted as the nearest approach to it, and I think it goes as far as any reasonable person can expect us to go without unduly interfering with the discretion of the Commissioners On principle I don't like a hard and fast rule of a two thirds majority, as it leads itself to obstruction and merely retards business As regards the Sanitary Commissioner, in point of fact he exercises a much closer supervision over the proceedings of Municipalites than the Hon'ble Member supposes, and he particularly watches to see that there is no diminution of expenditure on account of sanitary purposes I merely mention this to show that there is no force in a two thirds majority keeping the Commissioners from any possible abuse of their discretion"

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee said —"I am sorry to find myself somewhat in disagreement with the hon'ble mover of the amendment, with whom I am generally in accord in regard to most matters My objection to the amendment is that it dispenses with the safeguards which are now embodied in the proviso, namely, that it is only after the sanitary needs of a municipality have been amply provided for can municipal funds be devoted to veterinary purposes The double division to which my friend refers imposes this necessary safeguard That safeguard is dispensed with in this amendment I think the safeguard which the Select Committee have provided is a more effectual than the safeguard of a two thirds majority If pressure is brought to bear on municipalities, it will be brought to bear on the whole body of Commissioners, and the two thirds will come under it just as much as a bare majority We ought to provide some safeguard against pressure being brought to bear on Municipal Commissioners by Commissioners of Divisions, who may have their hobbies to ride A Commissioner of a Division may think it his duty to promote these veterinary objects, therefore we thought it would be better to legislate that it is only after a majority of the Commissioners present at a meeting are satisfied that the other purposes specified in this sub section, or such of them as the majority consider it necessary to carry out, have been sufficiently provided for, that any portion of the municipal funds can be applied to the purposes referred to in clauses (viii) to (xii) The two divisions required under this provision constitute an effective safeguard Instead of one division with a majority of two thirds, we have two divisions each of which requires a majority, instead of one division on one occasion, we have two divisions on two occasions, and I think this, though a complicated procedure, will provide a better safeguard than that proposed by the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment"

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said —"There is one aspect of this amendment with which I do not agree I do not think it is necessary in the true interests of municipalities that the safeguard contained in the proviso should be so severely and strongly worded as to render the operation of the clauses next to an impossibility As I have already explained in connection with a preceding amendment, there must be some hope left that these new objects, now recognised, will have their turn in the municipal administration There must be some facility left for these clauses to be brought into play and to be reached and worked out in the event of funds being available, and the proviso should not be hemmed and hedged by language containing conditions and limitations so as to place the clauses beyond the bounds of possibility The Hon'ble Mover of the amendment has referred to section 70 of the Bengal Municipal Act on the question of expenditure outside municipal limits I do not think the wording of the section in question is such that one is obliged to say that the only possible construction of that section is as contended for by the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment that however is a matter on which the President can speak with authority As at present advised, it appears to me that you can scarcely say that a scholarship paid to a person who is sent to a college elsewhere to be trained for work to be performed within the Municipality falls within the purview of section 70 if it does, and if the construction contended for by the Hon'ble Mover is fairly correct, or if it is even an open construction, then I admit that a difficulty does arise for which a remedy must be devised but the remedy must not have a tendency so that the clauses should remain in-operative and be a dead letter"

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said —"I think such an expenditure will certainly come within the scope of section 70 You will be spending the money of the Municipality elsewhere than within the Municipality itself"

The Hon'ble RAI ESHAN CHUNDRA MITTRA BAHADUR said —"I think the proviso in the Bill, as it stands, is a more effective safeguard than what the Hon'ble Mover of the amendment has proposed The provision that expenditure for necessary purposes shall first be secured before any money is spent for the purposes mentioned in clause (viii) to (xi) should not, I think, be dispensed with"

The Hon'ble MR A M BOSE in reply said —"I put a question pointedly to the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill in connection with the construction of section 70 of the Bengal Municipal Act, to which the Hon'ble Member has given no answer It is a question of legal difficulty which cannot be shirked in this way If this point has not been considered, and the Hon'ble Member requires further time to consider it, I would suggest that the decision upon the amendment, now before the Council, may be adjourned And in that case I need not enter into other matters at present"

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said —"The section certainly reads as the Hon ble Mover of the amendment suggests, and I think the point should be considered"

The further consideration of the Motion was postponed to the next meeting of the Council

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1895

Dated Calcutta, the 31st August 1896

READ—

The Report on the Administration of the Police Department for the year 1895

Read also—

The Report for the year 1894, and the orders of Government recorded thereon

Mr E R Henry held the office of Inspector General throughout the year The present report, due on the 1st July, was received by Government on the 4th idem The reports from Divisional Commissioners, which were due in the Inspector General's office on the 20th March, were received within that month, with the exception of those from the Commissioners of the Chota Nagpur and Orissa Divisions, received on the 2nd and 7th of April, respectively

2 Constitution of the force—The sanctioned strength of superior officers at the close of the year was 77, including eight probationers, the same as in the two previous years The sanctioned strength of the subordinate officers and men was 23,514, as compared with 23,142 in 1894 and 22,739 in 1893 It was increased by four Inspectors, 146 Sub Inspectors, 320 constables and 63 town chaukidars, while 152 head constables and 16 mounted constables were dispensed with The total number of men actually employed at the close of the year was, however, short of the sanctioned strength by four Inspectors, 72 Sub Inspectors, 126 head constables, 340 constables and 16 town chaukidars The vacancies in the rank of Sub Inspector were kept for candidates to be appointed on the result of competitive examination, while those in the rank of head constable were not filled in order to give effect to the recommendations of the Redistribution Committee The vacancies in the rank of constable are reported to have been due to difficulty of recruitment

3 Expenditure—The following table compares the expenditure under the main heads during the financial years 1894 95 and 1895 96, but the figures for the latter year are given subject to further correction when the Accountant General has finally closed the accounts —

Serial No	Heads of charges	Actual expenditure for 1894 95	Actual expenditure for 1895 96	Increase	Decrease
1	2	3	4	5	6
		Rs	Rs	Rs	Rs
1	Inspecting agency	1 74 138	1 64 662		9 476
2	Pay of District and Assistant Superintendents	5 21 473	5 11 182		10 291
3	Pay of Executive Police and establishments with good conduct pay and batta allowance &c	30 55 191	31 59 468	1 04 277
4	Travelling allowance	92 907	1 07 479	14 572
5	Fixed boat establishment	57 599	57 399		200
6	Special regular and contract contingencies	5 83 709	5 45 185		38 524
7	Government contribution to the Municipal and Railway Police	1 51 711	1 50 628		1 083
8	Bengal Military Police	46 702	68 301	21 599
	Total	46 83 430	47 64 304	1 40 448	59,574
	Net increase			80 874

The largest increase, which occurred under the head "Pay of Executive Police and Establishment, &c.," is due to the utilization of the balance of the grant made in March 1894 for redistribution reforms, and to certain other increased establishments sanctioned during the year The increase under the eighth head is chiefly due to the expenses incurred in connection with the Military Police at Gnatong There has been a satisfactory decrease under the head of Contingencies

4 Reduction of investigating centres and recruitment of investigating officers — Out of 188 investigating centres recommended for abolition by the Redistribution Committee, 177 have been abolished Further reduction is not likely to be practicable At the Sub-Inspectorship examinations held in July and December, 132 candidates were successful The total number of Sub Inspectors now employed on the results of competitive examination and after a course of instruction at the training school at Bhagalpur is about 400 The Inspector General says that they are generally reported to be intelligent and willing workers, the disability under which they labour being lack of experience, a defect which time will remedy

5 Police Training School —During the year, Mr Henry submitted to Government a scheme for the establishment of a permanent Police Training School at Bhagalpur, with the object of giving suitable training to investigating officers of the Bengal Police, which met with the approval of the late Lieutenant Governor Since the close of the year the project has received the sanction of the Government of India and the Secretary of State Rules for the management and supervision of the school have been approved and issued, and the institution is now in full working order The curriculum of study includes the Criminal Procedure and Penal Codes, the Police Code, the Police Act, and portions of the Evidence Act and of other Acts and Regulations with which police officers should be acquainted Drill, Surveying and Anthropometry, including finger print decipherment, are also taught Sir Alexander Mackenzie availed himself of an opportunity of visiting the school during his recent tour, and the arrangements made and the method of instruction appeared to him excellent He fully shares the Inspector-General's views as to the usefulness of the institution and the improvement it is likely to effect in the general character and efficiency of the investigating staff

6 The Lieutenant Governor thinks that steps might now be taken to afford some training and professional education to the inferior officers and the rank and file of the police Each district ought to have its school at head quarters through which all recruits should be passed, and to which a certain proportion of the station police should be annually deputed for temporary instruction Full advantage of such an institution can of course only be taken by men knowing how to read and write, but the number of literates in the force is believed to be yearly growing, and it is only by men previously trained in a police school that such duties as that of village beat patrol, to which the Lieutenant Governor attaches great importance, can be efficiently performed The Inspector General should apply to the Inspector General of Police, Burma, for information as to the organisation and working of the patrols in that province and the system of beat patrol

7 Working of the Town Police —The Inspector General reports that it is a matter of general complaint that the rate of wage fixed for town chaukidars is too low to attract respectable men Of 2,043 chaukidars, three receive Rs 7, 507 Rs 6, and the rest from Rs 4 to Rs 5 per mensem Mr Henry says —"There can be no doubt that the general scale of salary is too low, much below market rates, and that until we offer better terms, we cannot expect to improve the personnel of the Town Police" The Lieutenant Governor will await the separate representation promised on this subject His Honour is disposed to agree that an increase in the rate of pay now drawn by the bulk of the men is advisable where the wages of labour are higher, but objection may fairly be taken to any increase which would have the effect of bringing the pay of town chaukidars, whose services, as a rule, are only required during the night, to an equality with that of constables The details of the Bengal Town Police system of patrol were fully explained in circular orders during the year, and instructions were issued to introduce it into the larger towns with such modifications as local conditions might require The system has been adopted in certain towns in each Division, and the Inspector General states that good results are already apparent In several towns criminals are reported to have been caught red handed by the men on patrol, and a decrease in crime has been the result The Inspector General again comments upon the reluctance of municipalities to assist the police by efficient street lighting or supplying them with oil for their lanterns This is indeed very short sighted economy There has been a net increase of 581 street lamps in the different towns during the past year, but, as in many places the practice is not to light the lamps on what are regarded as moonlight nights, or, when lighted, not to allow them to burn the whole night, the actual benefit to the police is small Many of the streets and lanes are, moreover, without lamps Magistrates should keep the matter before the Municipal Commissioners

Class of chaukidars	1892	1893	1894	1895
1	2	3	4	5
Under Act VI of 1870	96 787	101 517	109,870	114,134
„ Regulation XX of 1817, salaried	53,665	48,696	41 306	35,069
„ „ „ „ chakran	18,629	17,911	17 003	17,063
Total	169,081	168,124	168 239	166,266

These figures show that considerable progress has been made in recent years in extending the provisions of Act VI of 1870 Excluding the Chota Nagpur and Orissa Divisions, where Act VI is not in force, the total number of chaukidars not appointed under that Act in 1895 was 36,185, of whom no less than 27,734 are returned from the Burdwan Division alone From the total figures for the Province, it appears that there is one chaukidar to every 400 of population, while in the Burdwan Division there is one chaukidar to every 188 of population The extension of the provisions of Act VI in that Division has formed the subject of separate correspondence, and instructions have been issued in the matter to the Commissioner of the Division, with the view of ensuring greater expedition in the work of replacing the service chaukidars by men appointed under the Act The delay hitherto in giving effect to the orders of Government is far from creditable to the local officers Elsewhere fair progress has been made, except in the Gaya and Murshidabad districts, where there are still large numbers of chaukidars who have not been brought under Act VI In the latter district systematic steps are being taken since the close of the year to abolish the chakran chaukidars and replace them by men appointed under Act VI of 1870 The delays in this district have been very reprehensible The conditions of Orissa are peculiar, and the question of modifying the system of chaukidari administration in that Division has long been under the consideration of the Government The Lieutenant Governor has recently received fresh reports and suggestions on the subject in connection with the settlement of the province now proceeding, and it is hoped that the matter will shortly be disposed of In the Chota Nagpur Division, little progress is reported in the extension of Act V of 1887, but, as the Inspector General remarks, crime is light in the Division, and the chaukidars are now better paid, and, with the large aboriginal population, it is undesirable to press on changes rapidly The Commissioner should, as suggested by the Inspector General, take up at once the question of establishing Chaukidari Reward Funds in all the districts In the Rajshahi Division, the low rate of pay received by the village watch in some districts is considered by the Inspector General to impair its efficiency The matter will be referred to the Commissioner The inefficiency of the chaukidars in this Division generally is reflected in its very unsatisfactory returns of crime

9 In last year's report the Inspector General drew attention to the necessity of appointing circle chaukidars for groups of villages, to supervise the work of the village chaukidars within the area of their circles and to form a link between them and the executive of the district This suggestion was approved by Government, and effect is being given to it In Mymensingh the Magistrate (Mr Earle) is reported to have taken up the subject with energy, and completely reorganized the chaukidari system on a much improved basis

10 During the year, a sum of Rs 15,683 was expended in rewards to chaukidars, against Rs 12,545 in 1894 Of this amount, Rs 13,971 were disbursed from the District Chaukidari Reward Funds, against Rs 6,782 in the previous year, while the unexpended balance of these funds rose from Rs 33,516 at the close of 1894 to Rs 58,943 at the end of 1895 These figures show some improvement, but, as Mr Henry points out, the sums at the disposal of District Superintendents are ample and should be more fully utilised in the judicious distribution of rewards Neglect to make use of this incentive to good work is an indication of lax supervision In the Murshidabad, Pabna and Muzaffarpur districts, especially, little attention appears to have been devoted to this subject "The ordinary chaukidar," the Inspector-General rightly remarks, "cannot look forward to increase of salary or to pension, his one incentive to good work, therefore, is the hope of earning money rewards, and, as District Superintendents now have funds at their disposal from which to finance these rewards, it is much to be regretted that they have not utilized them more" Nearly half of the total amount paid out of the assets of the Reward Fund was distributed in the Dacca Division, where, in this respect, as in other details, chaukidari administration has received careful attention In the Presidency Division, one chaukidar in every 3 was punished, while only one in 64 was rewarded This shows little discrimination on the part of the officers concerned The Lieutenant Governor is pleased to find no complaint recorded of delay in the payment of chaukidars' salaries, and also to learn that few complaints have been made of chaukidars being employed by the police on menial or degrading duties The careful attention of Commissioners, Magistrates, and District Superintendents should be given to the remarks and suggestions of the Inspector General in this section of his report

11 Railway Police—A net increase of 3 head constables and 12 constables occurred in the sanctioned strength of the Railway Police, owing chiefly to the extra men enrolled for the new Assam Bengal Railway, raising the total force from 619 to 634

12 Additional Police, Special Constables, and Private Police—Additional police were employed in 7 cases during the year, as compared with 11 in 1894 In the Nadia, Murshidabad, Faridpur, Tippera and Darbhanga districts, bodies of extra police were quartered in consequence of agrarian disputes, and in Champaran and Muzaffarpur, on account of certain anti kine killing disturbances which occurred In 10 cases, as compared with 22 cases in 1894 and 34 cases in 1893, special police were employed In the Resolution issued last year, the views of Government in regard to the appointment of special police were stated, but the Lieutenant Governor notices that in at least three of the cases reported this year, special constables were entertained for periods which appear to have been unduly long The special constables enrolled in the Darbhanga and Sonthal Parganas districts in 1894 were discharged during the year Police were supplied at the cost of private persons in 42 cases against 48, and to the extent of 319 men as compared with 457 in 1894 The largest forces were employed at the Sonepur fair and during the Car Festival of Jagannath in Puri

13 Military Police—The fourth company of Military Police, the formation of which was sanctioned during 1894, took charge of Gnatong in Sikkim during the year, causing an increase of 70 men in the total sanctioned strength The other three companies at Dacca, Dumka, and Bhagalpur were maintained at their former strength, and are reported to have attained a degree of efficiency creditable to the officers responsible for their control During the year some further concessions as to pay and allowances were made by Government to render the Military Police service more popular, and the results have been satisfactory The Lieutenant Governor is pleased to receive the favourable report which Mr Henry has been able to make of the general efficiency of these three companies, and of the interest displayed by the officers in their duties Detachments from the Dumka and Bhagalpur companies were despatched to Bankipore and Motihari during the year in anticipation of possible disturbances in connection with the Bakr id festival

14 District and ordinary reserves —The organisation of the District Police Reserves has been completed, and their behaviour on occasions on which they were employed to maintain order in disturbances of a religious or factious nature is reported to have been commendable They have been completely officered, and have been put through a course of musketry, and the Inspector-General reports them to be everywhere efficient The ordinary reserves are maintained merely to supply vacancies caused by sickness or leave.

		1893		1894		1895
1	Retirement on pension or gratuity	412	1 74 per cent	465	1 98 per cent	383	1 65 per cent
2	Resignation	728	3 09	889	3 70	814	3 31
3	Dismissal	624	2 66	615	2 56	591	2 40
4	Discharge	220	93	161	67	184	74
5	Desertion	42	18	47	19	90	36
6	Death	455	1 93	559	2 33	521	2 14
		2 481	or 10 5	2 736	or 11 4	2 588	or 10 5

The percentage of casualties to sanctioned strength was 10 5 during the year, or 9 per cent less than during the previous year, and the same as in each of the years 1893 and 1892 The total admissions to hospital numbered 11,277, as compared with 11,571 in 1894, and the average daily percentage of sick fell slightly from 1 5 in the preceding year to 1 4 These figures are satisfactory

16 Torture and extortion by the police —Fifteen charges of torture were brought against the police during the year—the same number as in 1894 Of these, 12 proved to be false after judicial enquiry, against 10 pronounced false in the preceding year, and in one no evidence was forthcoming The remaining 2 cases, both of which occurred in the Orissa Division, ended in conviction and punishment The number of cases of extortion reported fell from 127 to 83, of which 11 only ended in conviction, most of them under section 161 or section 341 of the Penal Code In five cases compensation was awarded under section 560, Criminal Procedure Code, and in one case the complainant was convicted under section 211 of the Penal Code Of the total number of extortion cases, 53 were reported from five districts—Mymensingh (24), Dinajpur (8), Bogra (8), Backergunge (7), and Cuttack (6) The Mymensingh district again shows the largest number of cases, but most of them were eventually found to be of a petty nature, and the majority were declared to be false after judicial enquiry The number of cases in the previous year was 44, most of which were also returned as false, and there appeared to be good reason to believe that something like a combined effort had been made in this district to terrorise the police That influence seems to have been still at work in the past year The very small number of charges of torture found to be true, and the decrease in charges of extortion throughout the province, as a whole, indicate an improvement in the working of the police, and the Lieutenant Governor trusts that, with the better class of officers now introduced into the force, continued improvement will be observed in regard to these complaints in the future

	Judicial convictions under the Penal Code			Do under Act V			Departmental punishments
1886	318	10	14	207	3	10	5 096	46 5	17 6
1887	279	5	19	213	3	10	5 137	48 3	17 4
1888	207	13	13	191	2	9	5 149	50 5	17 1
1889	330	12	14	158	3	7	4 997	45 0	17 5
1890	336	11	15	160	2	7	4,823	46 0	16 2
1891	260	9	12	113	3	5	4,294	39 2	14 3
1892	245	7	10	120	1	5	4 223	41 0	14 0
1893	237	4	10	126	3	5	4 853	42 4	16 7
1894	276	5	12	133	03	6	4,638	36 7	15 2
1895	248	4	11	96	1	4	3 893	28 7	13 7

These figures show that the number of convictions under the Penal Code and Police Act has decreased satisfactorily, while the number of officers and men departmentally punished is lower than it has been during the past ten years The percentage of officers punished departmentally fell from 36 7 to 28 7, and that of men from 16 2 to 13 7 In the Resolution recorded last year Sir Charles Elliott gave clear expression to his views on the subject of punishment in the Police Department, and it is satisfactory to observe that the attention which the Inspector General has given to the question has been productive of good results "Too much stress," as Mr Henry says, "cannot be laid upon the injury done by over frequent punishments, officers and men become callous and sullen, and knowing that there is a record of several punishments against them in their service sheets have no incentive to mend their ways and do better work" Since the close of the year the Inspector General has dealt with the subject of degradation as a punishment He states it has hitherto been the practice for District Superintendents to pass orders of degradation without realising their full meaning but that they will in future be required to specify the pecuniary fine which such an order represents, and they have been furnished with figures showing the length of time it takes a subordinate officer to pass from one grade to another, which will enable them to calculate the precise pecuniary effect of their orders

18 Conduct of the police — There can be no doubt that in recent years shortcomings and misconduct on the part of the police have been more promptly and more prominently brought to notice than was the case before Mr Henry observes "Every adverse comment made by subordinate courts upon the conduct of an investigation is at once brought to the notice of the District Superintendent, who is required to take adequate notice, and make such further enquiry as may seem necessary to enable him to pass appropriate orders Adverse comments by the superior courts are specially reported through the District Magistrate, Commissioner, and Inspector General of Police to Government Full enquiry is made in each case with, hitherto, the almost invariable result of exhibiting conflict of opinion as to the wrong doing of the officer complained against These reports demonstrate how difficult it is to gauge motives, and how dangerous it is to draw inferences from even the fairly complete information that is put before a court of justice, when the actual conduct of the Police officer is not the subject of the judicial enquiry, and only comes in as a side issue With the exception perhaps, of England and Scotland, there is no European country in which the Police force is not unpopular, and in this Province all that can be said is that its unpopularity is lessening The Government is making an earnest attempt to secure for Police service, without distinction of caste or creed, the best material available The terms offered are not very liberal, but they are sufficient to attract young men belonging to a respectable class of native society, and if these prove failures, the blame must rest with the community which supplies them I may emphatically assert that no pressure is put upon officers to obtain evidence by undesirable means Every police-station in the Province has a copy of the circular in which the head of the department has explicitly warned officers that they will not be judged by statistical results, but are required to work energetically, with rectitude of purpose and by fair means The complaint against the investigating police is gradually changing form Fewer charges of corruption are preferred, but on the other hand complaints of their incapacity in detecting crime are more frequent They are said to be less capable detectives than their predecessors It appears to me that this latter accusation is not correctly formulated There is no reason to think that their capacity is less, and admittedly they are better educated, but they cannot hope to be as successful with the criminal classes whom they have to fight with less effective weapons All the old means of securing confessions and disclosure of caches of stolen property, and tutoring witnesses are at a discount There are few criminals now who have failed to realise that the powers of a Police officer are strictly defined by law, and that if he exceeds them he can be put in the prisoner's dock The investigating staff in this province is passing through a transition stage, and it would be premature yet to venture an opinion as to the results which the new system of recruitment and the change in working practice will bring about There is a consensus of opinion that, as an agency for the prevention and suppression of organised disturbances of the peace, the Police have proved efficient, and their conduct on many trying occasions has received the commendation of the public" Divisional Commissioners have not dwelt much upon the general conduct of the police in their reports, but, on the whole, Sir Alexander Mackenzie is inclined to think that the demerits of the police have been in many instances magnified, and unfavourable examples of their conduct have been given an exaggerated importance At all events there can no longer be any complaint that full opportunity is not afforded to bring all injustice committed to light All such complaints should be thoroughly investigated by the superior officers and punishment should be meted out where it is necessary, but it is at the same time due to the police that persons bringing false charges against them should not be permitted to do so with impunity if it is possible to secure their punishment In the district of Mymensingh, as already noticed, a combination against the police appears to exist, and 94 formal complaints were made before the Magistrates last year against 74 in 1894 In three cases only under serious sections of the Indian Penal Code were the accused officers found guilty The great majority of the charges are said to have been of no special importance The Lieutenant Governor has recently sanctioned an addition to the number of investigating officers in the district, which will, it is hoped appreciably relieve the great pressure under which the police have been working for some time in certain stations and ensure more satisfactory work generally

19 Inspections.—The Inspector General spent 146 days on tour, and the Deputy Inspectors General 169 and 211 days, respectively, and the head quarters of every district were inspected In Muzaffarpur and Chittagong the District Superintendents do not appear to have paid sufficient attention to inspection work In almost all other districts this duty seems to have been duly attended to The Lieutenant Governor would be glad if the Inspector General would in future reports furnish information as to the number of serious crimes in which local investigation was made by the District Superintendent in person A table might be given for each district under each class of offence in the crime section of the report

Divisions	Police	Population	Cases		Proportion of police to population		Proportion of police to cases		Proportion of cases to population

The total number of cases of cognizable crime, excluding cases in which enquiry was refused under section 157, Criminal Procedure Code, and cases of public and local nuisance, was 91,360 as compared with 92,747 in 1894 and 85,962 in 1893 The proportion of police to cases of cognizable crime, it will be seen from the above statement, is lowest in the Dacca Division, where there was in 1895 one policeman to every 5·8 cases, while the proportion for the whole Province was one to every 3·8 cases, and for the rest of the Province (excluding the Dacca Division) one to every 3·6 cases The proportion of cognizable cases to population was on the other hand higher in this Division than in any other These results for the Division are mainly due to the figures for Mymensingh, which is under policed as compared with other districts Sanction for an increase in the number of investigating officers in the district has been given, as mentioned above

		Percentage of cases investigated to cases reported	Percentage of cases ending in conviction to cases decided	Percentage of persons convicted to persons sent up for trial
Classes I to V taken together	1893	66	74	69
	1894	66	74	68
	1895	67	74	62
Classes I to VI taken together	1893	75	86	75
	1894	75	86	75
	1895	75	85	74

The percentages are almost the same as in the preceding year Bogra again occupies the lowest place in the list of districts arranged according to working results On comparison of these figures with those for the North Western Provinces and Oudh, it appears that the percentage of cases investigated by the police in those Provinces is much smaller than in Bengal, but that the percentage of success in both cases and persons is much higher

1	2	3	4	5
				Seers Ch
1886	105 793	112,664	218,457	20 8
1887	101 969	109,254	211,223	21 11¼
1888	110 357	112 006	222,363	19 9
1889	119 656	117 407	237,063	15 15
1890	117 143	116,854	233 997	17 7
1891	128 472	119 072	247 544	16 8
1892	146,185	121,624	267,809	13 1
1893	137 898	121 490	259 388	13 11
1894	140 902	118,070	258,972	14 19
1895	136,777	125 685	262,462	16 12

The fluctuations in cognizable crime reported, it will be seen from these figures, bear a remarkable relation to the average price of the chief food grain of the Province The slight increase observable in total crime in the past year is due to the larger number of non cognizable cases reported Mr Henry attributes the general increase during the past five years to the better attention given to chaukidari parades, and the fuller use made of the power to decline investigation, which, he says, has encouraged people to report petty occurrences, knowing that these reports will not, as a matter of course be followed by a police enquiry and the harassment incidental thereto The orders of Government authorising the police to abstain from enquiry in certain classes of petty cases, passed in the Resolution on the Annual Report for 1890, and repeated more clearly in the Resolution on the Annual Report for the following year, have no doubt had the effect of increasing the number of cognizable crimes reported During the five years 1886—1890, the average number of cognizable cases reported was 111,044, the average number not enquired into by the police 4,255, and the percentage of cases not enquired into was 3 8, but during the succeeding period of five years, the average number of cognizable cases reported rose to 138,047, while the average number and percentage of cases not enquired into increased in a very much greater proportion to 14,140 and 10 2 per cent, respectively

23 The incidence of total crime both cognizable and non cognizable, according to Divisions, will be seen from the statement below —

Division	Population 1891	Total crime	Number of population to each case	Number of population to each case of cognizable crime	Number of population to each case of non cognizable crime
1	2	3	4	5	6

Grand Total	70 568 141	263 462	269	516	561

These statistics show that taking only cognizable crime, the Burdwan Division is the most criminal, and Chittagong the least Taking non cognizable crime alone, Chittagong is the most criminal, and Chota Nagpur the least criminal, while taking all classes of cases, cognizable and non cognizable, the Burdwan Division shows by far the most in proportion to population, and Chota Nagpur the least

	1891	1892	1893	1894	1895
1	2	3	4	5	6
Number of cases declared to be false	6,631	6,208	6 103	6 634	6,735
Ditto in which prosecution was instituted	1,025	743	725	695	584
Percentage of prosecutions resulting in conviction	37 1	33 1	37 2	29 5	33 3

The number of cases declared false has risen slightly as compared with the figures of the preceding year, but while it is somewhat in excess of the average for the previous ten years (6,390), the number of prosecutions has fallen from an average of 1,076 during the decade 1885—94 to 584, or little more than half Mr Henry says that many reasons combine to diminish the number of prosecutions, the most important being that the Courts everywhere have as much work to do as they can get through, and are, therefore, unwilling to add to it by undertaking prosecutions in these cases This consideration no doubt operates to some extent, but the great diminution in these prosecutions indicates that the necessity for proceeding against persons who wilfully and malignantly bring false charges is being generally overlooked, and the subject demands the special attention of the Magistrates It is satisfactory to observe that the percentage of convictions in the cases which were tried is better than in 1894, but on comparison of the returns district by district, the percentage both of prosecutions and of convictions is seen to vary greatly Jessore and Nadia show success in 71 and 54 per cent respectively of the prosecutions undertaken, while in Dacca, out of 280 cases declared false, only 16 prosecutions were instituted, and only one of these ended in conviction In Darbhanga 191 cases were declared false, in only 7 of which prosecutions were instituted, and none of these ended in conviction

25 Abstention from enquiry in burglary and theft cases —In paragraph 20 above, the degree to which the police used their power of refusal to enquire has been noticed The Inspector General has, in accordance with the practice followed during the past four years, furnished figures separately for house breaking and ordinary theft The returns for 1895 show somewhat less tendency than in the previous years to refuse enquiry, and are to this extent satisfactory, the percentage of burglary cases not enquired into being 28 5, and of theft cases 15 1, as compared with 29 3 per cent and 16 0 per cent, respectively, in 1894 The difficulty, however, of attaining uniformity of practice on the part of different officers in giving effect to such orders as these is strikingly exemplified by the diversity of the returns from different districts In Dinajpur, for instance, 41 per cent of burglaries and 50 per cent of thefts were not investigated, in Bhagalpur 43 per cent of burglaries were not investigated, while in Saran and Monghyr in no less than 56 per cent of such cases no enquiry was made These figures undoubtedly disclose inefficient supervision, and the Magistrates should look into the matter and see that the action of the police is more carefully watched Mr Henry himself is of opinion that too much advantage has been taken of the power of refusal in burglary cases, where the offender may ordinarily be presumed to have had some previous experience in crime, or to have the boldness which is likely to harden him into a professional criminal The Lieutenant Governor agrees with him that enquiry is advisable in many of these cases even when the chance of success appears very remote The contention of many experienced officers which he quotes is sound, namely, that, whether the enquiry proves successful or not, the visit of the police to the spot makes the bad characters realise that the authorities are on the alert, and that they might suffer on a recurrence of crime It is incumbent on the District Superintendents, therefore, to see that their subordinates do not make it a practice to refuse enquiry in all cases in which success seems hopeless Especially is it desirable that enquiry should take place when the recurrence of attempts at burglary or reported thefts shows that bad characters are active in any particular locality

Year.	Convicted—		Total	Acquitted—		Total	Total disposed of	Percentage of conviction	Percentage of acquittals
	By Magistrate	By Sessions		By Magistrate	By Sessions
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

1890	69 673	1 230	70 903	33 771	1 141	34 912	104 715	66 6	33 3
1891	73 389	1 463	74 52	34 538	1 52	35 774	110 7 6	67 7	32 3
1892	84, 08	1 635	85 676	34 444	1 348	35 792	121 468	70 5	29 5
1893	79 029	1 403	81 383	32 044	1 100	33 744	115 129	70 7	29 3
1894	76 443	1 364	77 807	29 534	817	33 351	111 158	70	30
1895	79 831	1 327	74 188	31 707	1 069	32 787	106 975	69 3	30 7

The highest proportion of convictions is again shown by Howrah, the percentage having risen from 91 2 in 1893 and 93 3 in 1894 to 94 5 in 1895 The only other districts showing more than 80 per cent of convictions are Darjeeling (85 4), Murshidabad (82 8), and Patna (80 4) Noakhali (53 8), Dinajpur (53 2), and Lohardaga (52 8) stand last

The results of trials before the Sessions Courts during the year show that 66 3 per cent of cases tried ended in conviction, and that 55 6 per cent of persons tried were convicted, as compared with 70 6 and 62 5 per cent, respectively, in 1894 The results in Champaran, Hazaribagh, Cuttack, Balasore, and Noakhali are good, but in Dinajpur, Bankura, Birbhum, Manbhum, Burdwan, and Mymensingh they are very unfavourable, and lead to the conclusion that proper enquiry was not always made in cases committed to the Sessions There was a marked improvement in Backergunge, which is attributed in part to the care and interest taken in the prosecution by both the Senior and the Junior Government Pleaders The Lieutenant Governor must again call the attention of Magistrates to the remarks made in Sir Charles Elliott's Resolution on the Report for 1893 that "one of the chief causes of the breakdown of cases at the Sessions is the failure on the part of Magistrates to sufficiently realise that it is a duty they owe to the accused to thoroughly sift cases before commitment, carefully scrutinising police diaries, and clearing up discrepancies in cases where the accused are ultimately committed for trial" In important cases more use should be made of the services of the Government Pleader in the Magistrate's Court, and the record of every case committed should always be laid at once before that officer in order that he may have an opportunity of indicating any flaw in the evidence which it might be possible to supplement

Sir Alexander Mackenzie has found reason to doubt whether the District Magistrates nowadays are sufficiently in touch with their District Superintendents, and police work generally They seldom themselves try cases, and there is therefore no reason, even on the strictest theory of separation of judicial and executive functions, why they should not control and direct, more actively than they often do, the investigation of serious crime They are also bound to exercise a close supervision over the work of their subordinate Magistrates of all grades They can and ought to do this without in any way interfering improperly with the judicial independence of their subordinates in individual cases But it is their clear duty to point out mistakes in procedure, flaws in judicial enquiries, and inefficiency in dealing with crime of every description The District Magistrate is, in short, responsible for the whole standard of criminal work in his district, and the returns show that much has to be done in Bengal to bring that standard up to a satisfactory level

27 The total value of property stolen during the year is returned at Rs 14,58,618, as compared with Rs 14,31,191 in 1894, and the percentage recovered as 17 2 against 17 9 in the previous year These figures are, as the Inspector General remarks, lamentably low, and compare very unfavourably with those of other Provinces In 1894, the percentage in the North Western Provinces and Oudh was 31 47, in the Panjab 37 0, and in Bombay and Sind 44 0 Not only is the percentage extremely low as compared with other Provinces, but it appears to have fallen in a very unsatisfactory manner during the past twenty years in this Province In 1870 75 it was over 30 per cent on the average, but since then it has fallen with various fluctuations till it has reached the lowest figure (17 2) during the past year

Analysis of crime by classes

True cases

		1888	1889	1890	1891	1892	1893	1894	1895
Class	I	2 872	2 815	2 874	2 765	2 817	2 843	2 892	2 772
	II	4 623	4 702	4 340	4 824	4 666	4 563	4 794	5 146
	III	25 247	27 824	5 085	28 488	39 975	31 453	34 094	33 570
	IV	2 406	2 334	2 210	2 420	2 268	2 082	2 413	2 627
	V	38 381	41 032	38 078	39 841	44 870	43 098	45 393	41 423

There has been a small increase under classes II and IV, while a considerable decrease has occurred under classes V and VI, chiefly under the serials "Ordinary theft" and 'Public and local nuisances"

29 Class I —Offences against the State and public tranquillity —Offences under this class show a net decrease of 120 cases Of 132 cases relating to coins, stamps, &c, only 29 were of importance, the remainder being chiefly cases of passing quicksilvered pice Of these 29 cases, 28 were detected, 9 ending in acquittal or discharge, and 19 in conviction The most important cases occurred in Khulna, Faridpur, Tippera, Noakhali, and Monghyr, all of which ended in conviction, and one in Jalpaiguri, which was pending before the Sessions at the close of the year The Inspector General believes that false coining continues in Dacca, Mymensingh, Tippera, Khulna, and Noakhali, while a number of spurious coins discovered in the Cuttack Treasury indicate that counterfeiting is being carried on in that district as well Vigorous efforts must be made to trace the parties concerned in these offences

The number of cases of rioting fell from 2,537 to 2,429 the Burdwan and Chota Nagpur Divisions alone showing an increase There has been very little fluctuation in the figures under this heading during the past 10 years Several important cases of rioting occurred in the Hooghly 24 Parganas, and Howrah districts, in which the mill employés were concerned The gradual increase of industrial centres along both banks of the Hooghly and the outbreak of these disturbances called for the adoption of further measures for police protection, and as a result of an enquiry made by the Inspector General in conference with the Indian Jute Manufactures Association, Government sanctioned an additional police establishment for the riverine municipalities The Dacca Division, as usual, shows much the largest number of rioting cases, but there is a satisfactory decrease from the figures of the preceding year, due to a great falling off in Mymensingh, where rioting cases fell from 204 in 1894 to 93 The following districts of Eastern Bengal, in which agrarian disputes resulting in violence have long been most prevalent, show the largest number of cases attended with loss of life —Faridpur (11) Khulna (10), Backergunge (7), Mymensingh (7), and Dacca (6) In the district of Mymensingh no less than 4,196 persons were bound down to keep the peace, as compared with 1,090 in 1894 These measures appear to account for the great reduction in cases of rioting, but they can have at best but a temporary effect, and do not prevent the recrudescence of agrarian disputes The Lieutenant Governor agrees with the Inspector General that in most cases information regarding pending riots ought to be more generally forthcoming than is now the case, and Magistrates must use effectively the powers given them by law, and insist on landholders and their agents and on panchayats and chaukidars doing their duty It is also important, as Mr Henry points out, after the original case is disposed of, to persevere in following up persons implicated who abscond and are not arrested at first It was represented to His Honour on tour that the provisions of section 145, Criminal Procedure Code, are not sufficient to enable Magistrates to deal with the most common cause of riots in the Eastern districts, where a valuable char becomes the subject of dispute between rival claimants, neither of whom can establish the fact of actual possession It was urged that the Magistrate should have power after summary enquiry to put one or other of the contending parties in possession This is a point which may well be considered in connection with the revision of the Code

30 Class II—Serious offences against the person—An increase of 302 true cases occurred in this class, chiefly under the head "Hurt by dangerous weapon" Of 7,106 persons sent up for trial, 1,123 were committed to the Sessions Courts, 50 8 per cent of whom were convicted, as compared with 56 5 per cent in 1894 The number of true cases of murder rose from 362 to 389, while the percentage of convictions to persons tried fell from 25 0 in 1893 and 20 7 in 1 94 to 18 0 Of 365 cases of murder returned as true by the police, 231 were detected, and 118 undetected, and in 16 the murderers committed suicide Of the 231 cases sent up for trial, 176 were committed to the Sessions, 79 ending in conviction and 81 in acquittal The percentage of cases ending in conviction to cases tried at the Sessions was 38 3 against 37 9 in 1894, and the percentage of persons convicted to persons tried 44 7, against 35 9

Of the 5,146 true cases reported during the year under this class of crime, no fewer than 1,358, or more than one fourth, are returned from the Dacca Division, the majority of these again occurring in the districts of Backergunge (480) and Mymensingh (429) Mr Henry dwells at some length in his report upon the marked increase of murders in recent years in the Backergunge district, where in 1894 there were 63 true cases 13 being by gunshot, and in 1895, 73 true cases, 22 of which were by gunshot Of these 73 cases, the police failed to detect 38, but of the latter, 21 were gunshot assassinations committed at night and under circumstances which in the opinion of the Inspector General precluded the possibility of successful investigation, unless the residents of the neighbourhood had co operated vigorously The condition of this district has engaged the anxious attention of the Government for some time In October last, the late Lieutenant Governor sanctioned the addition of four Inspectors to the investigating staff in the hope that a marked improvement would result in the detection of the numerous murders, especially those by gunshot, but no appreciable success has been attained, and measures of a stringent character have become indispensable No less than 50 murders have been committed in the past half year, of which 12 were by gunshot The Lieutenant-Governor fully enquired into the situation and conferred with the local officers recently and he is satisfied that the withdrawal of all licenses for guns and for the sale of ammunition, and the adoption of other steps which will tend to secure the co operation of the landholders and other classes with the authorities, are the measures most likely to have speedy effect in suppressing this very serious outbreak of homicidal crime It is, at any rate, necessary that they should be tried The use of guns at night during the past few years appears to be mainly due to the immunity which it affords from detection, and the conviction of a few offenders will doubtless have the best deterrent effect There can be no doubt that the judicial immunity which has followed on murder in Backergunge has been the chief cause of its increase A copy of the Lieutenant Governor's orders in regard to Backergunge is attached to this Resolution The results generally in murder cases are, as the Inspector General remarks, worse in Bengal than in any other Province of India "To what extent" (Mr Henry writes) "responsibility for this state of things should be divided between the police, Magistrates, Judges, and the general public who, through lack of public spirit or dread of reprisals, either do not assist, or thwart the executive in their endeavours to bring murderers to justice, it is not easy to determine Coincident with a gradual increase of murders in this Province there has been a decrease in the number of capital sentences carried into effect, the figures for the five years ending 1895 being 37, 32, 30, 20 and 11, respectively" The Lieutenant Governor would suggest that some good might result from placing a selected Inspector or Sub Inspector on special detective duty, to work out any serious case that presented at the outset exceptional difficulty, relieving him of all other duty and rewarding liberally successful detection Experience does not warrant recourse to the device of a central detective establishment but every District Magistrate and Superintendent should endeavour to stimulate and develop detective ability among the local investigating staff For the rest, closer supervision by the superior staff, Police and Magistracy, and more careful enquiry in the Committing Court, must be constantly kept in view

Of 14 persons sent up for trial in drugging cases during the year, 7 were convicted The Inspector General refers to one case in which the accused, an old offender, was identified through the medium of anthropometry, and was convicted in three cases in Dacca, receiving a cumulative sentence of eight years' imprisonment, and was under trial at the close of the year before the Sessions Court at Darbhanga on a similar charge of drugging at Samastipur in that district Three cases occurred of murder by dacoits, the worst being one reported from the Purnea district, in which dacoits to the number of 40 or 50 burnt their victim to death with the object, probably, of forcing him to disclose where his property lay concealed No satisfactory evidence was obtainable, and the case fell through

31 Class III —Serious offences against property —This class shows a net decrease of 524 cases, due to the smaller number of cases of lurking house trespass and house breaking The only important increase was under the head "Serious mischief and cognate offences" The number of cases of dacoity rose from 236 to 260 Of these, the police detected and sent up for trial 102 cases with 546 persons The percentage of cases ending in conviction and persons convicted to cases and persons tried are the best on record, being 65 6 and 52 3, respectively, against 63 9 and 47 7 in 1894, and 48 6 and 36 7 in 1893 Although the number of persons convicted of dacoity during the five years ending 1895 is larger than the total number convicted during the decade ending 1890, the crime appears to be steadily increasing, and, with the exception of the year 1892, has reached a higher figure than in any year since the year 1874 Part of the increase, however, is probably due to the inclusion under this class of many offences which are not really of a very serious character, but are technically "dacoity" because committed by five or more persons The Lieutenant Governor fears that there is truth in the theory that the lenient sentences passed nowadays in dacoity cases have something to say to the increase of this crime Crime is naturally and equally stimulated when convictions cease to be secured and when sentences cease to be deterrent During the year three cases under section 400, Indian Penal Code, were instituted against some 80 persons for being habitually associated to commit dacoity, and one case has been disposed of since the close of the year, 20 accused being sentenced to transportation for life The Inspector General describes the special measures which have been taken for dealing with this crime, and they appear to the Lieutenant Governor judicious and useful They should be strictly adhered to by all officers concerned The districts from which most true dacoities are reported are—Midnapore and Gaya (20 each), Bogra (18), Pabna (17), Purnea (16), Backergunge (13), and Hooghly (12)

The total number of cases of robbery was 238, against 225 in 1894 and 184 in 1893 This crime also has increased considerably during the last five years, and in the past year has reached a higher figure than it has done since 1874 The Patna Division returns the largest number of cases (41), and then come Dacca and Rajshahi (32 each) Mischief by fire accounts for 561 true cases against 458 in 1894 and an average of 391 during the ten years 1885—94 It does not appear from the report in what districts the increase chiefly occurred

32 Class IV—Minor offences against the person—The number of true cases in this class fell from 2,412 to 2,387 The largest number of cases is reported from the Dacca Division, and the smallest from Orissa The percentage of persons convicted to persons brought to trial was 27 4 against 27 6 in 1894, the best results being obtained in the Chittagong Division and the worst in the Patna Division

33 Class V—Minor offences against property—A decrease of 4,808 true cases is shown under this class, chiefly under ordinary theft (3,227) and lurking house trespass, &c (869) Of house breaking cases, the police detected rather less than 10 per cent, and under 5 per cent ended in conviction In theft cases some 27 per cent of those reported were prosecuted to conviction Of the total number of true burglary cases reported (31,972), 9,427, or more than one fourth, are returned from the Patna Division, where this crime continues to be more prevalent than elsewhere, owing no doubt to the congested population and the hereditary proclivities of certain castes which are most largely represented in that Division While the number of cases reported in the Division decreased, the percentages of persons and cases convicted were lower than in the previous year The results in the Rajshahi Division are again the worst in the province Mr Henry ascribes this partly to inefficient police administration, especially in the districts of Dinajpur, Bogra, and Pabna, and partly to the unsatisfactory condition of the village watch The attention of the local officers will be drawn to these remarks

True cases of ordinary theft fell from 30,453 to 27,226 Including cattle theft, the number of cases reported was 32,276 against 35,423 in 1894, and the percentage of convictions to cases reported fell from 26 2 to 23 7

34 Class VI—All other cases—The total number of cases under this class was 44,851, or very nearly the same as last year The number of bad livelihood cases increased from 2,806 to 3,289 Judicial results were satisfactory, 76 per cent of the cases decided ending in security being demanded, as compared with 76 5 per cent and 72 per cent in 1894 and 1893 respectively More than half the total number of cases were instituted in the Patna and Dacca Divisions In Murshidabad, Pabna, Dacca, Tippera, and Noakhali great delay occurred in the disposal of these cases The Government has on previous occasions drawn attention to the results of such delay, and the Lieutenant Governor expects the cases to be more expeditiously dealt with in future His Honour also considers that a larger proportion of the cases should be enquired into in the villages of the accused The Patna Division especially shows badly in this respect An excellent effect is produced on the bad characters when these enquiries are made locally by the District and Subdivisional Magistrates in the course of their tours In the Rajshahi Division, where the total number of cases of burglary (including attempts) and theft reported was only exceeded by that in the Patna Division, sufficient recourse was evidently not had to the preventive sections of the law In Jalpaiguri and Pabna the results are particularly bad, only 14 and 20 prosecutions for bad livelihood having been instituted, respectively, and of these only 5 and 7 ended in conviction There can be no doubt that section 110 of the present Criminal Procedure Code is defective in the omission from its purview of the dangerous characters whose cases were met by sections 565 and 566 of the Code of 1872 The number of persons shown on the registers as under surveillance at the close of the year was 42,080 as compared with 40,773 at the close of the previous year

35 Railway Police —The number of cognizable and non cognizable cases reported during the year was 3,575 against 3,390 in 1894 Of 3,076 persons sent up for trial, 2,699, or 87 7 per cent , were convicted, against 85 0 per cent in the previous year In cognizable cases 85 3 per cent of persons tried were convicted, against 84 9 per cent in 1894 These results are very satisfactory and reflect credit upon the working of the Railway Police There were 388 accidents with 214 deaths, as compared with 380 and 196, respectively, in 1894 Five cases of obstruction numbered 33 against 25 in 1894 and 31 in 1893 17 cases were sent up for trial, of which 13 ended in conviction Most of these cases are reported to have been petty One serious case which occurred in 1894 was successfully detected during the year, and the accused was sentenced to transportation for life

36 Working of the Arms Act —The orders passed by this Government in 1894 to facilitate the renewal of licenses are shown to have worked well in the Dacca Division During the year, instructions were issued directing that all guns for which licenses were granted should be marked by punching consecutive numbers on the stocks to enable identification Attention should be constantly given in all districts to the systematic working of the Act in accordance with these orders and instructions The returns received would show that diversity of practice exists Prosecutions were more resorted to during the year, the number of persons fined for breaches of the Act, including the figures for Calcutta, having risen from 1,276 to 2,308, more than half of this number being returned from the three districts, Purnea, Mymensingh, and Rangpur The Lieutenant Governor is not sure that judgment has always been shown in ordering prosecutions Compliance with the law and rules must be insisted on, but it should ordinarily be sufficient to deal with petty omissions, such as neglect to apply in time for renewal of licenses, by a few prosecutions as a warning to licensees generally In the Backergunge district 11 sentences of imprisonment were passed, against 25 in the preceding year The increase in gun shot murders in this district during recent years has rendered severe measures imperative

37 Non cognizable crime —The total non cognizable crime under the several classes for the year 1895 is compared with that of the previous year in the following table —

		Number of cases		Increase	Decrease
		1894	1895
Class	I	9 239	9 665	426
	II	31	28		3
	III	898	882		16
	IV	54 825	59 361	4 536
	V	10 677	10 369		308
	VI	11 996	14,312	316
Special laws		28 404	31 068	2 664
	Total	118 070	125 685	7 942	327
			Net increase	7 615

There has been a net increase of 7,615 cases, chiefly under Class IV and "Special laws" Under the former the increase is in "Criminal force" (3,115) and "Voluntarily causing hurt" (1,457) The police were employed in 4 2 per cent of non cognizable cases, against 5 0 per cent in 1894 Of 87,321 persons actually tried during the year, 50,780, or 58 2 per cent , were convicted, and 36,541, or 41 8 per cent , acquitted The worst results are shown in the Orissa and Chota Nagpur Divisions, where the number of acquittals exceeded the number of convictions In the Patna Division there has been an improvement over the figures of the preceding year, but in Champaran and Muzaffarpur acquittals again preponderate The preponderance of acquittals indicates, as a general rule, insufficient care in examining the complainants for the purpose of eliciting the true facts, and, in consequence, the improper issue of process against the accused, and it is not, therefore, creditable to the Magistrates concerned In the following districts less than 70 per cent of persons summoned actually appeared —Noakhali (69 8), Birbhum (66 8), Murshidabad (65 2), Dacca (65 2), Purnea (61 3), and Tippera (55 3)

38 Remands —The following table shows the percentage of remands in Magistrates' Courts in police cases sent up for trial during the past three years —

	Percentage of cases disposed of at the first hearing	Percentage of cases remanded once	Percentage of cases remanded twice	Percentage of cases remanded three times	Percentage of cases remanded four times	Percentage of cases remanded six times	Percentage of cases remanded more than six times	Period
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
1893	58 8	24 5	15 5	9 1	7 2	2 6	1 3	1 8	2 4
1894	55 7	24 1	15 0	9 4	5 0	3 1	1 8	2 1	2 8
1895	54 9	23 5	15 1	9 9	6 0	3 5	2 2	3 0	2 7

The Lieutenant Governor regrets to notice a steady decrease during the past three years in the number of cases disposed of at the first two hearings The worst returns in this respect are from the Shahabad, Rangpur, Backergunge, Monghyr, and Lohardaga districts, in all of which the percentage of cases disposed of at the first two hearings was under 40 The Darjeeling and Hooghly districts again show the best returns, with over 86 2 and 84 3 per cent of cases disposed of at the first two hearings The general percentage for the province has fallen from 59 8 to 57 3 This matter of remands is one of those points in which the supervision of the District Magistrate over the work of his subordinates should be unremitting The Inspector General draws attention to a difference of practice in registering remands, some officers considering that when a case goes on de die in diem for several days there is no remand until it is adjourned over a specific period to some future date On the whole, the Lieutenant Governor thinks it safest, looking to the character of most cases, to treat each day under trial after the first as a remand, explanation being given of the number of cases which were tried on consecutive days The percentage of previous convictions proved against persons convicted under Chapter XVII of the Penal Code has risen slightly from 9 9 to 10 0 per cent Excluding Calcutta Police and Railway Police figures, 109 previous convictions were established by means of anthropometry against 110 in 1894

39 Anthropometry —During the year 1895 the Central Police Office was able to furnish the criminal history of 207 ex convicts whom the local police had failed to identify Of these successful cases, 1 was from Assam, 44 from the area under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, and 162 from the districts of Bengal Of 641 persons in Bengal districts whom the local police were unable to identify after full enquiry, 162, or 25 per cent, were recognised by means of anthropometry During 1894 the total number of persons identified by this means was 143, or 21 per cent of the total number registered as unidentified, and during 1895 it was 207, or 27 per cent These figures afford further testimony of the success with which the system has been worked in this province Mr Henry anticipates that the substitution of finger impressions for measurements, if a satisfactory system of classifying them could be devised, would yield even better results, and the subject is receiving his attention He has since the close of the year issued a circular, illustrated by diagrams, explaining the details of the patterns which appear in finger impressions, with instructions for their decipherment

40 Character of Officers —The Inspector General again records his obligations to Messrs Giles and Pratt, the Deputy Inspectors General, for the zeal and energy with which they performed their duties during the year Of Mr Showers, his Personal Assistant, Mr Henry also again speaks very highly The names of the District Superintendents, Assistant Superintendents and Inspectors favourably mentioned in paragraph 41 of the report will be noted in the Appointment Department The thanks of Government are due to Mr Henry himself for his zealous and efficient administration of the department during the year

ORDER.—Ordered that copies of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector General of Police, the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, and to all Commissioners of Divisions, for information

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette

By order of the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal,

C W BOLTON,

Offg Chief Secretary to the Govt of Bengal

No 4770J, dated Calcutta, the 22nd August 1896

From—C W BOLTON, Esq, Offg Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal,
To—The Commissioner of the Dacca Division

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No A, dated the 8th instant, reporting on the subject of the murders in Backergunge, which has for some time past engaged the anxious attention of the Government You submit copies of reports from the Magistrate of the district and the District Superintendent of Police, with statements showing the number of gun shot and other murders committed in the past half year and how the cases had been dealt with up to the end of that period, and furnishing particulars on other points The Lieutenant Governor visited Barisal recently, the chief object of his visit being to confer with yourself and the local officers on the great increase of murders in the district, and the decisions arrived at on various matters discussed at the conference held on the 7th instant will be noted in the following observations and orders, which I am now to communicate to you

2 The Lieutenant Governor has read with interest Mr Beatson Bell's account of crime in Backergunge He agrees with you that neither the spread of education, nor the introduction of the Tenancy Act, nor the suppression of rioting, will account for the present epidemic of murder The district has, as Mr Bell shows, always been notorious for its lawlessness, and there can be little doubt that it is the impunity which has of late years unfortunately attended the commission of serious crime that has been the chief cause of the present state of things

3 The Lieutenant Governor regrets to find that there are as yet few or no signs of improvement An analysis of the statement of murders committed in the past half year gives the following results —

MURDERS IN WHICH GUNS WERE USED

Connected with riot—

1 case In this case the accused persons were sent up by the police under section 326, Indian Penal Code (voluntarily causing grievous hurt by a dangerous weapon), but were discharged by the Magistrate

Unconnected with riots—

11 cases In six cases the police obtained no evidence In the remaining five accused persons were sent up They were discharged by the Magistrate in two cases, and in three they were committed to the Sessions It is understood that in one case the accused has since been convicted and sentenced to death, and that the sentence awaits the confirmation of the High Court The other cases are pending

MURDERS IN WHICH GUNS WERE NOT USED

Connected with riots—

9 cases In two cases the investigations had not been completed by the police In the remaining cases accused persons were sent up, and they were all committed to the Sessions There was a conviction by the Judge in one case under sections 147, 148, and 326, Indian Penal Code, and the other cases were pending.

Unconnected with riots—

29 cases One case was still under investigation by the police In six cases no evidence was obtained Accused persons were sent up in the remaining 22 cases, but were discharged by the Magistrate in three cases Nineteen cases were committed to the Sessions, five of which were disposed of within the half year, the accused being convicted in two and acquitted in three Fourteen cases remained pending

It appears that there were also 10 attempts to murder with guns, but particulars of those cases have not been furnished The motive for the majority of the murders is found in land disputes and quarrels about women

The number of cases pending before the Sessions at the close of the half year was large, this being partly attributable to the temporary absence of the Additional Judge at Dacca, where his services were required, but the Lieutenant Governor was informed that many cases have since been disposed of at Barisal, and that the two Judges expect to finish the rest by the end of September A report of the result of the trials should then be submitted

4 Compared with the figures for the year 1895, the number of gunshot murders in the half year shows a decrease of 5 The number of attempts to murder with guns also fell off by 2 The decrease under both heads is satisfactory, but the number of cases was still very great, and it would be unwise to assume that the tendency to diminish will continue The number of other murders, again, was very large, and the total of all murders (including gunshot) rose to 50 for the half year against 73 for the entire year 1895 These figures bear deplorable evidence of the slight regard for human life which exists in the lower classes of the population, and of the state of terror which must prevail in certain parts, if not throughout the district Crimes of violence have always been very common in Backergunge, and the number of murders committed has at various times led to proposals for special measures, including the disarming of the district The present increase of murders is perhaps more serious than any on record, and the use of guns within recent years is a feature which seriously aggravates the situation It would seem that this weapon has been resorted to as affording at night the best chance of escape from detection In such cases evidence is rarely procurable, and in the very few cases in which convictions have been obtained the accused have been acquitted on appeal Save in the two cases mentioned by the District Superintendent, no assistance has been received from the landholders and their servants or the people generally The people have not manifested that readiness to co operate with the authorities which the Government has the right to expect and which would have been so helpful The appointment of Special Inspectors to the district has been attended with some degree of success, especially in the imprisonment of bad characters, but the Lieutenant Governor is satisfied that the very serious state of things still prevailing demands further and more stringent action

5 After the fullest consideration His Honour has been constrained to accept the view, which you support, that all licenses for firearms now current in the district should be recalled and cancelled In one case, at least, a licensed gun was found to have been used for committing a murder, and it is probable that such guns have been used in other cases The withdrawal of all licenses will, it is anticipated, simplify the detection of guns which are at present held, it is believed in large numbers, without license The measure has been strongly urged by the Inspector General of Police and other authorities, and the Lieutenant Governor considers that the time has come to give it a fair trial It is obviously necessary to withdraw also licenses for the sale or repair of firearms and for the sale of ammunition A notification under section 18 of the Indian Arms Act, XI of 1878, will accordingly be issued, with effect from the 1st September The Magistrate of the district will, with reference to section 16, fix such time as may be necessary for the depositing of the guns at the nearest police station When all have been deposited, the arms should be brought into Barisal and there stored, arrangement being made for keeping them clean and safe from damage You suggest that licenses may be allowed for guns which are kept at zamindars' cutcherries for self defence and for forwarding treasure from place to place The Lieutenant Governor thinks it unnecessary to allow any such exception It will suffice if cutcheiry and treasure guards are armed with swords and spears The cancellation of licenses will not, it must be remembered, affect the exemptions under the rules in force It is desirable, however, that some guns should be allowed for protection against wild animals For this purpose it was decided at the conference, as a condition attaching to the withdrawal of licenses, that, if practicable, Government rifles with suitable ammunition, being of a kind that could not be supplemented by private purchase, should be supplied to the collecting members of the Chaukidari Panchayets under the conditions proposed by the Magistrate in his report You recommend also that licenses for the manufacture of fireworks be withdrawn on the ground that they provide facilities for the supply of gunpowder These licenses have, it is assumed, been granted under the Indian Explosives' Act IV of 1884, and a notification under section 18 of the Indian Arms Act would not apply to them I am to request that a further report may be submitted on the question of withdrawing them It should be considered whether they might not be granted for special occasions, under restrictions which will prevent any gunpowder passing into other hands than those of the manufacturer

6 The other measures which you propose are that the regular police of the district should be strengthened, that more Muhammadan officers should be employed for the investigation of crime, and more boats should be supplied, that the patrols should be better organised, and that the rural police should be increased to the maximum statutory number It was decided at the conference that the Inspector General of Police should be requested to reconsider the whole question of patrols and of supplying boats to the police, and that the Magistrate of the district should be authorised to raise the number of chaukidars to the maximum, especially in those villages in which serious crime has occurred The Magistrate should be informed that he is at liberty to take such action whenever he deems it necessary The question of increasing the regular police and having more Muhammadan investigating officers will be referred to the Inspector General of Police for report The Lieutenant Governor observes, however that in September last both Mr Ryland and Mr Henry were of opinion that the police force was adequate and the number of investigating officers has since then been greatly strengthened The attention of the Inspector General of Police will be also drawn to the extraordinary increase in reported serious crime of all kinds, and he will be desired to submit his remarks on the subject The Government cannot at present undertake operations, as suggested by Mr Bell, under section 112 of the Tenancy Act, nor is the Lieutenant Governor satisfied that they are called for, or would be effectual in stopping homicides

7 It was further decided at the conference that panchayets and chaukidars should have persistent pressure brought to bear upon them to induce or compel them to perform the duties imposed on them by the law and that those rendering material assistance to the police in the detection of crime should be liberally rewarded, and that zamindars who assist the police should be thanked by special letter These decisions should be acted upon The zamindars can be formally thanked by the Magistrate of the district, and in the more conspicuous cases by yourself, all such instances being reported periodically for the information of Government It was further decided that a circular notice to the zamindars and their principal servants should be prepared, intimating that the lawlessness prevailing in the district is receiving the serious attention of the Government, calling on them to give to the Magistrates and the police all assistance possible to facilitate the detection of crime and the conviction of offenders, and warning them, that, unless such assistance is received, it may become necessary to adopt further measures of an exceptional and very stringent character for the suppression of crime This circular will be in the vernacular and will bear the Chief Secretary's signature Copies will shortly be forwarded for issue by the Magistrate in cases where this appears to him desirable

8 The Lieutenant-Governor has above stated that he concurs in the view that the chief cause of the rapid increase of murders in the district has been the judicial impunity which has attended their commission No doubt this has been due in large measure to the inadequacy of the police investigation, but it is the duty of the Magistracy to correct this as far as practicable, and to see that all available evidence is supplied, and commitments to the Sessions made in a complete and satisfactory form To this end it would seem to be desirable to employ the Government Pleaders more freely in the lower Courts Any professional assistance that may be required to enable them to undertake this duty will be sanctioned on your recommendation One probable cause of the failure of cases at Sessions has been the long delays between commitments and trial, but, as stated in paragraph 3 above, it is hoped that these will not recur If, however, there is the same failure of justice in the future, as has unfortunately been the case in the past, it will be a question whether power should not be taken to appoint a special Commission to deal finally with these offences on the spot while the evidence is fresh, and to give it the powers required to enable it to stamp out such crimes It may also be necessary to adopt those provisions of the Burma Village Acts which make the community responsible for undetected crime and for failure to assist the police in its detection and suppression An early opportunity will be taken of urging upon the Government of India the amendment of section 110 of the Criminal Procedure Code, with a view to restore the power of the Magistracy of dealing preventively with "dangerous characters" and "village ruffians" known and recognised as such by their neighbours Meantime the District Magistrate must make the best use he can of the powers given him by the law as it stands He must closely supervise and direct the work of the police, and give as much of his personal attention as practicable to the suppression of crime and restoration of order The Lieutenant Governor is satisfied that both Mr Beatson Bell and Mr Ryland are fully alive to their responsibilities and doing their best

9 I am to request that a further report similar to the present one may be submitted for the entire year as early as possible after the end of December next, and that in the meantime the action taken upon the orders now issued may in due course be reported

WORKING OF THE LICENSED WAREHOUSE AND FIRE BRIGADE ACT I OF 1893 IN THE HOWRAH MUNICIPALITY DURING THE YEAR 1895 96

No 2774M , the 1st September 1896 —The following report is published for general information, in accordance with the provisions of section 41 of the Licensed Warehouse and Fire Brigade Act, I of 1893

H H RISLEY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal

No 632M dated Burdwan, the 24th August 1896

From—G STEVENSON Esq Offg Commissioner of the Burdwan Division
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal Municipal Department

I HAVE the honour to submit a printed copy of the Annual Report on the working of the Jute Warehouse and Fire Brigade Acts within the Howrah Municipality during the year 1895 96

The mean pressure, temperature &c, are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self registering thermometers All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86, formerly at the Surveyor General's Office

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph

IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT

The 7th September 1896

No 169—Notification—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal is pleased to make the following modifications in rule 2 of the rules passed by him under the provisions of sections XI and XII of Act V (B C) of 1864 in Notification No 151 of the 6th June 1893, for the Calcutta Canals and Tolly's Nala with effect from 1st October 1896

2nd and 29th July and 5th 12th 19th and 26th August 1896

A draft of the modifications was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the dates noted in the margin as Notification No 142 dated the 21st July 1896

2 Vessels for the purposes of measurement of tonnage shall be divided into two classes as below —

Class I—To include all steamers, flats and barges, and such other square built boats as should, in the opinion of the Supervisor, be included

Class II—To include all vessels of the usual native types of build

The net tonnage of every vessel whether laden or empty, shall for the purposes of Act V (B C) of 1864 and of these rules, be determined by the following measurements —

Class II —

A—The product of quarter the length of the vessel from stem to stern measured along the water line multiplied by the interior greatest breadth of the vessel, multiplied by the depth from the water line to the bottom of the vessel, is to be taken as equal to the number of maunds upon which toll shall be levied

B—The measurement of the length is to be made in feet, rejecting inches the measurement of the breadth and depth is to be made in feet and quarters of a foot, rejecting portions of less than a quarter of a foot in net depth

C—In calculating the amount of toll to be levied, any portion of 100 maunds less than 12½ maunds is to be omitted In the case of boats exceeding 500 maunds by measurement, any fraction of 100 maunds, less than 50 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 50 maunds, is to be charged as 50 maunds only

D—Provided that in the case of vessels which entered the canals at Chitpore, Kidderpore and Chetla empty for the purpose of loading therein, the depth shall be measured from the line of usual immersion, as visible on the outside of the vessel to the bottom of the vessel, and not from the line of actual immersion at the time of measurement

For Class I the tonnage as obtained by the system of measurement for Class II shall be increased by one half For vessels above 5,000 maunds measurement of this class any fraction of 1,000 maunds, less than 500 maunds, is to be omitted, and, exceeding 500 maunds, to be charged as 500 maunds only In the case of steamers, the tonnage determined as above shall be reduced by one third as an allowance for engine space

For approved Firms constantly engaged in traffic, the way bills on board a vessel of Class I certified to shew the total actual weight of cargo carried, will be accepted as the basis for assessment of tolls
